

Classes Dismissed For Honors Day

All classes will be dismissed from 10 a. m. to 12 noon Tuesday, April 16, for the annual Honors day convocation in the coliseum.

All offices, laboratories and libraries will be closed in addition to classes, Boucher said.

Faculty Letter.

In a letter to faculty members, Chancellor Boucher asked all instructors to urge students to be present for this occasion, the only campus-wide observance of high scholarship.

Principal speaker at the convocation will be Alvin Saunders Johnson, noted editor and educator, who until recently was director of the New School of Social Research at New York City.

Over 400 students with high scholarship will be given recognition at the convocation, Boucher said.

Dr. Westbrook Leads Easter Music Concert

The University Singers, under the direction of Dr. Arthur E. Westbrook and David Foltz, will present music for the Easter season this Sunday when they appear at First-Plymouth Congregational church.

The concert, which is open to the general public, will feature Faure's "Requiem" and Karg-Elert's "Fuge, Canzona and Epilogue," a work for organ, violin and women's voices.

Soloists.

Soloists for the "Requiem" will be Jacquelyn Rasmussen, soprano, and Alfred Blinde, baritone. Sung in Latin, the "Requiem" is composed of seven parts, respectively entitled "Introit and Kyrie," "Offertory," "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Blessed Jesus," "Lamb of God," "Deliver Me," and "In Paradise." Myron Roberts will be at the organ.

Assisting in the presentation of the Karg-Elert selection will be Wilbur Price, violinist, and Ernest Ulmer, pianist. The women of the University Singers join the organ and violin for the third part of the work, which is based on a Gregorian chant.

The vesper-concert begins at 5 o'clock in the main sanctuary of the church, located at 20th and D streets.

Capt. John Loy Lectures To NROTC Trainees

Captain John I. Loy, USMC, is delivering a series of lectures to the NROTC trainees on the history, achievements and functions of the Marine corps and will be on temporary duty here for two weeks.

His lectures are augmented with films showing the training of marines and combat, including the capture of prisoners on Iwo Jima.

Paul Robeson Blends Pleasure And Study in Colorful Career

BY SAM WARREN.

Baritone Paul Robeson, who sings here Saturday at the coliseum, has won laurels not only as a singer, but as an actor, scholar and athlete as well. In fact, his college career was a combination of these last two distinctions.

Winning a scholarship to Rutgers University in 1915, he made the highest marks of any student since the founding of the university in 1766. In his junior year he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, and he was graduated as valedictorian. At Rutgers he was not only a scholar, but a four-sport athlete as well, having lettered in baseball, football, track and basketball. For two years in succession he was chosen All-American end by Walter Camp.

First Performance.

Although his rich voice drew comments while he was in college, it was not until 1923 that he began his professional career, and that was as an actor, not a singer.

Means Reports On University Health Service

Daily calls at the student health service totaled 1,012 during the month of March, according to Louis E. Means, university director of Student Physical Welfare.

Only seven cases of contagious diseases were reported and at least two epidemics were averted by early diagnosis and segregation and treatment, said Means. Six students applying for treatment were hospitalized with only one requiring surgery. As part of the all-student routine tuberculin examination 130 X-rays were taken and 52 cases of athlete's foot were treated during the month. Thirty swimming permits were issued for men and women.

Health Conferences.

There were 32 personal health conferences reported by staff physicians, Drs. Warner, Lyman, Harms and Metheny. Twenty-four students were diagnosed by the (See MEANS, page 3.)

Character Sketch Features Ag YM, YW Discussion

Leading the weekly joint discussion group of the ag YM and YW at 12:20 today will be the Rev. Alvin Peterson. The meeting will be held in the home ec parlors.

Choosing as his topic, "The Character of Doubting Thomas," Rev. Peterson will give a brief character sketch and lead a discussion on the part that such a character would play in the world today.

The two groups work together in planning the Thursday noon programs, selecting topics from pertinent questions of interest to all students on the campus. Meetings are open to all students.

Tours Abroad.

As for his singing—that began in 1925 with a recital in Greenwich Village and his future was assured with his concert triumphs in European capitals and throughout Russia. Since then he has toured America from coast to coast to become one of the nation's well-loved artists.

Students who do not have student season tickets may purchase general admission tickets at Walt's Music Store, for $3. The recital begins at 8:30 Saturday evening.

Journalists Hear Daly at Banquet

Omaha Rabbi Will Speak To Students

"Alternatives to Chaos," will be discussed at 3 p. m. today by Dr. Lou H. Silberman, rabbi of Temple Israel in Omaha, before a student convocation in parlors XYZ.

A 1934 graduate of the University of California, Dr. Silberman was ordained in 1941 by the Hebrew Union college of Cincinnati. He was an instructor there in 1943, when he received the degree of Doctor of Hebrew Letters.

Student Pastor.

Dr. Silberman served as student pastor for Jewish students at Southwestern university, Georgetown, Tex., while he was a student there.

Well known in Lincoln through his numerous talks here, Dr. Silberman has spoken before several campus groups.

