

Ag Students Vote Today For Goddess

Today is the last day for ag students to vote in the annual election of the "Goddess of Agriculture" to reign over the traditional ag ball. Voting will be in Ag Hall and the Home Ec building.

Presentation of the goddess and her court will be made at a semi-formal dance, Friday, April 26 in the College Activities building. Eddie Sheffert and his orchestra have been scheduled to play for the affair.

49 Seniors

Forty-nine senior women have been nominated for the title and the coed receiving the highest number of popular votes will be goddess and the six next highest will be her attendants.

Specific qualifications are necessary for eligibility for the honorary position. All candidates shall have been registered in the college of agriculture one academic year and the equivalent of one other. She must be a representative home economics student with a scholastic average of 80 or above, active in ag activities and shall have shown qualities of leadership.

Dorothy Stevens, publicity chairman, and Gerry Gowen, tickets, head the dance committee. The Home Ec club is conducting the voting.

Dye, Dickenman Report at Joint YM, YW Meeting

Mary Dye and Bob Dickenman, district representatives, will report on summer opportunities such as conferences, jobs and "Y" projects at a joint meeting of the city campus YMCA and YWCA tonight at 7 in the Temple building.

Continuing the program, Mimi Anne Johnson will describe service projects and Bill Miller will tell about student industry projects. Slides of Estes Park resorts are of be shown.

John Peters and Tibby Curley will direct recreational games and Warren Thomas will lead worship service.

VETS' MEETING.

All veterans are urged to attend the discussion of the proposed reserve air corps unit for Lincoln tonight at 7:15 in the studio theater in the Temple. This will be a part of the regular vet's organization meeting, according to Richard Sinsel, publicity chairman.

Morrill To Add New Art Works To Collection

After conferring with two visiting "experts," the university art galleries climaxed a month of art activity with recommendation for purchase of eight art works to be added to the permanent collection at Morrill hall, according to Dwight Kirsch, university art galleries director.

As required by the will of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hall, a written statement of approval was signed by two efficient art critics, Mr. Philip R. Adams, director of the Cincinnati Art museum, and Mr. Henry R. Hope, chairman of the Fine Arts department of Indiana university.

Following is the list of recommendations:

- Paintings—
Jack Levine, "Pensionnaire," oil.
B. J. O. Norfeldt, "Rooster," Oil.
Watercolors and Drawings—
Charles Demuth, "Backdrop of East Lynn," tempera.
"Pop" Hart, "Spring in New Orleans," drawing.
Stanley Hayter, "Amazon," engraving.
Doris Rosenthal, "Toilette," drawing.
Everett Shinn, "Ecole de Medicine," pastel.
- Sculpture—
Jose de Creeft, "Juanito," serpentine marble.

KOSMET KLUB.

Dick Folda, Kosmet Klub president, has scheduled a meeting in room 316 of the Student Union Thursday at 5:00 for all workers when ALL money and tickets are to be turned in.

Student Party Wins Margin of 67 Votes

Prof. L. Smith Urges Uniform Building Code

"A common sense uniform building code" which will protect the safety and health of both rural and city dwellers, is needed in Nebraska, Prof. Linus Burr Smith, Architecture department chairman, told the Nebraska Engineering Society Saturday.

He suggested that if "vested interests" would prevent legislative enactment of a fair and workable code, one could be adopted by co-operation and understanding between labor, designers, contractors and materials dealers.

Two Sections.

According to Smith, a uniform building code might well contain two sections—a basic code including only the broad legal requirements of what is to be done in construction, alteration, addition or demolition by stipulating minimum requirements, and a construction code with sufficient flexibility prescribing methods by which the basic code might be accomplished.

For enforcing such a code, he advocated the system used in Indiana. It consists of an administrative council composed of the

In the all-campus registration held Tuesday, 757 students registered. The Student party for Democratic Government captured 412 members, and 345 students voted for the Union Independent party.

In the first party registration of the year, 167 students registered for the Student party and 480 for the Union Independent party.

