The Fall Season

Monday the University Theater begins its annual season ticket sale which will run until Saturday. This year the group wants a short, snappy ticket drive, with no month-long begging on the Tassels' knees.

Enthusiasm seems to be the keynote of this year's dramatic group. Faculty director Williams started off with a bang, and is giving the group a sustained program of interest. The back-stage crews, as well as the actors and actresses, are larger in student participation this year than ever before, and are all working with concentrated skill to make this season of plays the best yet.

The five plays this season include such "greats" as "The Wingless Victory" by Maxwell Anderson, "Papa Is All" by Patterson Green, "The Skin of Our Teeth" by Thornton Wilder, "Angel Street" by Patrick Hamilton, and "Kiss and Tell" by F. Hugh Herbert.

UN's turnout to their annual winter play season this year should be an indication that the university is getting back to a peacetime basis, with the old interest in peacetime arts.

The Man on the Mountain . . .

AUF's mountain climber in the Union is apparently stuck not quite half-way up to the summit. With only a week to go, the fall drive of the All-University Fund committee needs $1,319.50 more from the campus.

This is the only drive to which students will be asked to contribute until next spring. Money donated will be divided with $400 going to the Servicemen's Edition of the Nebraskan, $1,000 to the War Fund and Community Chest, and $1,000 to the World Student Service Fund. In all, 46 relief organizations will receive the benefit of each student's contribution.

This week is AUF's last chance to get the man up the mountain. It must be might uncomfortable for him just to be hanging in mid-air!

From Dean Boyles . . .

In a letter written in Omaha on her return trip from Chicago, the dean of women told UN women that they would be given 12:15 p. m. permission to hear Harry James, who plays Monday, Oct. 23rd in the coliseum. As a result there were Great Celebrations in all organized houses, and Great Toasts of Gratitude at all dinner tables: "For she's a jolly, good fellow . . ."

Thornton Wilder, is scheduled for Feb. 15, 16, and 17. Quoting Time magazine, "The Skin of Our Teeth" is "cock-eyed and impudent—provocative and unusual."

The last two productions will be "Angel Street," a mystery thriller by Patrick Hamilton, scheduled for March 22, 23, and 24, and the exciting, modern comedy, "Kiss and Tell," written by F. Hugh Herbert, to be presented April 25, 26, and 27.

Dallas S. Williams, new theater director, has shown much enthusiasm and energy himself, and huge crowds are turning out to work on crews and production staffs, according to Miss Hill.

Research work is also done on different types of material. At the present time, they are conducting a considerable amount of research on concrete, and during the summer months, research was conducted on bituminous mats.

formed by the applicant in his present position and the possible opportunities for promotion normally open to him. The needs of the department in maintaining its activities, the service record of the employee, and his potential capacity for satisfactorily completing the course for which he may be registered will also be considered.

A committee consisting of Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, C. A. Donaldson of the service department, and the appropriate dean or director has been designated as the committee to consider and act upon all applications for these scholarships.

Each successful applicant will be released from his regular duties to attend classes, lectures, laboratory activities and quiz sections as scheduled without payroll deduction and will be exempt from the payment of the customary course fees.

V . . . — Mail Clippings

Pat Chamberlin, Censor

Capt. "EDDIE" SCHWARTZKOFF, varsity football star in the "good old days", is with a chemical composite company somewhere in the Pacific. He describes the thrill of getting a copy of the servicemen's edition of the Nebraskan when he's 6,000 miles from UN as "best expressed by comparing it to being in the starting line up against Minnesota." He also enclosed a voluntary donation of $5 to help continue the servicemen's edition. And that's a real compliment!

He continues: Am certain that students presently attending our University are performing to the utmost of their abilities and are not guilty of taking the great privilege for granted. Following are some of the questions often visiting my mind:

"Is our enrollment holding its own? How is the campus beautification progressing? Are we losing many of our professors to various governmental agencies?" So you see, even tho our former students are many miles from their desired and loved base of operations, they are highly concerned with present status and welfare of our university.

