

Betty Lysinger, Pi Phi, and Kappa Barbara Blackburn step from church wearing their new spring outfits from Magee's. Betty wears a chartreuse dress buttoned down the front. The square neckline is accented by two bows placed at each corner. She carries a white mandarin topper and wears a silly little chartreuse straw hat with a wiff of veiling and a bunch of pink roses. Barb cose a three piece pink covert suit with a navy felt off-the-face hat to accent her blonde hair.

'Come Out Buds—Wherever You Are,' Cry Coed Spring Flowers

BY NINA SCOTT.

Clothes make the man, and they do a lot for the woman too . . . as soon as the buds (reference to trees and bushes) come out and the grass comes up and the car tops go down, what do the feminine think of? You're right, absolutely . . . but new clothes help . . . Easter bonnets and ensembles dare to be different, yet flattering this year. . . shoes are built to show off slender feet and legs . . . every article of the wardrobe has been inspired to show style and appeal. . .

The Interfraternity Ball tonight offers excellent opportunity to coeds . . . they may wear their new outfits and create sensations . . . hope Alpha Phi candidate for Interfraternity Sweetheart, "Blackie" Blanchard wears her crepe dress . . . it is patterned of unusual black and white checks, has faille binding around neck and waist, and really FITS. . .

Green Popular With Coeds.

The new Alpha Xi president, Laurine Hansen, matches the trees in her very new "coat-canteen" dress of chartreuse gabardine . . . the long sleeves will be hidden under a cinnamon Chesterfield coat . . . her accessories are brown in the shape of a tiny hat, purse and I. Miller shoes . . . any shade of green is popular now . . . for instance, the apple green wool made into a sophisticated suit for DG Nadia Kunzmann . . . the jacket has an accented peplum and the skirt is quite straight with an inch slit in the center front. . .

Pi Phi Jean Dougan has a trick up her sleeve when it comes to the latest ideas . . . with her three-piece grey gabardine suit she will wear a green and white ascot . . . that's a little contraption one wears around one's neck, tucked in . . . Miss Dougan's accessories are brown sandals, gloves and bag . . . a brown half-hat. . .

There are other reasons for buying clothes, such as a wedding in the future. . . Theta Jean Buckley is outfitting herself with lots of cute things . . . a lite green gabardine suit, a navy blue dress, and another dress in yellow. . .

Tangerine.

Wednesday night Frank Sinatra's program had a young guest star who sang Tangerine for Pi Phi Sue Newman . . . that's the shade of her English Honespune suit . . . she is smart in her selection of accessories . . . for, Sue has chosen Navy blue for her boxy tailored coat, Sissy Sailor hat and the rest . . . a colorful scene. . . Navy blue is also the choice of Delta Gamma Sallie Emerson. . . Sal's suit is a dressy one and at the neck of which she will wear a double strand pearl choker . . . her navy hat is ideal for the tall man, for it has a donut hole crown bound with pearls . . . low cut navy pumps and white mittens with fingers will complete the appeal. . .

Smart Black.

One of the best looking coats of the year is that of Kappa June Korb's . . . a short black number with black corded binding. . . June has a black bowler hat to wear with it . . . something else in ever-good black is the hat of Marjorie Eills, Alpha Xi, . . . the veil is sprinkled with multi-colored tufts . . . with the bonnet Marjorie will wear a blue-grey crepe dress with bows around the neckline . . . the peplum is white eyelet . . . her coat is light blue with saddle stitching. . .

Some one mentioned Sigma Chi Bill Heintzlemann . . . for the reason that he has one of the best looking belts seen around . . . it is tooled leather. . .

This is just a teaser for what the campus parade will offer for the season . . . everything is well explained by descriptive adjectives . . . maybe whistles would be better . . . anyway, easy on the eyes is a good term. . . Easter Joys. . . Happy Easter Bunny . . . and don't waste Spring. . .

