UN Teams Face Holiday Schedule

Varsity Men Battle Iowa

Husker varsity gridders face a tough assignment when they go against the determined Iowa Hawkeyes Saturday in the season's finale at Memorial stadium. The Iowans are fresh from an upset triumph over Minnesota and are primed to close the season with another victory.

Using comparative scores as a standard, the Huskers are definite underdogs against the Hawkeyes, since Minnesota trounced Nebraska 67 to 7 earlier this year. It was an entirely different Minnesota team that faced the Iowans, however, and the Nebraska squad has greatly improved over its early season performances.

Clark.

With dead eye Jerry Niles, a 26-year-old war-veteran, in the driver's seat the Hawkeyes passed and ran the Gophers into defeat, winning 20 to 19 after staving off a last minute Minnesota surge.

At the same time Nebraska was

Nubbins Meet Wayne TC

Coach Jerry Kathol's Nubbins squad, 27 strong, will swing into action on Thanksgiving day at Grand Island against the Wayne State Teachers' college eleven in a game sponsored by the Grand Island chamber of commerce.

The Nubbins got a good workout against South Dakota State Saturday, as they were on the field most of the second half. Dick Saladen, tiny Red Cloud speedster; John Arkfeld, Battle Creek fullback, and Don Harrington, former Lincoln Northeast performer, impressed coaches and spectators with their actions against the Sodaks.

Kathol.

Not too much is known about the Wayne squad, but the Wildcats have victories over the University of South Dakota, South Dakota Wesleyan, Hastings College and Yankton. Morningside held them to a scoreless tie, while

Irish Poet Speaks At UN Convocation

Oliver St. John Gogarty, famed Irish poet and wit, speaking on "Poets I Have Known," will be presented as the speaker for the third all-university convocation Monday.

The convocation will begin at 4 p. m. and will be held in the Union ballroom, according to

K. M. Arndt, chairman of the university convocation series.

Born in Dublin in 1878, Gogarty was a practicing surgeon, throat specialist and aviator after his graduation from Trinity college. Changing to politics in 1922, he served as a senator of the Irish Free State until 1936.

Lives in Exile.

Since he led the opposition to De Valera, Irish prime minister, and the Sinn Feiners, he was obliged to live in exile for a time in England.

Gogarty has intimately known William Butler Yeats, George Russell, Lord Dunsany and George Moore. He is known as the inspiration for the character "Buck Milligan" in James Joyce's novel, "Ulysses." In addition to knowing many poets intimately, he was a close friend of the members of the Irish Literary Revival.

Writing poetry on his own, Gogarty's own collection of prose and verse include "An Offering of Swans," "Hyperthuliana," "Wild Apples," "Selected Poems," "As I Was Going Down Sackville Street," "I Follow St. Patrick," "Others to Adorn," "Elbow Room," "Going Native," and "Mad Grandeur."

Oscar, Violet Digest Holiday

Thanksgiving comes but once a year. And when it comes, we're glad it's here.

Let us, first, bow low and give humble thanks to the kind Providence that gave us four days of vacation. Through? Fine! Now to continue the praise of this noble day.

Who, more than college students, could be thankful to hail this port of refuge after nearly three months on a turbulent sea? It's hard to believe that the day is nearly upon us, but as the train

Regents Tells Of Chemurgy Experiment

Establishment of an expeller-type pilot plant for the processing of safflower seeds was announced recently by the Board of Regents.

The plant will be put into operation early in January under the direction of the university chemurgy department. It will be installed in the chemurgy laboratory on Ag campus.

Original sum requested for the equipment was $70,000, but the Regents were able to purchase a used plant for $10,000, $1,500 coming from the Nathan Gold Chemurgy fund and the balance from the university's biennial appropriation.

Home Ec Group Sponsors Annual Richards Dinner

One of the major college events this year will be the annual Ellen H. Richards dinner and program to be held Thursday, November 29, at 6:15 p. m. in the Union ballroom.

Open to all home economics students, faculty members and Lincoln home economists, the banquet is being sponsored by the Home Ec club. Tickets for the event went on sale Monday and may be purchased at the desk on the 2nd floor of the H. E. building. All reservations must be made by 5:00 p. m. Monday, November 26.

