Students Take Part in United Clothing Drive

University students will take part in the United National Clothing Collection drive beginning tomorrow to relieve the desperate need of destitute men, women and children in war devastated countries.

The War Council has announced plans for the drive which will be started tomorrow. Fred Teller, chairman of the "On the Beam" committee, urged all students to collect old clothing when they are at home on Easter or any time during March and April.

A box placed in the lobby of the Union tomorrow will be used for collection of the clothing.

Only One Drive.

This will be the one nationwide clothing collection to be conducted in the United States in the spring of 1945 for foreign war relief purposes. Good, substantial used clothing is needed for both winter and summer wear. Although clothing need not be in perfect repair, it must be useful to the people who will receive it. Underclothing and all types of cotton garments should be washed before they are donated, but need not be ironed.

Most urgently needed are: Men's and boys' garments; women's and girls' garments; caps and knitted headwear; bedding; shoes; usable remnants and piece goods.

The World Student Service fund is conducting the clothing collection in the colleges in April as part of this United National Clothing collections to provide clothing for students in foreign countries. The goal is 150,000,000 pounds of good, usable clothing, shoes and bedding.

Awgwan Staff in Bed While 1912 Member Visits Nebraskan

BY JUDGE MASON.

A rather jolly looking, gray haired lieutenant colonel wandered into The Nebraskan office Saturday, looked around with an unfamiliar air and naively asked for some member of the Awgwan staff.

Naturally, as it was only a little after 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, none of that particular staff had emerged from the evening's hibernation so a member of The Nebraskan staff cordially arose to assist him. After his first words the entire Nebraskan personnel was crowding around, listening attentively—for he was none other than former student Lt. Col. Paul S. Dewell, one of the members of the original Awgwan staff.

Enroute Home.

Of the Army Air Corps, recently returned from overseas duty, Col. Dewell was enroute to his home in Pierre, South Dakota when he stopped in to see how the old Awgwan was getting along. The colonel was quick to commend the new version but stated that it was 'quite different' from

Students Register Political Changes Tuesday at 3:30

Students who have not identified themselves with a campus political party or who wish to change their affiliations may register in the Union lobby Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 to 6.

The Student Council recognizes two parties, the Student Party and the Progressive Party. Gene Dixon, chairman of the elections committees, announces that he will inform party leaders of the number of candidates which they are eligible to elect from the respective colleges as soon as this information can be obtained from the registrar's office.

"Keesing's Contemporary Archives, Weekly Diary of World Events," the new index to events of the day recently received by the reference department of the University Library, will be of interest to both students and faculty members, according to Phyllis Bull, assistant reference librarian.

Solicitors Meet

All ad solicitors for the March issue of Awgwan and those interested will meet in the Awgwan office Monday afternoon at 5 p. m. Phyllis Johnson, temporary editor, announced today.

Dr. Reinhardt Views Veteran Social Position

"The Veteran in a Changing Social Order" will be the topic discussed by Dr. James Reinhardt, professor of sociology, Monday night at 7:30 in Sosh. Dr. Reinhardt's talk will be the second in a series of lectures dealing with "The Rehabilitation of Veterans."

During the last year the sociology professor served with the AEF and received the Silver Star for gallantry in action. He has written many books on social problems and is a recognized leader in the field of sociology.

Future lectures scheduled in the series include a talk on March 26 by Dr. Arthur F. Jenness, chairman of the department of psychology and visiting lecturer in psychology at Harvard University. His talk is entitled "The Responsibility of the Citizen in Rehabilitation."

Prof. Colbert Lectures.

Prof. Jules P. Colbert, associate professor of engineering mechanics and chairman of the university consultation board for veterans and ex-war workers, will give an address on "Rehabilitation thru Education."

On April 9, Maj. J. E. Stockman, field chaplain at the Lincoln Army Air Field, will speak on "Spiritual Readjustment."

Lectures will continue thru April and May, including a talk by an overseas officer on "What the Veteran Needs," and a lecture by Dr. Warren R. Baller, guidance consultant in the junior division, concerning "Determining the Qualifications of the Rehabilitated Veteran."

World War I Vet Talks.

"The Veterans Administration and Its Provisions for Rehabilitation" will be discussed by Lowell S. Devoe, a lieutenant in World War I, and now vocational advisor of the division of education for the rehabilitation of veterans, with headquarters at the Veterans hospital in Lincoln.

An army physician will present an address on the physical rehabilitation of veterans. Maj. Benjamin H. Balsler, chief of the section of neuro-psychiatry at the Lincoln Army Air Field, will complete the lecture series May 14 with an address on "Reshaping the Veteran's Outlook on Life."

Three Film Stars Narrate Weekly Language Films

Two showings of the three films sponsored weekly by the Modern Language department will be held with one tomorrow at 4 p. m. and the second Thursday at 4.

Walter Abel narrates one of the films, "Guadalajara," the story in technicolor of Mexico's second largest city. Second of the color films will be "Cuernavaca," a week-end resort. The film is narrated by Tyrone Power and will include pictures of Taxco, the silver mining town.

