

HUSKER HIGHLIGHTS

By George Miller

Despite last week's trouncing by Minnesota, Husker fans can take heart in the words of Minneapolis scribes who observed that the Gophers' showing against Nebraska was much better than the performance in their opening game against Missouri.

These gentlemen of the press box were of the opinion that Nebraska looked like a better team than the Tigers, even though the score was far more one sided in the Missouri-Minnesota tilt than in the Missouri-Minnesota clash.

Big Six teams are licking their wounds this week after a disastrous day with outside competition last Saturday. Only Missouri was able to down a non-conference foe—the Tigers upsetting Southern Methodist 16 to 7 on the strength of a field goal by giant Jim Kekeris.

Oklahoma, highly touted in pre-season dope, went down before Texas A. & M. in a loosely played contest which saw injuries mar the showings of both teams. Hapless Kansas State proved to be no match for Olathe Air Base, dropping a 32 to 14 decision. Add to this the Nebraska debacle and the result is not encouraging to the national aspirations of Big Six members.

Kansas university threw a monkey wrench into Big Six standings by battling favored Iowa State to a 13 to 13 deadlock at Lawrence. Leroy Robison, triple threat back, paced the Jayhawks who were threatening to score again when the game ended.

A stray dog cost Indiana another touchdown in their game with Illinois last Saturday, for a canine character strolled onto the field as the Hoosiers lined up for a touchdown play, only to have the score nullified.

Nebraska defensive men will have to be on their toes at Bloomington Saturday in the Indiana clash, for the Hoosiers have a favorite trick of springing end Ted Kluszewski loose on an end-around play which winds up with the end tossing a left-handed pass down the field. This formation produced the score which enabled Bo McMillian's boys to tie Northwestern two weeks ago in a Big Ten battle.

Seemingly a mainstay in the

Friday Games Increase IM Grid Program

Addition of seven new teams to the intramural football league has caused Director Lew Means to increase the schedule. Each team will play one or two more games, so that the six navy clubs and the ag college team will get a good share of league competition.

Four Friday games will be played every week from now until the season ends to add to the number of games played by each team.

Nebraska front line is Rex Hoy, 175 pound guard, who more than held his own with the aggressive Minnesota linesmen last Saturday. Hoy, who stands five feet, ten inches, is slated to start against Indiana this week end in recognition of his work against the Gophers.

cold weather; they'd have to issue red flannels to get me on that field. Frozen like an Eskimo Pie 'twas I, but everyone seemed to be having a grand time kickin' that ball around.

Seems like the object of the game is to kick the ball as hard as one can at one of the opposing team's fielders and if the one at bat (or should I say "making with the kick") knocks the fielder down she gets one base, knocks her out she gets 2 bases, kills 'er she gets an addition 1:00 night that week . . . Heaven only knows what she'd have to do to get a homer, probably could have found out but it was too cold to watch that long. I repeat . . . TOO COLD!!

After watching for a half an hour or so, we returned to our old habitat, the Union, to thaw out for the next time we get an invitation to view some game . . . Hoping that the next one will be a game of bridge, no offense gals . . . We enjoyed your prowess in the sport, but it was just too COLD. So comes to the end of a COLD STORY.

E. Bartley . . .

the losses before those two islands were in American hands. Bartley left for the Pacific from Kearney Army Air Field with 19 other crews. Out of the 20 sent over, only six crews returned to the United States.

The crews landed on Saipan in August of 1944 and Mr. Bartley was in the third B-29 to land on the Saipan air field. He was attached to the 73rd wing on that island.

Planning to continue his graduate work toward a Ph.D., next semester, Mr. Bartley will be an instructor in the university only until January.

Mr. Bartley received his A.B. degree from Wesleyan university in 1940, and assisted David Fellman, now on leave in Italy, while working for his master's degree which he received from the university in 1941. He entered the army in 1941.

Married, with a 2 year old daughter, Mr. Bartley raises Cocker Spaniels as a hobby. A confirmed poker player and pipe-smoker, he still can't get used to the idea of lecturing six hours a week, preparing the lectures, and having free time to walk, read or play golf.

But just like any other veteran, he's glad to be home.

Intramural Golf Contest Opens Oct. 13

University golfers will get a chance to show their wares next week end, Saturday, Oct. 13 or Sunday, Oct. 14, as the fall intramural golf tournament gets underway.

All players, whether affiliated or not, are urged to enter, no restrictions being placed on the number of men entered from any organization. Entries need not be turned in to the director of intramurals, but each house should advise Director Lou Means as to the approximate number of entrants. Eighteen holes of medal play will determine the champion, with contestants privileged to play their round on either day. An individual champion will be declared, and a four man team championship will be awarded. The four lowest scores in each organization will be used in finding the team champion.

Winter rules will be used in the tournament, with the only restriction being that at least two organizations be represented in all foursomes, all members attesting to the scores turned in by the foursome members.

The low medalist over 18 holes will be named individual champion. In case of a tie, nine extra holes will be played to determine the winner.

Each entrant will be responsible for his own green fees. Site of the tournament is not yet determined, but all entrants will be notified in plenty of time.
