Membership Lists Show 50-50 Split for Parties

Approximately one-half of the student body registered for membership in the two campus political parties Thursday afternoon with a total of 1,096 students signing up at the polls in the Union.

cratic Government and the Progressive Party, carried an almost equal number of names, many of the organized groups splitting their registration.

Late registration and change of registration will be handled thru the Student Council committee on political parties, details to be announced soon. Arrangements will be made whereby students may state their party preferences thru-out the year as well as before the first party caucus of each party.

Counting of the registration blanks was done by the Student Council and representatives from each party.

Nebraska Students Plan Mock Peace Conference

Nebraska students will hold a miniature peace conference, sponsored by the YWCA cabinet in February, 1945, with every nation represented by an organized house or group on the campus.

This conference, which is to arouse student interest in international relations and the actual peace conference, will include all students on both ag and city campuses.

A student planning committee selected by the YWCA cabinet is composed of: Gerry McKinsey, Jean Larsen, Gloria Beaumont, Natalie Neumann, Anne Wellensiek, Don Kline, Bill Miller, Barbara Stahl, Mary Alden, Hazel Stearn, Mary Ann Mattoon, Pat Chamberlin, Dorothy Carnahan, Ghita Hill and Al Reddish. Ag campus representatives will be selected soon.

This planning committee will organize the conference and set up rules for the sessions. A faculty committee to be chosen from the economics, social science, political science and philosophy departments will assist the student planning committee and act as advisors to groups taking part in the conference.

Divide Campus.

The plan outlined by the planning committee is as follows:

The campus will be divided into organized houses, both affiliated and unaffiliated. A nation will be selected for each house to represent.

The conference will be an all-university project and the committee urges every student to participate in it. Lincoln unaffiliated students will be contacted thru BABW, Interhouse Council and other barb organizations. Any twenty Lincoln unaffiliates who sign up, at a later date, will be given a country to study.

Ag campus students will be as

Students Submit Plans For 1945 Show by Tuesday

Students interested in trying out for the 1945 war show should turn in their ideas to the Union office by next Tuesday, according to Ghita Hill, president of War Council.

In turning in their plans, students should include the approximate length of time of the act, the type of entertainment and the number of characters taking part.

Tryouts will be held approximately a week and a half after skits are turned in. Definite announcements concerning plans for the show, tryouts and the name picked for this year's production will be released in next week's Nebraskan.

Science Group Hears Nutrition Research Head

Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, university association professor of home economics and head of foods and nutrition research will speak on "Factors Which Govern Blood Formations" at the meeting of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific society, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p. m. in Morrill hall auditorium.

She is planning to discuss the work begun done in connection with blood donors. Last year 30 coeds who acted as blood donors were studied by maintaining them on a closely controlled diet, and measuring carefully, their regeneration after each had donated one pint of blood. At the present time, there are almost 60 donors.

Council Works On '46 Spring Vacation Plan

With political fury subsiding Student Council settled down Wednesday to discuss a spring vacation for 1946 and to accept the Student War Council constitution.

Spring vacation is out of the question this year as the commencement date can not be changed, Harold Andersen, council president, announced. In the interests of securing a vacation for the spring of '46 Andersen will meet next week with the calendar committee.

Late registration for political party membership will be handled by the newly-organized committee on political parties, the council ruled.

Six Debaters Win Honors At Tourney

One superior rating for the team, one superior rating for individuals, and three excellent ratings are the trophies brought home by the six university debaters who took part at the Iowa State discussion and debate meeting on Nov. 14 and 15 at Iowa City, according to Dr. Leroy T. Laase, director of debating, who accompanied the team.

The Nebraska team won superior rating, together with Iowa and Northwestern, in the two-day contest. The teams the Nebraska debaters met included Indiana, Missouri, Northwestern, Iowa University, Iowa State Teacher's college and Wheaton College, Ill.

Horton Wins.

Betty Lou Horton, won individual superior rating while Robert Gillan and Maurine Evnen were rated excellent. Tom Sorensen, likewise won the rating of excellent in public discussion. The Nebraskans competed twice each with the Indiana and Iowa teams.

More than 100 participants from more than 14 midwestern universities attended the meeting to debate problems of war and peace.

The six Nebraska participants were: Mary Mattoon, Maurine Evnen, Betty Lou Horton, Bill Miller, Robert Gillan and Tom Sorensen.

Close Your Mouth, Marjory—They Want Beauty, Not Horse

BY RUTH KORB.

The stage is set, the lights are dimmed, the crowd breathes in expectantly, except for several asthma victims, and soft and delightful music is played. The final moment is at hand. The curtain goes up, and the crowd breathes out, and one person, who has held his breath too long, faints flat on the floor.

Here comes the first contestant in the Cornhusker beauty queen contest, and is she ravishing!!! Her name is Hort Snort, and she is a member of Alpha Chloriga. Smooth is the only word that would describe this creature from the unknown. Such knock knees could belong only to the unknown, and those eyes!!! If you look hard enough, you can almost see them, even tho they can't see you. It's certain that she must have a magnificent skeleton, because that's all that can be seen.

Hort Lopes.

Hort Lopes across the stage, and her head is the last part of the skeleton to disappear, for her body seems to bend back in the middle section. The crowd claps in appreciation, and Hort's campaign manager begins breathing words of advice in the ears of the wise

This Week At War

By Albert Reddish

One of the most pertinent questions of the day is, where is Adolph Hitler? The past week conjectures as to his whereabouts condition and status have come from all sources.

European capitals believe Heinrich Himmler has assumed complete executive control of Germany since the supposed disappearance of Hitler. Madrid has the fuhrer in Argentina, while soldiers on the German front insist he is on his way by submarine to Tokyo for a spectacular conference with his remaining ally. Other rumors declare that Hitler is ill, with his sufferings ranging from minor maladies to "cerebral thrombosis—a blood clot of the brain."

Meanwhile someone must know where the conqueror of the world is, for the report has come from reliable, tho unofficial, sources that Hitler shaved his mustache in order not to be mistaken for Governor Dewey.

For the first time since its movements were cloaked with secrecy after it completed the mopping up of German forces in France, the American Ninth army commanded by Lt. Gen. William
