

HUSKER HIGHLIGHTS

By George Miller

BY JUDGE MASON.

After haunting the door of the field house for two hours one afternoon we finally succeeded in hearing three harmonious voices floating over the air from some secluded shower. It was none other than the Husker trio, Freddie Lorenz, Rog Johnson and Salo Miller exercising their lungs for their next appearance at Spencer's.

This all might sound very confusing but anyway when we heard this trio we decided to get on the Husker fan bandwagon, so we sneaked past the boss and managed to climb into this column for a dissertation on the Big Men On Campus (literally speaking). The rightful owner of this column, George Miller, has just wandered off to find another space, so this is our chance!

There is a girl in this city of whom the coed football fans should be very jealous. Her name is Evelyn Bodfield and we understand that she's the favorite of the team. It seems that Spencer's has been serving the Huskers some steak dinners, free of charge, for being such good kids, and that this one Evelyn Bodfield is their favorite waitress. Rumor has it that these three singin' romeos, Lorenz, Johnson and Miller, inc., executed a smooth serenade there Monday night—and we doubt if they were singing to the team.

The guys have a big complaint, though—Evelyn is engaged! (What do you say we get married off, huh??)

Speaking of girl troubles, we found Tommy Noble, student manager, sitting on a bench mumbling to himself about the awful time he has keeping track of the team on trips, thanks to the fem fatales. "Every time they see a girl, they're off!" complained Tommy, casting a dirty look. Following up this look we found Truk Williams at the other end of it and we proceeded to drag the story out of his team mates.

On the way to the last-of-town game some irresistible force (cherchez la femme) caused Truk to jump off the train as it slowed down to go through a town. He trotted lazily along the platform, grinning to himself and having a great time, expecting to re-board the train a few cars back. Lady Luck, however, played a mean trick on him and he found all the train doors locked except the one he had left, and the train was gaining speed. Team members say they have never before seen Truk move so energetically as he raced the train to get up to his car and jump back on. They offered to enter him in the next track meet—but he didn't think that was so funny.

One of those rare types of football players that you often hear about but seldom see is Buck "hi-ya-fella!" Buchanan. We understand he actually keeps newspaper clippings (there's our boy!) and instead of etchings on the ceiling he has pictures of himself mounted on wood on his dresser to lure the unsuspecting coed. Heard that he usually manages to lead the team a merry chase—on the gridiron?

Prize remark:
Rex Hoy: Where d'ya live Mack?
Mack "the-guy-who-didn't-get-his-black-eye-playing football"
Robinson: Norfolk!
R. H.: Where's that?
Mack: You don't know Nor-

I M Football Season Ends; Fijis First, Betas Second

Bringing the 1945 intramural football season to a close, Beta Theta Pi slipped by Sigma Epsilon, 7 to 0, Monday night to gain undisputed possession of second place behind the all-victorious Phi Gamma Delta outfit.

The win gave the Betas an 8-1 record and a half game advantage over third place Phi Delta Theta. The fight for fourth place ended in a tie between Sigma Alpha folks? Why Norfolk's a suburb of the Lamp Room!

(Any similarity to actual names and remarks is purely coincidental).

Prize conversation:
Place: An Indiana Drug Store.
Time: October 13.
Characters: A group of Huskers and Indiana coeds.

After casual conversation had passed around the group for awhile, Bob Korte took his leave and the following remark issued from a quiet, soft-spoken young girl: "That is positively the most beautiful hunk of man I've ever seen!"

Incidentally, everyone on the team is waiting to see Hunk Korte's wife. Or maybe he talks too much! Or maybe he's looking for her too. Most any Wednesday night you can see him out in front of the Union, looking for some girl to go to a show with him. Found one yet Hunk, I mean Bob?

Funniest thing we've ever heard:
"Clete Fischer hasn't had time for any love life."

Epsilon, Sigma Chi and Phi Kappa Psi.

A total of 87 games were played, with 342 men competing on 23 campus teams. Spectator interest ran high throughout the season as the fight for top places brought spirited and hard-fought battles.
