

'Moor Born' . . .

 ent through drink and dulls his genius with opium. His body racked with the violent coughing of advanced tuberculosis, Branwell dies after a debaucherie at the village alehouse followed by exposure to the wind.
 Stalwart young Yorkshireman Bob Samardick appears to carry the dying Branwell home in act III. Samardick played the brilliant Russian actor, Sascha, in Room Service.

Soft Brogue.

Blanche Duckworth tongues a soft brogue as the Yorkshire maid-servant of the Bronte family. Miss Duckworth was cast as the wardrobe maid for "The Skin of Our Teeth" this season, and last year played two maid parts. Alis Swanson, bent with age-cakling like a crone, has the role of Tabby, beloved old nurse and housekeeper for the Brontes. Miss Swanson flirted her way through "The Skin of Our Teeth" as Sabina.

"Moor Born" is directed by Dan Mullin.
