

Miss Jo Ackerman Chosen As TNC

Miss JoAnne Ackerman, 1946 Typical Nebraska Coed, was presented Feb. 28 at the annual production of Coed Follies in the Nebraska Theater.

Joanne L. Ackerman was revealed as the 1946 Typical Nebraska Coed at the annual A.W.S. Coed Follies Thursday night.

Miss Ackerman was introduced as TNC directly after the style show in which the 21 candidates modeled trousseau fashions. Ruth Korb, style show announcer, made the presentation. Miss Ackerman was selected by a committee of faculty members and officers of A.W.S. on the basis of poise, popularity, appearance, smile and student activities.

Statistics for Miss Ackerman and the average university coed are comparatively the same. The average coed is five feet five inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, has brunette hair and at least one extra-curricular activity. The new TNC is five feet five and one half inches tall, weighs 122 pounds, brunette and is in Tassels, on the Cornhusker staff and participates in intramurals.

DG's, Town Club Win.

Winners in the Follies were Delta Gamma and Towne Club. Delta Gamma's "Where Do We Go From Here" was judged the best skit while Towne Club's "Egyptian Ella" was awarded first in the curtain acts. Second place skit honors went to Sigma Delta Tau's "Fairy Tale in Scarlet and Cream." Alpha Phi won second place in the curtain acts for their act "By the Sea." Eleanor Knoll presented the trophies.

Other skits given were "Seasonal Moods" by Alpha Xi Delta; "Toyland" by Kappa Kappa Gamma; and "Frankie and Johnny" by Alpha Chi Omega. Curtain acts included Kappa Alpha Theta's "Technique vs. Swing" and Chi Omega's "Fireman's Bride."

Engineers Nominate Candidates

Phillip Massie, electrical and civil engineering junior, and George Kuska, architectural senior, were selected as candidates for chairman of the Engineers Week committee by the engineering executive board Thursday, Feb. 28. Vice-chairman candidates are Herb Simons, chemical engineering senior, and Irwin Cone, mechanical engineering junior.

A general election will be held Thursday, March 7, in the Mechanical Arts building. All registered upperclass engineers are eligible to vote.

Present plans for Engineers Week, April 25-26-27, call for open house as the main event Thursday, Friday engineering classes will be dismissed in time for a special all university convocation followed by the annual Engineers Field day and picnic in the afternoon. The banquet presenting the "Sledge" Friday evening and the Ball Saturday will climax the social events of the week.

Activity Supervision.

All activities will be supervised by the committee consisting of the chairman and vice-chairman of each departmental committee. From the civil engineering department, Norris Luedtke and Nelson Parrish; electrical engineering, Philip Massie and Fred Kohler; architectural engineering, George Kuska and Robert Sternons; mechanical engineers, Leroy Foster and Irwin Cone, and from the chemical engineers, Richard Brese and Herb Simons.

A joint faculty-student forum will be sponsored by the executive board Thursday, March 14. Tentatively planned for the Union ballroom, the session will be open to upperclassmen and faculty members of the college. Curricula changes will be discussed and any

Wilcox to Speak At Convocation

Clair Wilcox, director of the office of international trade policy in the department of state, will discuss "The Proposed Loan to Britain" at an all-university convocation Monday in the Union ballroom at 3:00 p. m.

Wilcox, who is on leave of absence from Swarthmore college, where he is professor of economics, will conclude the session with a question and answer period.

Known Publisher.

Included in Wilcox's many publications are "Rate Limitation"; "General Property Tax," 1922; and "Competition and Monopoly in American Industry," 1941. He has also contributed to economic, tax and news magazines.

Professor Wilcox received two degrees, B. S. and M. A., from the University of Pennsylvania and an M. A. from Ohio State college. He is a Pi Beta Kappa, was chairman of the conference on price research, and is affiliated with the American Association of University Professors.

Doctor Orr Endows Books To Library

An endowed collection of books on Anne of Brittany has been presented Love Memorial library by Dr. H. Winnett Orr, prominent Lincoln surgeon.

A group of 140 titles, totaling 265 volumes, the collection will furnish research material to students of French history and literature, according to Frank A. Lundy, university librarian.

The endowment which accompanies the collection, it was explained by Perry W. Branch, University Foundation director, will provide for future purchases of books on this subject, and for the care of the collection.

Queen of France.

The collection includes several biographies of Anne of Brittany, who was born in 1477, became Duchess of Brittany in 1488, and Queen of France when she was 14. A woman of great charm and intellectual capacity, her death in 1514 was mourned by all of France.

Included in the volumes from the collection now on display in the documents room on the third floor of Love Memorial is Anne's private prayer book, considered one of the most beautifully illuminated books ever prepared for personal devotions.

Photographs.

In addition to the books, Dr. Orr has given the library his photographs and slides of Brittany, as well as his personal scrapbook, lecture notes and travel souvenirs. His interest in Anne's life began when serving as a consulting orthopedic surgeon in Brittany during the first World War.

