Honoring over 400 students, the university's annual Honors Day convocation will be held at the coliseum Tuesday, April 16, Prof. Linus Burr Smith, Honors Day convocation committee chairman, announced today.

In addition to students ranking scholastically in the upper ten per cent of their class, members of various honorary scholastic organizations on the campus and winners of scholarship awards will be announced, Professor Smith added.

All classes, laboratories and university offices will be closed Tuesday morning, April 16, for the convocation, which is the only formal campus-wide recognition of high scholarship during the year.

He is a native Nebraskan and graduated from the university in 1897 with an AB degree. He obtained an MA in 1898. Mr. Johnson received an honorary degree from the university at the 1940 commencement exercises.

The convo speaker was a professor of economics at Nebraska from 1906 to 1908. He has taught at the University of Texas, University of Chicago, Leland Stanford university and at Cornell. Kosmet's Back And Just Guess Who's Got Him

By Bob Dickenman, Sam Warren.
"Kosmet's back and UN's got him" (or will have a week from tomorrow.) This chant plagues us from every quarter. Whispered from a far corner, the cry breaks the pin-drop silence of Love Library. Warbled in a shrill coloratura, it is heard above the school of music's composite din. Blurted blithely throughout a crowded Union lobby, the words, "Kosmet's back, April 13th... Kosmet men... April!" resound again and again.

Can't Get Away!

There's no escaping it. Chatter about "spring show," "pony chorus," "blonde wigs" and "Prince" and "Sweetheart" and "hairy hilarity" and "hey, Fo-o-oldda" "Fo-o-oldda" are driving us stark, raving, and mad. Determined at last that we, too, could be inside dopes, we summoned up courage to ask someone "Elmer... oh Elmer," be approached timidly, "do you know anything about a blonde pony or a wig chorus?" we stammered.

"You're insane, man, insane. Unless...
"Yes?"
"Unless...
"Yes?"

"Unless you mean pony chorus and blonde wigs and all the rest of the roaring fun that goes with (See KOSMET, page 4.)

Mitropoulos Forsakes Priesthood for Music

BY SAM WARREN.

Dimitri Mitropoulos, famed conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, which will be heard here at the coliseum tonight, is a man who really wanted something and then set out with all his energy to get it!

Music was his goal and music his career, despite the obstacle of family opposition. And as great symphony conductors go, he attained his goal at a comparatively young age. The trouble was that his family, stout members of the Greek Orthodox church, had decided for young Dimitri that he should be a priest. The fact that two uncles were monks, his grandfather a priest, and his granduncle an archbishop didn't elevate Dimitri's hopes much! Religion, as practiced in the Greek church, and music simply could not mix.

Persistence.

By the time he was 16, however, his persistence had convinced his

Scholarship Money Given To University

Five thousand dollars in scholarship funds will be given to the University Foundation by the Nebraska Scottish Rite, it was learned by university officials Sunday following the annual meeting of the Rite's educational committee.

The money will be used for general scholarships in all fields of university activities, including those outstate. All students of sophomore standing or above will be eligible. The foundation will receive $1,000 each year for five years.

Helps Education.

Howard Wilson, president of the University Foundation, expressed the foundation's pleasure in receiving the funds. "It is fine," said Wilson, "for both the university students and the Scottish Rite. After all," he added, "the Scottish Rite has always been interested in good education, and the granting of this scholarship is right in line with this principle."

Versatile.

Brown will play for three hours, from 9 to 12 p. m.

Banquet Theme Is Announced By Journalists

University magazines have been chosen as the theme for the annual Theta Sigma Phi journalism banquet Thursday night, according to Ruth Korb, president of the women's honorary journalism sorority.

With Fritz Daly, new alumni secretary, as the speaker of the evening, the banquet will begin at 6:30 in the Cornhusker ballroom. In addition to the talk by Mr. Daly, members of the Awgwan staff will entertain the journalists with a skit.

New President

Another highlight of the evening, according to Miss Korb, will be the announcement of the new Theta Sig president and the delegate to the national convention in Chicago next June.

Miss Korb stressed that any students interested in journalism are invited. Members of the staffs of any of the publications and journalism majors are especially urged to attend this annual banquet honoring the newspapers and their future reporters, editors and owners, she stated.

Tickets are $1.75 and may be purchased from any member of Theta Sigma Phi or in the Union office, according to Miss Korb.

Two parties have been set up on the campus, the Student Party for Democratic Government, holdover from last year, and the Union Independent party, a newly organized group.

In order to explain the functioning and platforms of the two parties, the Daily Nebraskan has published statements, letters from the leaders, and the method of voting in party conventions.

Student Party Executive.

The Student Party is directed by a committee composed of Mary Ann Mattoon, Don Kline, Shirley Hinds, Gerry McKinsey, Betty Lou Horton, Suzanne Pope, Barbara Griswold, Audrey Ernst, Edith Pumphrey, Bill Miller, Helen Laird and Bob Gillan. These members were elected last fall, together with eight seniors who have since graduated. New members of the committee will be elected at the next party caucus, according to Miller.

Miller stated that the platform of the Student Party will be adopted by the party members in an open caucus of all members. To nominate students for positions, any member can nominate from the floor and final candidates are determined by secret ballot of all the members, he added.

First Registration.

In the first party registration of the year, 167 students registered for the Student party and 480 for the Union Independent party.

Last year the Student and Progressive parties contested for positions on Student Council, Publications Board and Ivy Day Orator. The two parties had almost equal membership but in the general spring election, Student Party candidates were elected to fill a majority of the offices.

The complete organization of the Union Independent Party is as follows:

"The Union Independent Party is a campus political organization consisting of students whose purpose is to set forth worthy principles which will unite University of Nebraska students, regardless of social affiliations into a forward movement for the betterment of the University of Nebraska; to nominate a slate of (See ELECTIONS, page 4.)

Veteran's Organization

The regular meeting of the Veterans' Organization will be held Wednesday night, April 10, and not April 12, as was previously announced, according to Chairman Marion Mitchell.

The meeting will be held in the Studio theatre in the Temple.
