Approval of a permanent constitution and of a new title, Presidents Assembly, were the main items of business dealt with by members of the Inter-organizational council at their meeting last Thursday, according to President Bob Coonley.

University Gets War Property From Surplus

Carl Donaldson, assistant purchasing agent, today said the university has purchased surplus war property valued at thousands of dollars for a "mere fraction of the cost to the government."

The equipment is being purchased thru RFC sales, and from abandoned air fields, war plants, and other military installations in Nebraska.

"The university has come into possession of an infinite amount of supplies and equipment at a tremendous saving," Donaldson said. It would have taken years of frugal purchasing to acquire the same amount."

Nominal Cost.

Much of the property is being acquired at a nominal handling cost to the university by outright donation from the federal government. This concession is made to schools which offer pre-induction instruction to young men such as is being done at Nebraska.

Considerable army salvage is being acquired in this manner also, according to Donaldson, and in outright purchases from the RFC the university receives an educational institution priority

Health Clinic Head Says Over 1100 Utilize Services

Approximately 1,126 students visited the university health clinic during the three weeks of school in December, Louis E. Means, director of student welfare, announced recently.

He attributed the high number of students reporting to the health service to the flu epidemic which reached its peak the second week of December.

Only Two Contagious Cases.

Of the students treated, only two were confined with contagious diseases in December, Means said, and only one case of surgery was necessary.

The director stated that a drive to eliminate "athlete's foot" had been highly successful last fall and only 28 cases were treated in December.

*It's a Secret!
It's Different!
It's on Feb. 9!*

Some day life will be different. We'll have nylons, soap, Buick convertibles and atomic energy. But until that future date, we're just going to have to wait for February 9.

February 9?

Or hadn't you heard? "It's Different!" What is different or why it is different, we don't know. What intrigues us is the little man sitting in a modified Yogi position, popping his eyes at us from every bulletin board on campus.

February 9?

In economics we are haunted by his face; in math we draw pictures of him instead of solving the Pythagorean theorem; in chemistry, we work out formulas for solving the mystery instead of finding the formula for hydro-sulphuric nitrogen.

February 9?

Discussions of the mystifying signs are carried on everywhere. Walking into the Cribs, we hear nothing but "What's different?" At home, we retreat to our room to escape the torture and find that our roommate has pinned its picture on the wall instead of our photograph of Van Johnson.

February 9?

Is there no end to this? From afar, we hear a wee small voice whisper, "Not till February 9!"

Union Activities For Week Include Siesta Film Hour

Union activities for the week will begin this afternoon at 4:30 with a Siesta Film Hour in the lounge. Travel shorts and the March of Time will be presented.

There will also be a matinee dance in the ballroom at 5 today. Friday evening from 9 to 11:30 there will be a juke box dance, and Saturday night from 9 to 12 the Smith-Warren orchestra will play for a dance.

Variety Show.

A variety show will be presented Sunday at 3 with the movie "Higher and Higher," starring Frank Sinatra, Michele Morgan, and Jack Haley. A coffee hour will follow the show at 5 in the lounge where coffee and doughnuts will be served.