Veterans' Meeting

All veterans are asked to bring their student identification cards and proof of discharge to the next meeting of the Veterans Organization, to be held in the Union ballroom Tuesday night at 7.

These items are needed for proof of eligibility for voting, according to Richard Sinsel, steering committee member.

AUF Begins Red Cross Drive Today

Speaking tours to organized houses on the campus will officially open the Red Cross drive at the university tomorrow night, according to AUF Director Jan Engle.

Representatives will contact the members of the houses during the week-long drive for a contribution of $2. The goal for 1946 has been set at $2,500.

Unaffiliated students living in Lincoln may donate to the Red Cross at booths in Sosh and the Union and at Ag hall on ag campus. A poster in the Union lobby will indicate the progress of the drive during the week.

Among the services which the Red Cross renders in time of peace are disaster preparedness and relief, nursing service, nutrition service and the civilian blood donor service.

For the returned veteran, Home Service workers are trained to aid the men in filling out papers for claims and benefits. Red Cross field directors are located in every Veterans Administration office to advise the veteran.

In addition, Red Cross clubs, clubmobiles and other recreational facilities will function overseas until they are no longer needed by

USA To Hold Stag Special Juke Dance

A "Stag Special" juke box dance, sponsored by the Unaffiliated Student association, will be held Friday, March 8, from 9 to 12 at the Union.

According to Don Huffman, U S A president, the affair is a gettogether dance for all unaffiliated students. Veterans and their wives are especially invited.

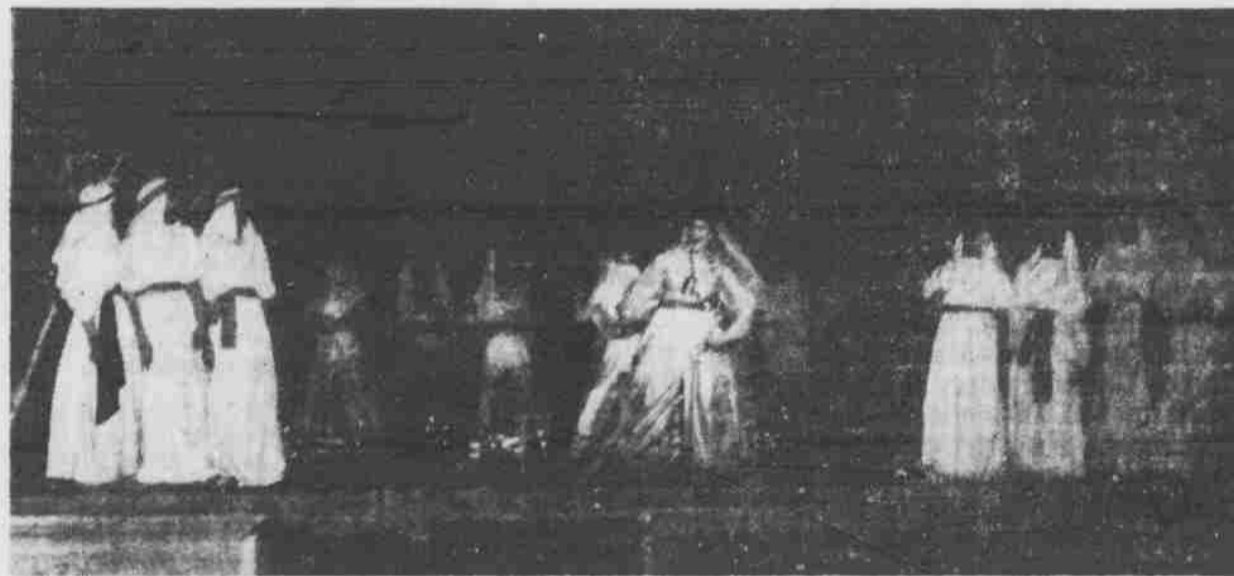

Dates Unnecessary.

Dates for the dance are entirely unnecessary, Huffman emphasized, since the dance is a stag special.

Free refreshments will be served during an evening of dancing, mixers and a floor show. The floor show consists of vocal and dance solos by students.

Tickets for the "Stag Special" at 20 cents each, may be purchased at the Union office, from a U S A council member or at the door.

Speakers for the Red Cross drive will meet at 5:45 p. m. Monday night in the Daily Nebraskan office in the Union basement for instructions, according to Shirley Jenkins, publicity chairman.

Towne Club's presentation of "Egyptian Ella" featuring Blanche Duckworth's swinging hips and an equally swingy background chorus, copped first place honors in Coed Follies' skit bracket. Marilyn Davis directed the skit. Ella pantomimes her wiles and succeeds in capturing eligible sultans and the envy of less agile harem-ites.

"Where Do We Go From Here?" directed by Mimi Hahn for the Delta Gamma's won the first nod from the judging section in the curtain act division of Coed Follies. Luscious examples of each state's scenery parade, but Nebraska's beauties come in winners.