Orson Welles tells the story of "Mexico City," as the city is shown in technicolor with views of cathedrals, parks, markets and fiestas.

Program Service Sponsors Talks In Nebraska City

March 23 will mark the first lecture of the series, "International Problems Just Ahead," to be presented by request in Nebraska City through the university community program service. These lectures are being sponsored by civic groups in Nebraska City and will run for 10 weeks.

This series has been presented in Lincoln as a night class since the beginning of the second semester.

Campus Eating Places Receive Grade A Rates

Five out of six eating places on the campus have received grade A ratings after a Student Council investigation in collaboration with the City Health Department.

Letters were sent by the Council to those eating places that did not hold A ratings on February 2, arranging for City Health inspections and asking that they cooperate with the department in accepting suggestions to make their establishments more sanitary. The letters concluded that if the City Health reports were not satisfactory, the Council would ask university officials to place their establishments out of bounds, forbidding students to patronize them.

Praise Cooperation.

Dr. M. F. Arnholt, director of the City Health Department, notified the Council committee on March 16 that all of the campus eating places but one had cooperated to the fullest extent and have been issued the highest possible ratings.

The places holding A ratings are: The Union Campus-line and Crib, the Uni. Drug, Earl Woods and the Nook. In commenting upon the cooperative spirit of these establishments, Harold Andersen, president of the Council, stated: The Student Council appreciates the cooperation of the five eating places that have now complied with city standards. The Council intends to maintain an accurate check on campus restaurants in the future to insure that standards are not lowered.

A score of 90 percent on the inspection sheet is required for a grade A rating. The only eating place which did not receive this rating was Hamburger Inn, on No. 12th street. This place received a score of 57 percent. The Council will confer with the proper university officials to determine what action should be taken.

Awgwan Staff

Anyone wishing to file for a staff position on the Awgwan should do so any afternoon this week between 2:30 and 4:30. Publications board will meet Wednesday, March 21, to choose the permanent staff.

YWCA Polls UN Opinion On Treaty

Polling student opinion on several questions of the peace treaty adopted at the experimental peace conference, the Y W C A will send representatives to organized houses Monday night, according to Betty Lou Horton, chairman of the poll committee.

The poll is being conducted as a follow-up on the peace conference to find out what student opinion is on some questions decided at the plenary sessions of the conference.

Students are urged by the committee to vote according to their own personal opinions rather than trying to represent a country.

Unaffiliated students who live in Lincoln will have a chance to answer the questions by coming to the Union office between 12 and 1 and 3 and 6 p. m. Monday afternoon.

Questions Distributed.

Mimeographed sheets with the following questions on them will be distributed tomorrow to the houses and other voting students.

1. Are you in favor of the veto power in the security council which allows any one of the "Big Three" (Soviet Union, U. S. or Great Britain) to prevent international economic or military action against an aggressor nation?
2. Do you believe that (a) the territory west to the Curzon line and (b) Konigsburg should be included in the Soviet Union?
3. Are you in favor of the settlement of the boundaries of Germany determined in the experimental peace conference giving (a) the Saar basin to France, (b) The Netherlands the right to occupy the territory north and west of Osnabruck.

Group Postpones Musical Program

Presentation of the Inter-faith Musicals, previously scheduled for March 20, has been postponed, announced the committee in charge Saturday. The program of music representative of Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths will be given sometime in April.

Amoeba's Brothers Express Hilarity at Prospect of Vacation

BY JANLLIS JENKWOOD.

Having recently studied the informative account of the psychological reactions of the amoeba which is found in the Awgwan files (the account, not the amoeba), it may perhaps be timely to enlighten the reader upon the character of the amoeba's brother, the student.

In shedding light upon the composite substance of the human mind, it was discovered that the most efficient device for judging the student's psychological reaction was to casually mention that there were only eight weeks of school left in the semester.

The reaction ran somewhat as follows:

Gerry McKinsey—Only eight more weeks of school!!! Oh my gosh, how'm I going to get my seven term papers done and my ten political science books read??

Barbara Stahl—H'mmm, how time flies.

two nights for study and say six for bad weather—golly, that makes only eight more picnics 'til vacation.

Min Beede—Oh boy, oh boy! Let me out of this institution, California, here I come!

Tommy Dworak—Well, well (mumbling to himself), about eight more extractions, twenty more fillings, coupla' bridges, 'nother of Giotfelty's wisdom teeth—then two weeks of picnics, summer school—oh my, what is this thing called sleep?

Anonymous Freshman—Thank heavens, I thought would never end! I'm going to sleep all summer and not even look at a book or newspaper or AWS member 'til I have to next fall.

Mary Ann Mateon—Huh! It'll probably be the longest eight weeks I've ever spent!

Dubious Senior—Don't cross your bridges before you build 'em.

Jim Abdnor—Aw heck! Only eight more piano lessons—and I was just getting so I could play the scales backwards.
