sen first arrived in England, April 4, from where she journeyed to France. The WACs were equipped with full packs, gas masks and bed rolls.

The news of her arrival in the liberated city was first announced in an evening newscast Sept. 21. Mrs. L. M. Larsen, her mother, failed to hear the news so it wasn't until friends informed her that she knew of her daughter's journey.

In the French capitol the WACs will serve as jeep drivers, telephone operators, interpreters, statisticians, secretaries and draftswomen.

On the campus Miss Larsen was a member of Towne club.

Home Ec Staff Gains Two New Instructors

Recent appointees to the home economics staff of the university include Miss Helen Wheeling, chairman of the family economics division, and Miss Florence Smith, head of institution administration.

Miss Wheeling replaces Miss Margaret Liston, who was granted a year's leave of absence to complete work on her doctor's degree at the University of Chicago. Miss Wheeling, a former county home demonstration agent, received a master's degree at the University of Nebraska.

Miss Smith will fill the position vacated by Miss Jessie Amos, who has taken a position in Detroit. She received a bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Minnesota and has taken additional graduate work at Columbia university in New York.

The new director of institutional work has taught at Trinity university in Texas and Martha Washington college in Virginia. She served as a dietitian in a Montana hospital for several years and has more recently been a foods instructor on the Nebraska campus. Her new duties include the management of the ag campus cafeteria.

UN Forum of Air Starts Broadcasts For Second Year

The University of Nebraska Forum of the Air began the second year of its ether career with a broadcast Saturday afternoon. Taking part in the discussion of "What Is Nebraska's Interest in International Trade?" were Carl L. Nelson, professor of business organization, and Curtis M. Elliott, professor of economics and insurance.

Former Professor Earl S. Fullbrook, now executive manager of the Lincoln chamber of commerce, also participated in the discussion, and Karl M. Arndt of the economics department served as moderator. The program is aired each Saturday at 5 o'clock over KFAB.

Present Book News.

News and views of the literary world will be presented weekly on the Book Nook News, sponsored by the speech department every Thursday, beginning Oct. 5. The time is uncertain and will be announced soon.

Producing these two programs is William S. Morgan, instructor in radio. Mr. Morgan, formerly director of radio programs for the Houston, Tex., public schools, comes to Lincoln with a record of both experience and study in this field. He attended Baker university, Baldwin, Kas., and received his bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee. He took his master's degree at Southwest State Teachers college, San Marcos, Tex. He has also studied at Northwestern.

Lt. Aaron Boom Visits Campus; Is Veteran of Four Invasions

Visiting the campus on Wednesday of this week was Lt. (jg) Aaron Boom who has recently returned from 16 months' service with the amphibious forces in the American and European theaters. A former history student, having received his master's degree in that subject at Nebraska in 1941, Lieutenant Boom has more recently been helping to make history by participating in the invasions of Sicily, Salerno, Anzio and Normandy.

The blue eyed, sandy haired navy officer, wearer of the purple heart, has been sent to his home at Bladen, Neb., for a 30 day convalescent leave to recover from injuries received during the Normandy invasions.

After being wounded, Lieutenant Boom spent some time in a hospital in England and at a later date was invalided home on a hospital ship. In reply to a question about the return trip, he reported that it was fine, especially since it was aboard ship that he tasted ice cream for the first time in over a year.

"So you see why a milk shake is now pretty important in my life," he added.

Altho unable to give any details of the battles in which he participated, due to navy regulations, the lieutenant reported: "It's the same old thing, all the boys want to get back as soon as possible. They certainly age fast over there," he added.

The former Nebraskan received his navy training at Notre Dame two years ago. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and before entering service held a teaching position at Bloomfield.

Theater Needs Acting Recruits For Uni Plays

University Theater needs actors to carry on another successful season of plays, according to D. S. Williams, new theater director. The theater cannot take actors who are unfamiliar with university productions so anyone who may be interested in this activity is urged to enroll in the acting class.

The class meets Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 11 a. m. and juniors, seniors, and sophomores with special permission for eligible. Students will not only receive university credit for the class but will also have a better opportunity to obtain roles in University theater plays.

Anyone interested should see Dallas S. Williams as soon as possible at temple.

Missouri cottontail rabbits rear 3.8 litters annually, with an average of 4.4 animals in each.

The earliest map on record was engraved in copper by Anaximander of Miletus about 580 B.C.

Need Reporters

All ag campus students interested in covering ag news for The Nebraskan should meet in room 301 of ag hall at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. If unable to attend the meeting, students may leave their names with Dr. M. S. Peterson, room 301, or contact Betty Huston.