At the second party registration Tuesday, party membership was decided. Each party will hold meetings at which candidates will be chosen to compete for Student Council positions, Ivy Day orator and membership on Publications Board.

A later election will take place April 25 in which all university students may vote. This election decides new Council and Publications Board members and the Ivy Day orator.

Ivy Poet Entries Due By April 23

Entries for the Ivy Day Poet contest must be turned into the Union office by Tuesday, April 23, Barbara Griswold, Mortar Board president, announced yesterday. All undergraduate students are eligible to compete by entering original poems relevant to Ivy Day proceedings and traditions.

The poems will be judged by three members of the English department. See IVY DAY, Page 2.

Gamma Lambda Meets.

Gamma Lambda, honorary band fraternity, will meet Wednesday afternoon at 1:00 p. m. in room 315 of the Student Union. All members are urged to attend this important re-organization meeting, according to Stan Lowe.

Prof. Loeffel Acts on Animal Health Board

Professor W. J. Loeffel, chairman of the animal husbandry department, has been invited to serve as chairman of a national committee studying animal health conditions.

Representing a wide geographical area of individuals interested in phases of the livestock industry, this committee is a part of a larger group instigated by the Agricultural Board of the National Research Council of Washington, D. C.

Study Laws.

The Agricultural Board is under the general chairmanship of W. C. Coffey, former president of the University of Minnesota. Professor Loeffel's committee will study the laws, rules and regulations. (See PROF. LOEFFEL, page 4.)

May Establish Reserve Air Corps Unit for Former Army Personnel

Former air corps personnel who wish to maintain skills acquired while in service and keep up with new developments in army flying equipment, may have an opportunity to do so, according to a recent announcement by John M. Campbell, chamber of commerce aviation committee chairman.

Efforts to develop a reserve corp unit comprising former officers and enlisted men in Lincoln and the surrounding area, are being made by the aviation committee. Men interested must make the fact known to the committee as soon as soon as possible.

Best Aircraft.

Possibilities of the unit's work include not only working with the finest aircraft itself, but the latest in conventional engine and jet propulsion, as well as newest electric and radio apparatus, Campbell said.

The accompanying blank form should be filled in by all men wishing to participate and sent to the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Lincoln. Information contained on the blank is solely for the purpose of organizing the local group and the signing of it in no way obligates or binds the signer to membership.

Advantages.

In outlining advantages of being a member, Campbell asserted that those taking part in the reserve unit may receive pay commensurate with their ability and upon retirement may receive full benefits. He added that not only will they be able to maintain their homes, but will continue in regular lines of employment.

Emphasizing the necessity for all components of a reserve air corps unit here, Campbell said that personnel requirements are not restricted to flying officers alone.

Need Combination.

"To have a smoothly functioning team, we need men for such duties as meteorologists, engineers, communications, personal equipment, transportation, and administrative positions," he said.