Putting in words the feeling of educators and public-minded Americans everywhere, Capt. Schwartzkoff continues:

"The universities of our country are confronted with a tremendous responsibility in discovering and educating, first the United States, then other countries, to their assigned obligations in the world as it is today and will be tomorrow."

Les Said The Better

By Les Glatfely

We hereby apologize—a really humble, down-on-your-knees apology. Seems as if we said in an earlier column that chances for going to Harry James were mighty slim. This was the impression we got from Dorothy Carnahan, AWS president, who also said that the special late permission had to come from Dean Verna Boyles' office.

In the Nebraskan today there is a story very definitely giving all of the AWS regulated coeds permission to stay out until 12:15 on that particular Monday night. The whole trouble is that we, and too many others, too, just don't give Mrs. Boyles a chance. "Butch" Hemphill, AWS prexy last year, said many times that Dean Boyles was the fairest person imaginable, and that seems a good idea to hang on to. The dean of women, no matter who she is, has the toughest job on any campus, a job in which she cannot possibly please everyone about everything. That, too, is a good thing to remember.

Anyway, thank you Mrs. Boyles, and after this we'll try not to jump to conclusions.

WAYNE KEIM are home on furlough from the AST at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Lt. GEORGE STEINMEYER, Phi Delt, should be at the Lincoln Air Base very shortly for the assembling of his crew. He pilots a B-17.

S/Sgt. ROBERT McCORKINDALE, Sig Ep and '39 grad, has been stationed in England a year.

Home Ec Club Invites Coeds To Fall Picnic

Annual home economics club fall picnic for all home ec students will be held at 5 p. m. Thursday on the lower ag campus. The picnic is held at this time each year, preceding the freshman membership drive to acquaint students with activities of the club.

Catherine Curley, co-chairman of the affair with Marion Rivett, Saturday remarked that it is to be a "real picnic" with the committee providing the food and every picnicker cooking her own meal over an outdoor fire.

Tickets will be on sale Monday and Tuesday in the home ec building at 30c for freshmen and 40c for upperclassmen.

Vivian Ferris is in charge of ticket sales with Julia Crom and Virginia Bobbitt providing informal entertainment for the evening.

Math Honorary Schedules First Meet October 24

Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity, will hold its first meeting of the year on Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 7 o'clock in parlor Y in the Union.

The purpose of these meetings is to learn about branches of mathematics which cannot be covered in class work. Anyone who is interested in mathematics is invited to attend.

Miss Lee Returns From Washington WAC Conference

After serving on a personal advisory committee of 22 professional women for the WAC to Gen. George Marshall, Miss Mabel Lee, director of physical education for women, returned last week from Washington, D. C.

Planned to give the general the civilian women's viewpoint of the WAC program, the committee was presented an over-all picture of the WACs in informal talks given by war department heads in Washington and by every army officer who directs the work of the corps.

"Each department was so exacting in their information, we felt that every step had been taken to acquaint us with the complete WAC program," said Miss Lee in speaking of the cooperation and sincerity shown in the meetings.

Following the conference, Miss Lee, with three of the other committee members were flown in General Marshall's private plane to Ft. Des Moines, Ia., for a day's inspection trip of the WAC training base.

A second meeting of the committee will be held in January when the members will present further plans for a more advanced and complete schedule.

AWS Holds Last Activity Meeting Oct. 18 In Union

Barb organization, athletics, and war work will be the topics of discussion at the last freshmen meeting about university activities in the Union parlors XY at 5 p. m. on Wednesday.

Representing BABW, Hazel Stearn will tell of the Barb extras on the campus. Mickey McPherson, president of WAA, will explain freshmen opportunities in intramurals. The war council will be explained by Ghita Hill, president.

"This series of three meetings has been held to acquaint freshmen and new students with campus activities," said Dorothy Carnahan, president of AWS, the organization sponsoring the meetings.

Ag Council Plans Get-Acquainted Tea Wednesday

A 'get acquainted' tea to introduce ag freshmen women to upper class coeds will be held in the home ec parlors at ag from 3:30 to 5 Wednesday afternoon. Madeline Holtzschler, chairman of the ag student faculty council, announced today.
