

IM Aspirants Meet in Cross Country Race

Thanksgiving special for all university intramural aspirants will be the first annual cross country turkey race on Tuesday, November 20, at 4:30.

The turkey day queen and her court of coeds representing the WAA will make the awards at the reviewing stand on the intramural athletic field following the race. The race gets under way in front of the coliseum and finishes in front of the reviewing stand after winding over a campus course. The distance is 3-4 of a mile.

250 Entrants.

An entry field of over 250 men is expected for the event, with all contestants competing for individual honors as well as team recognition. The first sixteen men to finish will score points for their group, and a team must have at least six men finish the race to qualify for team points. If twelve men from one group finish the race, that group will receive ten extra bonus points.

A medal and a live turkey will go to the winner. The second place men will receive a goose, third man will take home a duck, and the next four places will get live chickens. An egg will go to the thin clad who straggles in last.

Course Patrolled.

Members of the NROTC unit will patrol the course to see that contestants do not cut corners. Disqualification is the penalty for this offense.

Awgwan Release Brings Plagiarism Plague to Campus

NATURE NOTE:

Parasites are small insignificant organisms which feed on other larger and more robust organisms. Without their more virile hosts the parasites would soon perish from lack of food.

JOURNALISTIC NOTE:

The awgwan, campus humor magazine in lower case letters, has been released upon the campus. Included in this issue are a multitude of articles by contributors also associated with the campus newspaper, The Nebraskan.

Three such articles had not appeared in the Nebraskan previous to their unveiling in the awgwan. But there are a number of smaller items, twenty-one by actual count, which were printed word for word in The Nebraskan previous to their appearance in the awgwan.

Home Ec Group Holds Candlelight Initiation Service

Special invitations to the home economics club candlelight initiation ceremony Thursday evening have been distributed to all home ec club members, according to Monica Alberty, president. Services will begin at 7:15 in room 306 in ag hall.

Held each year, the ceremony will be for all members of the organization including the new freshmen women. Membership in the group is open to any student taking home economics. General chairman of the program is Edith Pumphrey, while Evelyn Mumma and Mary Ellen McFarland are in charge of invitations and refreshments.

Any member who has not yet received her invitation is asked to take one from the bulletin board in the home ec building. Miss Pumphrey also announced that the program will be over in time for the square dancing lessons.

Three Students Win Experimental Production Leads

John Kormos, NRO student from Cleveland, O., who appeared in "Hands Across the Seas" last month, and Annette Segel, freshman, will play the Marquis and the Marchioness in "Minuet," one of the next offerings of the Experimental Theater on November 29. The other members of the cast for Louis Parker's one-act play in verse is Jesse Thomas, sophomore, as the gaoler.

"It's subtle, cynical and beautiful," was the plot description offered by Jacquelyn Rasmussen, student director of the production.

Takes Lead.

June Gast will take the lead in J. M. Synge's "Riders to the Sea," also scheduled for presentation on Thursday, November 29. Other members of the cast, which will be under the supervision of Howard Henry, remembered as Charles in "Blythe Spirit" student director are: Don Douglas, Dorothy Manion, Marjorie Matthews, Dick O'Meara, Bob Hausman, Margaret Hancock, Genere Mitchell and Sue Taube.