Essay Winner Will Receive Trip to Chicago

Winner of the 1946 Swift Essay Contest will receive a trip to Chicago to attend the International Livestock Exposition next December, according to announcement made by Dr. H. C. Filley, professor of animal husbandry.

The contest is open to all agricultural students in state agricultural colleges, but Dr. Filley stated that it was suggested by Swift & Co., sponsor of the contest, that contestants be men because of travel conditions.

Methods.

The essay must discuss the methods employed by the meat packing business in marketing meats, poultry, eggs, butter and cheese and should cover distribution of these products as a group rather than any one of them, Dr. Filley announced.

In addition to the trip to the Livestock Exposition, the winner will spend four days in Chicago, participating in a market study program outlined by Swift & Co. to acquaint students with the meat packing industry.

The essays will be read by judges selected by officials of the agricultural college.

Dr. Schwarting Speaks To Gamma Delta Tonight

Dr. A. E. Schwarting, Pharmacy college, will address members of Gamma Delta tonight on "Drugs Mentioned in the Bible."

He will speak to the group at its regular Bible Class meeting at 7:15 in the YM room of the Temple.

After the discussion the group will consider preparations for the annual Lutheran Student and Alumni banquet in May.

Photographer

Any students or faculty members who are interested in taking colored moving pictures as a part-time job are asked to contact John Mercer in room 101 of Morrill Hall in the afternoon. The work is done for the Visual Education department, according to Mr. Mercer.

All journalism majors and those interested in that field will gather at the Cornhusker hotel ballroom tonight at 6:30 for the annual Theta Sigma Phi journalism banquet. Fritz Daly, new alumni secretary, will address the group, and the Awgwan staff will present a skit.

Officer Group To Reorganize Next Tuesday

Lincoln's chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association will be reactivated at a meeting to be held on Tuesday, April 16, Lt. Col. Miles W. Johnston of the air corps reserve, announced today.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in Room 113 of the social science building.

Urges Reserve Officers.

Lt. Col. Johnston urges all reserve officers to attend as several matters of vital concern to them will be taken up in addition to the reorganization of the chapter and election of officers.

A new unit instructor and officers from the Second military area will be in attendance.

retary, will address the group, and the Awgwan staff will present a skit.

Ruth Korb, president of the women's honorary journalism sorority, has announced that the theme of the banquet will be university magazines.

Annual Voc. Ag Convention Meets On Campus Today

Ag college and the Union play host to the 29th annual Nebraska high school vocational agriculture contests and Future Farmers of America convention today and tomorrow, according to C. C. Minter, professor of vocational education.

Contests for vocational agricultural students will include judging dairy cattle, crops, poultry and livestock, and crop identification, farm management, dairy management, public speaking, and crop and soil management.

Results of the vocational contests will be announced at the final FFA meeting Friday evening at the Union.

USA Meeting

All regular representatives and all new representatives are urged by Don Huffman, president, to attend the USA meeting tonight at 7:30 in the BABW office.

Professor Gray Forecasts Thirty Year Peace Interval

Thirty years of international peace is the promise held out by Prof. W. Gray as he spoke at the world affairs lecture series in Love library last night.

He stated that another major world war "is not likely" for 30 years and Americans should quiet their "war jitters" by an appraisal of world politics.

No War.

Naturally none of us wants war. But we should realize that the United Nation's organization is as far as the Big Three are concerned at present merely a debating society which is framing the balance of power for a period of peace. No major power is prepared for immediate hostilities. And the UNO can prevent smaller powers from fighting between themselves," Prof. Gray said.

The major danger spot to world peace, according to Prof. Gray, is the Far East. The United States, Russia and Great Britain, trying to supervise one billion people back to peaceful living, will meet obstacles as they administer the affairs of the east.

Any student interested in journalism is invited and members of (See DALY, page 4.)

Colleges Resume Judging Contests Of Livestock

Intercollegiate livestock judging will be resumed this spring, according to M. A. Alexander, judging team coach.

The contests were discontinued in 1942, with the last one in that year in Denver. Nebraska placed first in the judging of cattle, sheep and swine and second in the judging of horses. Four of the first ten places in judging all classes were taken by university students.

"Nebraska has a lot of slack time to take up," Alexander said. He urged all students interested in making a judging team or getting extra work in judging to contact him in room 209 of the Animal Husbandry hall on Ag campus.

the Far East. The United States, Russia and Great Britain, trying to supervise one billion people back to peaceful living, will meet obstacles as they administer the affairs of the east.

Major Obstacles.

The seven major obstacles which will create some form of trouble were listed by Prof. Gray. They are:

(1) "The natives in this vast area live almost entirely by agriculture, yet no new land can be opened up under present circumstances. In the meantime millions live in an age of starvation and population increases 1 percent yearly."

(2) "Weak governments in the Far East make it improbable that industrial areas can be built up, especially in northeast China and southern Manchuria, the only places where enough resources (See GRAY, page 4.)
