'Intelligent, Well-Planned' ...

The Awgwan is back.

Behind that simple statement lies the story of much hard work, much real effort to get the campus humor magazine back into publication. To members of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism sorority, goes most of the credit for that hard work, which culminated in success last Tuesday when the Publications Board sanctioned revival of The Awgwan.

With The Awgwan's return, many questions naturally come to the minds of UN students. How good will it be? Will it deserve the support and patronage of the student body? How long will this revival last?

These questions, of course, cannot be answered now. Time alone can tell what the answers will be. But the intelligent, well-planned editorial policy drafted by the temporary staff clearly indicates that the answers will be favorable, the Awgwan is back to stay.

According to its stated editorial policy, the primary purpose of the revived Awgwan will be to entertain its readers, to provide the campus with a humorous magazine; its secondary purpose, to attain certain desirable changes on the campus "by satire and humorous exposition."

To achieve these worthy objectives, The Awgwan states that it will print material written in a lively, humorous, satirical, pointed style; devote only a fraction of each issue to jokes; print no humor which is in obvious bad taste; expose any campus activities and organizations which are "inefficient, unnecessary, or ineffectual"; welcome contributions from all students, faculty members, and alumni; encourage underclassmen to contribute to the magazine and work their way up to positions on the editorial staff; give complete coverage of the campus and campus activities. The various departments of the new Awgwan will include music, fashions, columns, personality sketches, cartoons, feature articles, calendars of campus events, and, of course, jokes.

Music Convention Gives War Bond To Delta Omicron

A $25 war bond achievement award was presented to the Nebraska chapter of Delta Omicron, national music sorority, at a recent national convention. The award is given to chapters who have done superior work in organization and in participation in national affairs. It is also based on the improvement and building up of the chapter, and is presented at national conventions which are held every three years.

Debaters Return From Discussion Meet At Denver

Bringing three excellent ratings out of 18 awarded, debaters Betty Lou Horton and Maurine Evnen returned from the Rocky Mountain debate and discussion conference at Denver Feb. 16 and 17. Also competing were teams from California, Arizona, Utah, Colorado, Iowa, Illinois and Kansas.

Homer Flunked Out!

NO wonder...he couldn't keep up with his assignments. His domestic duties kept him too busy!

Homer's chief trouble was buttons... unfaithful, elusive little perforated disks that kept coming off his shirts (which weren't Arrows). While other guys burned the midnight oil, Homer spent his time nimbly thimbling a needle.

Homer should have known about Arrow Shirts with anchored buttons! They never come off! They're as permanent as the fine style and fit of all Arrow Shirts. $2.24 up.

Arrow Ties too! $1 and $1.50.

Johnsons Offer New Fellowship For Graduates

The Franklin E. and Orinda M. Johnson graduate fellowship, recently instituted at the university, will offer two or more fellowships of $750 each for 1945-46, and is open to graduates of the university or other universities and colleges of recognized standing. Harold S. Wilson, assistant professor of English, is the first recipient of the fellowship.

In determining the awards, scholarship, character, aims, future promise based on demonstrated ability and financial need will be considered. An applicant need not be in residence.

Application Forms

Application forms, to be submitted by March 10, may be obtained at the graduate office. The application should be accompanied by the applicant's undergraduate transcript and the graduate record, if any.
