Appeasement Policy

The following is the first paragraph of a letter from T. J. Thompson, Dean of Student Affairs:

"My attention has been called to an editorial in last Sunday's Nebraskan in which it is stated that grade ratings of the campus have not been published because the Nebraskan staff could not get them for love nor money. The implication is that members of your staff made a request of this office for the scholastic standings and were refused them. This is not true as you and members of your staff know."

At the time we received the letter from Dean Thompson Saturday morning, we had already had the extreme pleasure of two telephone calls and a one-hour argument with Dean W. C. Harper, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs. Consequently, we are a bit tired of the whole business. So, probably, is the Office of Student Affairs.

The implication that the Nebraskan staff could not obtain the scholarship standings of the university came from two things. All last spring, up until the time school was out, we tried to get the first semester 1944-45 standings, with no success. In my "chat" with Dean Harper last week he said that no one had tried to get the standings and that the first semester standings were always available after some time in April. In support of our claim, we produced the news editor who tried so many times to get the standings. So then Dean Harper stated that the standings hadn't been ready until June last year. All of which is no doubt true, but why didn't he just say so in the first place instead of telling us that we had never tried to get the standings? So much for that. The second point is that when we did see a copy of the standings this fall for second semester last year, we were told that they were "confidential."

But then, far be it from us to attempt the task of arguing any more with the Office of Student Affairs. If they say so, then that's that. We're tired of arguing, so, in the words of Dean Thompson, we have "accepted our responsibility as editor of the Nebraskan and made a statement of correction."

Make way for Neville Chamberlain, his umbrella and the ironic fact that the opinions stated above are not necessarily those of the editor.

on the final try that the pass fell incomplete.

Standing on his own 15, Brown then kicked beautifully over the Husker safety man's head and out of bounds on Nebraska's eighty-yard stripe. Brown was waiting for Story's return punt on the Husker 40 and with excellent downfield blocking, returned the oval to the 15. Five plays later Hopkins smashed over the left side of his line for two yards and a touchdown. The extra-point

O street and back to the campus. Each organized house is to have some type of stunt representing Nebraska against the Jayhawks. A plaque or cup will be awarded to each men's and women's organized house having the best stunt. "Stunts will be judged on the basis of originality and humor," stated Miss McKinsey.

Returning to the Union at 11:45 a. m., freshmen will be pitted against upperclassmen in a traditional tug of war. "There's strength in numbers, so get your gangs together," warned Miss McKinsey in explaining the schedule.

During the Homecoming game, there will be a card section, and last year's pep queen will be presented.

Climaxing the week end will be the Homecoming dance in the coliseum with Eddy Haddad and his orchestra. Tickets are being sold in the Union this week and by all Tassels. The dance, starting at 9 p. m., will feature the presentation of the 1945-46 pep queen.

placekick was wide but Missouri led 13 to 0.

The Huskers goal-line stand early in the third quarter was one of the highlights of the contest. Bill DeStious had broken away for 24 yards and a first down on the Husker eight to set the stage for the occasion. Four times Dellastious and Brown tested the Husker forward wall, but four times they were repulsed. They had exactly one yard to show for their efforts.

There were only 45 seconds remaining in the game when the Tigers scored their final six-pointer. Taking possession on their own 40-yard marker, they moved downfield largely as a result of short gains through the line by Bonnett and Brown. With the ball on Nebraska's 20, Bonnett personally took over the ball-totin' duties. His fourth straight thrust came from two yards out and the Tigers boosted their lead to 19 to 0. Steward's dropkick attempt for the extra point was no good.

The contest was very ragged and marred by numerous fumbles and penalties, particularly on the part of the winner. The Huskers were extremely alert on recovering enemy bobbles, though there was some question as to whether the Tigers were fumbling or the Huskers were stealing the ball in the manner that netted them a touchdown at Ames. Sedlacek of Nebraska and Ke-keris of Missouri were ejected from the game in the final period for engaging in fisticuffs. This action brought the crowd of more than 12,000 people to their feet instantly.

Outstanding for the Huskers were three members of the starting line that played a major portion of the contest. Fred Lorenz, who played in the backfield and then went back to his old guard position; Bob Costello, playing his first varsity game at center; and Sedlacek all played superbly. Kipper, Tegt and Moore also played bangup football all afternoon.

Brown, Bonnett and Dellastious were the big guns in the Tiger offensive. Burke and Clift were outstanding in line play.
