'The Students Want To Know'

What has happened to the Student Council's investigation of the student health service? When is action to be taken on the recommendations and suggestions included in the council's comprehensive report, submitted to Chancellor Boucher nearly two months ago? Has the whole investigation been forgotten?

These questions are being asked by many students, especially those who find it necessary to make use of student health facilities, which the council's report branded "inadequate, inefficient." Students want to know, and have every right to know, why some action has not been taken on the council's suggestions, why the health service has not been improved in any way after a campus-wide questionnaire indicated that over 50 percent of the student body is not satisfied with the service as it now exists.

The answer to these questions may be simply stated: The health investigation has become almost hopelessly entangled in the snarl of red tape which all too often nullifies requests and petitions from the student body to the administration. Since submitting its report, the council has approached the administration time and again in the hope of getting some promise of definite action, concrete measures to improve the health service. But no action has been forthcoming. The council's report apparently has become conveniently lost, perhaps somewhere in that impenetrable wilderness which seems to separate the administration from the student body on this campus.

How much longer must the student body wait? When are they to be given all the facts concerning the student health situation? When are they to learn what steps, if any, will be taken to make the much-needed improvements in the student health service? What, in short, is to be the result of the health investigation?

The students want to know.

No Comment Necessary

With the semester now two-thirds over, campus war stamp sales total $1,406.10, less than half of the semester's goal of $3,000. Sales, in other words, are far behind schedule.

These facts scarcely require comment. The duty of each student is obvious: to increase his purchases of war stamps, to do his part in making sure that the drive reaches its $3,000 goal by the end of the semester.

Faculty Notes

Arthur E. Westbrook and Donald Lentz, of the university school of music, spent Wednesday in Ashland where they were judges for the third annual Music Day Contest, in which Ashland City Schools participated.

O. F. Edison, professor of electrical engineering, F. N. Norris, professor of electrical engineering, and Dean O. J. Ferguson, chairman of the university department of electrical engineering, attended a special dinner meeting of the Nebraska section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers held in the St. Regis Hotel, Omaha, April 4. After the dinner, National President Charles A. Towel, manager of headquarters, Engineering departments, Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co., East Pittsburgh, Pa., spoke to the group on "The Romance of Engineering."

Miles Dresskell, of the university school of music faculty, went to Bennet Thursday, where he judged a contest for Bennet high school and surrounding schools.

Arthur E. Westbrook was in Beatrice Friday to conduct a choral clinic for Beatrice, Fairbury, Pickrell, Wymore and Adams schools.

Earnest Harrison and Donald Lentz were judges Saturday in University Place for the Lancaster County Music Contest.

Dr. C. W. Rosenlof, registrar and director of admissions at the university, will address the Lincoln Woman's club on Monday, April 9. He will speak about "Post-War Education."

Les Said The Better

By Les Glatfelly

Having written about absolutely nothing all year, we see no reason to change policy at this point in the game. Anyway, there are (at 1:30 p. m. Saturday) seven inches to fill on the editorial page. While this may not be any better or as good as blank spaces, are not accepted by the editor even when they are marked "Use for scratch paper."

Probably entirely too many people saw the news editor's little slip in Friday's rag—the headline that said, "PKB, Sigma Xi Hear Dr. Curti." Just for our readers' edification, PKB has nothing to do with TNE or anything else. PKB is Turkish for PBK, so maybe that's why the staff is calling Mary Alice Cawood "Turk" these days.

Stolen from the Minnesota Daily—"The Bench and Bar, staid organ of the Minnesota Bar association for some unknown reason, has done some research regarding lip rouge and comes up with the startling statement that American women use enough lipstick each year to paint 40,000 barns a bright red color." Might we say that barns ain't all!

Two truckmen were driving merrily along in an immense moving van. Suddenly, the road turned but the truck didn't, and it went into the ditch. The men got out and decided to ask the first passer-by for help in getting the van on the road again. They waited and waited, and finally a woman with a little poodle came along.

"Madame," said one of the men, "may we please borrow your dog for a few minutes?"

"What on earth for?" asked the woman.

"We'd like to have him help us get our truck out of the ditch," said the driver.

"Don't be silly," said the woman. "How could my tiny little doggy get your big truck out of the ditch?"

"Don't worry, madame," was the reply. "We have whips."

conference. She may even tell a new joke. Another of our out-of-town guests will be the busiest woman in and out of Washington, but mostly out. She doesn't go to Hot Springs, but she does get around. Guess who? Hint . . . she looks just like "Mash Head" Martz.

Elliot, Fellman Talk.

Mr. Elliot of the economics department will favor you with an account of the wedding of Trip-hammer Peepash and Susie Snodgrass. Mr. Fellman, of the uncomplicated Fellmans, will tell all about the visitors in town, what color hair they have, and how many ducks they sold on the market this year. Mr. Morrison, of the "Splendid!" Morrissions, will read the announcement of a young son born to Dr. and Mrs. Wimberly, who has been named "Little Prairie Schooner."

The meritorious awards will be presented, and these awards are being kept secret till the night of the banquet. The seniors of Theta Sig will then give a skit portraying the knowledge that they have accumulated in their four years as students in the University of Nebraska. Board of regents, please take note.

The final event of the evening will be the announcement of the new officers for Theta Sig by the president, Jo Martz.

"COME AND JOIN IN THE FUN," SAYS MARTZ. ALL JOURNALISM STUDENTS INVITED. ALSO OUR ANGEL, THE PUB BOARD! TICKETS ARE $1.50! SEE A THETA SIG!"
