Planned to stimulate good writing on Nebraska historical topics, the main stipulation of the contest was that a pioneer story of Nebraska must conform with the high literary standards of the Prairie Schooner, university literary quarterly, and be accepted for publication by Prof. L. ## Campus Houses Nebraska Roads, Irrigation Office

Offices in the Mechanical Arts building and the laboratory behind it are leased by the university under a rental agreement to the department of roads and irrigation. This is a state project that has been on the campus since 1923.

Several university students are employed part time during the school year, and full time during the summer. Prof. C. M. Duff was the testing engineer until 1942. Since then, he has returned to full time teaching, and R. E. Bollen is the present testing engineer.

The principal functions of the division of tests of the department of roads and irrigation are testing, inspection, consultation, preparation of specifications, and research and investigation.

Test Materials

The majority of tests are made on samples of various materials which are used in the construction and maintenance of highways. These materials are usually submitted by project engineers from preliminary surveys of proposed roads and have to meet certain requirements. Most of the physical tests and chemical analyses are made in accordance with the methods adopted by the (See CAMPUS, Page 2.)

Unusual Deer Arrives at UN For Museum

Exhibited now in the university state museum at Morrill hall is a giant deer, commonly called the "Irish Elk," which the museum acquired recently in an exchange with Yale University.

The "Irish Elk," which is illustrated in most biology text books as an example of gigantism, originated in Asia and migrated to the forested regions of Western Europe and Asia during the Ice Age.

Having the largest horns spread of any deer, its antlers, measuring from 10 to 12 feet across, were formerly used as foot bridges by the Irish peasants. The bones were found in peat bogs away from the air and are consequently well preserved and modern in appearance. Although at one time many skeletons were unearthed, comparatively few museums have exhibits of the Elk.

The museum has installed a new show case in the north corridor of the main floor to display the "Elk" and other recently added exhibits of Pleistocene mammals.

Coliseum Here We Come—Dean OK's Late Night

Granting a 12:15 special permission night for Harry James on Oct. 23, Dean Verna H. Boyles answered the prayer of many worried coeds who have heard every rumor from the usual 9 o'clock to a possible 10:30 for this one and only occasion.

In a letter sent to all the house mothers and dorm counsellors, the dean wrote:

"You may grant a 12:15 permission to any house girl who wishes to go to the coliseum Monday night, Oct. 23, to hear Harry James and his band.

"After all, I couldn't go myself if the others didn't go," commented Mrs. Boyles. "As soon as it was announced definitely that the dance would be at the coliseum, there was no question about the hours being changed. Personally I think Harry James is fine."

Advance tickets for the dance, lasting from 9 to 12 p. m., are $2.15 including tax for single admission, $4.30 including tax for couples. Spectator tickets are $1.20 each including tax; and admission at the door, $2.40 including tax for single admission. ## YW Gains New Members; Nets $250 in Drive

YWCA membership drive has netted $250 since its opening Oct. 5, leaving a balance of $750 to be collected by next Thursday in order to reach the $1,000 goal set by President Ann Wellensiek.

With the drive closing next Thursday, its success will depend upon student contributions and upperclass membership. Freshmen may join after the first six weeks.

The funds received from this annual drive are used to pay expenses for group activities, to help finance the summer conferences and to pay the YW secretary's salary. The Estes Park Co-op conference is being stressed particularly this year. Last summer 23 out of the 125 delegates to this regional conference were from Nebraska. The goal is to have 50 delegates this year.

The YW has 30 different groups meeting each week to carry out the various activities. Among these groups, which any university YW member may join, are "International Relations," led by Hazel Stearn; "Aicane," a group discussing racial problems, by Mary Alden; "Bible Study," led by Myrtle Johnson; Pan-American affairs discussion with Gerry McKinsey, and many other interesting groups.

Advise Students To Carry Draft Cards Constantly

Indiana U Team Defeats Nebraska 54-0

Scoring as they wished, Indiana's Hoosiers defeated the University of Nebraska to the tune of 54-0 Saturday, one of the worst defeats taken by the Cornhuskers in 54 years of football. Tho taking their share of the gains as they wished, the Hoosiers let up the pressure slightly, giving Nebraska two scoring chances. One of these came as Doug Nelson took a Hoosier kick-off and raced from one side of the field to the other on a spectacular 55 yard return.

Bill Miller Scores.

To gain their second tally, the McMillan clan fed the ball to young Bob Miller, who scooted around right end from the 4-yard stripe. Tavener converted as he had done following the first marker.

Scoring for the third time, the Hoosiers sent Sundheim driving thru the middle from the 3-yard line. Tavener again split the up- (See FOOTBALL, Page 3.)

AUF Drive Contribution Hits Slump

With four days remaining in the current AUF drive, total contributions for the campus today stood at $1,080.50, less than half of the $2,400 goal. Donations hit a slump Friday, when solicitors turned in $210, making it a low day as compared with $288 for Wednesday and again for Thursday.

Pioneer Co-op was declared first organized group on the campus to go all out and contribute 100 percent when Pioneer solicitor Carl Pointer Friday night turned in subscriptions from all of the 26 members of the house. Speaking tours will again be made Monday night at all fraternity houses to encourage contributions from the men's groups.

Five Groups Give.

To date, five campus activities groups, YWCA, WAA, AWS, Mortar Board, and War Council have each given $30 to the drive.

Margaret Beede, AUF chairman, today urged all students to contribute Monday and Tuesday of this week so that all money may be collected and tabulated by Thursday, closing day of the campaign.

All solicitors are to turn their money in at 5 p. m. Monday in room 315 of the Union instead of in room 313.