Teller Urges All Students to Give To Clothing Box

This week marked the beginning of the United National Clothing Collection drive, which is sponsored by the War Council and is to be held during April. Fred Teller, chairman of the "On the Beam" committee, urged all students to collect old clothing when they are at home on Easter or any time during March and April.

A box placed in the lobby of the Union will be used for collection of the clothing.

This will be the on nationwide clothing collection to be conducted in the United States in the spring of 1945 for foreign war relief purposes. Good, substantial, used clothing is needed for both winter and summer wear. Altho clothing need not be in perfect repair, it must be useful to the people who will receive it.

The World Student Service fund is conducting the clothing collection in the colleges. The goal is 150,000,000 pounds of good, usable clothing, shoes, and bedding.

Spring Fever Nixes Student's Beaver-Fever, KO's Campus

BY BARBARA KIECHEL.

Spring is officially here. By the time this is printed (no harm in being optimistic, we always say) it will probably be blizzarding, but that's beside the point. The almanac say it's spring, and it isn't our fault if the weather is as unpredictable as Les Glottelty's pajamas. (This is not a paid advertisement; they're just the most unpredictable things we can think of, off-hand.)

One of the nicest things about spring is that with it comes that delicious malady known as spring fever. This particular disease has baffled scientists for years, but brewing up a cure would be to no avail, because people enjoy it too much. It has proven to be a good excuse for practically anything—from cutting classes to nonchalantly setting the house on fire. If a coed forgets to get an accounting assignment, she has only to approach her instructor, assume a vacant air, and announce listlessly, "But I have spring fever." Whereupon the teacher nods in understanding, and waves the poor afflicted child aside with a sympathetic smile—and a memo to his secretary to make out a down slip.

Sap of Youth.

One might think that professors could lighten assignments at times like these, but while spring saps youth of its energy, it apparently stimulates vigor in other generations. Concentrating on algebra or the structure of Congress just can't be done—college students are too busy thinking beautiful thoughts . . . or wondering if the dogwood is blooming in Phi Psi Gulch.

Limited space necessitates skipping over such vital reactions to spring as housecleaning; but such diversions do not particularly bother the collegiate population, anyway—unless they happen to be pledges.

Hats in the Belfrey.

Spring hats are another matter. Every coed is determined to shock her public if she has to appear in a scorched lampshade to do it, and she frequently does. Wear a lampshade, we mean; its impossible to shock anybody under 75 anymore. Surrealistic creations on display in the shop-windows are sold out after the first balmy day, but the thrifty young thing has learned that the same effect may be achieved with an ashtray, a washcloth, two or three Dewey buttons, and a slight touch of insanity. Just so it's unbecoming; that's the only requisite.

Romance, tragic as it is, has been sadly neglected these last few years. With only 1 1/2 man to every 9 girls, it's a little difficult to get actively involved. Besides, the 1 1/2 man is probably still in a dizzy stupor over Lauren Bacall. If his absent murmuring, "It's even better if you help" as he gazes out the window gets slightly old, just humor him.

Cotton Outlook Shines---Prices On Rampage

BY PHYLLIS MORTLOCK.

Cottons are almost a non-existent luxury these days but the cotton outlook is shinin' a little brighter now, what with the new government regulation on more quantity and ceiling prices on what quantity there is to be had. For a while there cottons were rampaging right up in the "good" dress class—at least according to the price tag.

Cotton, Material of the Hour.

But with the sun beginning to sizzle and skirts out of the question, the frustrated boll weevil has to give in and admit it—cotton is the material of the hour. Bright, striped jumper dresses, flashy pinafore styles and the pastel princess mode, with a dash of lace for seasoning, are all right in there competing for the coed's pocketbook.

TNC Sets Keynote.

Brand new TNC Marilyn Hartsook set the keynote for this spring and summer when she wowed the Coed Follies watchers with her crisp black and yellow ensemble. The landslide business in cottons and wash dresses of all kinds evinces the mighty urge which always hits the campus gals around this time of the year—that flighty feeling which nudges them and whispers, "Go 'wan, it's cotton time—bring out the old pinafore, mother, they'll never catch me then!"