The dinner is named for and held in honor of Mrs. Ellen H. Richards who was the first president of the American H. E. association and was the founder of the science of modern home economics.

Director Arthur E. Westbrook Announces Messiah Soloists

Dr. Arthur E. Westbrook, director of the School of Fine Arts, announces the soloists in the "Messiah," which will be presented Dec. 9.

The soloists who will take part are: Burl Beam, a music major in the graduate college. He received his A. B. at Simpson college, Indianola, Ia. Mr. Beam was a first lieutenant in the air corps, and flew 38 bomber missions over Germany from England in eight weeks.

Frederic Teller is president of the junior class and is enrolled in the college of business administration. Mr. Teller is a member of Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia and Zeta Beta Tau.

Midland Transfer.

Leonard Blinde is a music major in the school of fine arts, Teachers' college. Mr. Blinde is a transfer from Midland college, Fremont, Neb., and is a member of Phi Mu Alpha-Sinfonia.

Jean Thompson is a sophomore in the college of arts and sciences. She is a psychology major and a member of Alpha Phi.

Barbara Olson is a music major in the school of fine arts in Teachers' college. Miss Olson is a junior and a member of Delta Omicron music sorority, and Alpha Phi.

Helen Laird is a junior and a music major in the school of fine arts.

Nebraska Graduate Originates Game for Hospitalized Soldiers

Success for an ex-GI who devised a "cut out" game for hospitalized soldiers suffering from combat fatigue, has become today a nation-wide business operated entirely by World War II veterans.

The ex-GI is Wesley Matthews who graduated from the Nebraska Department of Architecture in 1932. The "game" is a system of cut outs with which any one can plan their own home in sufficient detail to be used by a contractor.

Soon after Matthews entered the service in 1943, he was assigned to the Air Corps convalescent hospital at Fort Logan, Colo. While there, a nurse at the hospital asked Sgt. Matthews for an extra set of drafting materials for a soldier patient who wanted to pass the time drawing plans for his own home. As the drafting was too bulky for the bed-ridden soldier, he offered to devise a substitute.

The substitute was the "game." One large sheet was nothing but a grid of one inch squares. Two more sheets carried outlines of over a score different sized rooms. The fourth sheet illustrated in architects' blueprint fashion types of windows, doors, closets, stairways, plumbing and light fixtures. The fifth sheet illustrated a large variety of furniture as architects draw them into plans for homes. As everything was drawn to scale, all the soldier had to do was clip them out and paste them on the

Year's First Alumnus Features Return of Pre-war Atmosphere

BY PHEE MORTLOCK

Pictured on the cover of the November issue of the Nebraska Alumnus, are three servicemen returning to the Nebraska campus. They are: Gaylord Edling, '46, naval air corps ensign and Pacific air veteran, Bill Ray, '49, marine private first class, and veteran of the Tinian and Saipan campaigns, and Gerald Kathol, '43, air corps lieutenant in the European theater of war and a German prisoner for eight months.

Silhouetted on the third floor of Sosh as they look across the campus toward Andrews Hall, the three symbolize the determination and spirit with which every such man is taking up his normal life again.

A letter received by Miss Margaret Fedde, chairman of the home economics department, from Mrs. Francisco Carino (Clara Palafox, '26), a Manila resident, is featured in the new Alumnus. The letter describes three years under the Japanese rule and the hardship the Philippine Island residents underwent.

Increasing Normalcy

Note is taken of the increasing normalcy of the campus—proof of this is the return of the Corn Cobs to the campus, the resumed publication of the Awgwan, normal fraternity operation, and the welcome sight of men in classrooms and corridors, for a change.

Highlighting the entire issue is

Cornhusker Pix Schedule

Lincoln unaffiliated students and members of Towne Club may have their pictures taken Friday and Saturday, in addition to next week, as previously announced. Pictures will be taken at the Cornhusker Studio, 6th floor of Miller and Paive, from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., according to Beth Montgomery, Cornhusker managing editor.

Jr. Div. Students

Instruction sheets for registration for the second semester are now available at the Junior Division office. All Junior Division students are requested to call for their copies in University hall, room 1, immediately, according to Nels Bengston, dean of the Junior Division.