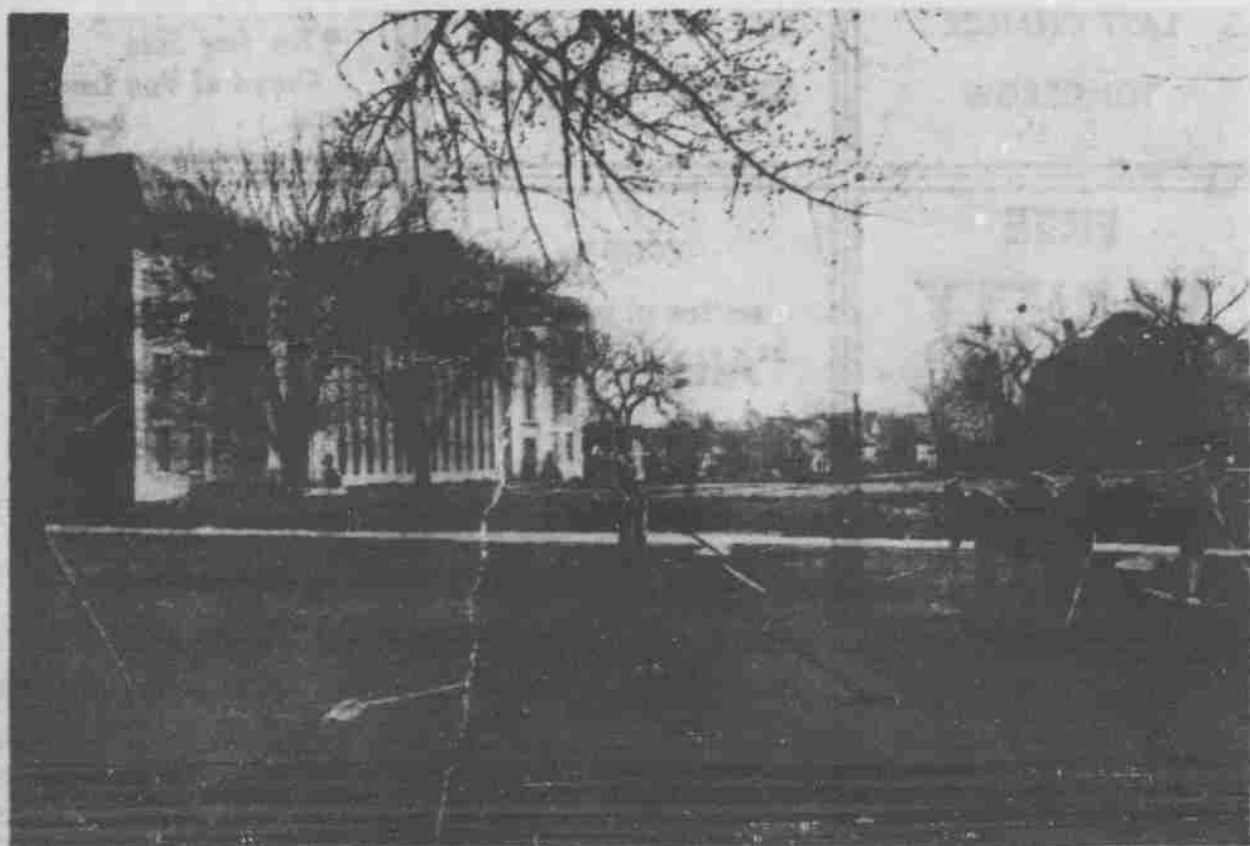

"Enlisted men needed in addition to aircraft and engine mechanics are radio operators, propeller, hydraulic and electrical specialists, armorers, gunners, See AIR CORPS, Page 4.

Religious Council Plans Services For Holy Week

Sponsoring a series of Holy Week services, the University Religious Welfare Council is scheduling campus plans for students.

The services will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the University Episcopal church at 13th and R from 7:15 to 7:45 p. m. The services will be planned by the Vesper Planning committee and the theme will be "With the Master."

Tuesday there will be a regular vesper service from 5 to 5:30 in parlors X, Y and Z in the Union. Jesse Caviler from the New York Labor Temple will be the speaker.

Landscaping Begins On Library, Sosh Area

Landscaping work has begun on the R street campus with the hope of developing a park setting for the Don L. Love Memorial library and the Social Sciences building. This setting would help set the campus apart from the adjoining and residential area, according to L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent.

The proposed park area is now being graded and leveled, existing shrubbery and trees having been removed to prepare the ground for the general seeding this spring.

The additional landscape plans now incomplete will not be carried out until fall. The planned park will contain walks, stone benches for students, and small fountains in addition to plantings of shrubs, trees, grass and flowers.

All the large frame houses, formerly occupying the proposed park area two blocks long and a half block wide extending from Lincoln's 12th to 14th streets, and a half block north from R street, have been removed.

National Home Ec Honorary Holds Pledge Ceremony

Five home economics students will be formally pledged to Omicron Nu, national departmental organization, Thursday evening.

New members include Nancy Bachkora, Margaret Sue Fishwood, Alberta Timas Gableman, Joanne Rapp and Helen Wulf.

On the basis of scholarship, campus leadership and professional attitude new members are elected each semester by active student and faculty members of Omicron Nu.