To the Men . . .

It's about time!

This year for the first time since the 1942-43 school year, the university has a comparatively large contingent of men students. And it seems reasonable to assume that there must be, somewhere among those male students, enough interested men to get men's activities started again on the campus.

The three principal men's organizations which have been off campus or inactive since 1943 because of the war are Corncobs, Kosmet Klub and Innocents. Corncobs is the male counterpart of Tassels. It is the men's pep organization which was begun in 1921. Kosmet Klub is the men's dramatic society and its activities include the annual fall and spring Kosmet Klub shows and it also sponsored the interfraternity sing contest on Ivy Day. Innocents is the senior honorary, comparable to Mortar Board. Membership is based on participation in UN activities and junior men are elected to the group each spring.

Obviously, it would be a little difficult to make Innocent's active immediately since there are no former members left on the campus and since there are so few junior men in activities at present. However, there is no particular reason why a few interested men students could not start Corncobs and Kosmet Klub this year, so that by next fall, when there should be a prewar enrollment of men, men's activities will be in full swing. And if these two activities were organized and began working this year, it is possible that by spring there could be a limited tapping for Innocents, with the help of the alumni of the organization who are in Lincoln.

After all, the women have had a corner on the activities market for long enough. The men are back, and to our way of thinking, it's about time they began taking over what is theirs again.

JUDGE MASON

Count Hottentottenpottentate, official Nebraskan stooge, came into the office yesterday, giggling.

If there is anything the Nebraskan staff and reporters can't stand, it is to see anyone laughing and not know what the joke is. So the Count was immediately surrounded, forced into a corner and kept there, listening to dire threats until he revealed the secret of his mirth. His story went something like this:

"Walked into the Union this afternoon and the first sight which attracted my attention was a black eye, which, after careful and close scrutiny, I realized belonged to a guy by the name of Bob Korte.

Speculating on the source of the black eye I decided he must not have paid his rent in the Krib and consequently had been tossed out on the proverbial ear. But as his proverbial ear was undamaged and the other one side okay too, we discarded this explanation.

We were about to ponder further upon the problem when another sight greeted our eyes. A young air corps captain walked by. Some girls smiled and fluttered their eyelashes at him. A nearby student said, "Hello, Professor Bartley." The flirting girls fainted. The new political science teacher made his debut.

Awgwan . . .

judging by last year's rumors all four issues will probably come out sometime after Christmas.

For the benefit of freshmen and new students, the Awgwan is a so-called humor magazine, a sort of a proving grounds for psychopathic cases. It is written by a staff composed chiefly of a frustrated revolutionist, an ex-zoot suiter, a professional gladhandler, and the pride of the Kappas. These perverted individuals excel in stealing the best in chuckles from the New Yorker, Benchley, Perelman, and Cap'l. Billy's Whiz Bang. I have it on good authority that the last editor left town to avoid 23 copyright infringement cases.

And so the Awgwan might come out. We of the Nebraskan have no quarrel with that, but we wish that as it comes out—it would also get out . . . of our office.
