This list may not be used as a sample ballot and cannot be taken into the polling area under any conditions.

"No vote shall be solicited at the polls or in the building in which election is being held during election day. No money shall be spent in behalf of any candidate."

The regulations continue, "No printed, mimeographed, typed, or otherwise published material in behalf of any candidate may/shall be permitted except the impartial announcements of the candidates appearing in the press. Any candidate violating these rules either in person or through his supporters shall thereby become ineligible."

Although substitution due to ineligibility of candidates had to be made, the final ballot differs little from the first individual party slates. In order to qualify the many veteran candidates filing for office, the elections committee passed supplementary rules amendments to university rules.

Students who are sophomores at the present time and who will be juniors next fall may vote on the junior ballot for Publications Board members.

Students' Polling Strength Determines New Government

Today the students at the University of Nebraska prove whether they do or they don't care about student government and a voice in the affairs of their school. Today every one of those students—that's you we're talking to, bud—will or will not go to the Union basement or Ag Hall and cast a ballot in the spring elections for Student Council members, Publication Board members and ag exec board. WILL YOU?

Everyone says, "It isn't who you vote for, the important thing is to vote." We agree, to a point. Too many of us take the attitude that our one ballot doesn't make any difference in the final outcome of the election. If enough of us feel this way, it will amount to several hundred ballots which make a great difference in the election results.

Voting in university elections is an acknowledgement that we are accepting university citizenship. In one, two or three years those of us who have not already done so will go a step farther and accept citizenship duties and privileges on a larger scale. Active participation in campus elections now is preparation for great future responsibilities.

We feel, however, that who you vote is as important as the act of voting. Every student has had sufficient time to find out who the candidates are and their qualifications for office. If this has been neglected, there is still the rest of the day for quick research.

All of the offices to be filled today carry specific duties and call for definite qualities in the individuals who are to fill those offices. At present our Student Council is in drastic need of intelligent students with initiative who will make the Council something more than a bi-monthly tea party. As the Council is now set up it has practically no power. A few real leaders who would reorganize the Council might be able to make it the first real student governing body the campus has seen in years. The same thing goes for the Ag Exec Board which has accomplished even less than the Student Council in the last three years.

Publication board jobs call for some knowledge of the qualities which make up a good student publication. Even though candidates are handicapped by lack of publication experience, they can at least have enough interest to become acquainted with the problems of publications and to find out what the student readers want.

To vote intelligently, coeds and men will keep in mind the abilities of the individuals for whom they are voting. It is a lazy voter who votes only on party affiliation.

WE WANT TO EMPHASIZE ONCE AGAIN THAT EVERY STUDENT WHO HAS AN IDENTIFICATION CARD CAN VOTE. YOU DO NOT HAVE TO BE REGISTERED FOR A POLITICAL PARTY TO VOTE. IF YOU ARE REGISTERED FOR A PARTY, YOU DO NOT HAVE TO VOTE A STRAIGHT PARTY TICKET. THESE ARE ALL STUDENT ELECTIONS!

Another reminder we would like to mention is that no student who fails to cast a ballot today has the right to gripe about any actions successful candidates take next year on the student governing bodies or the publications. If you don't vote for candidates they will not be truly representative of you as a student. If you are too lazy or disinterested to vote, just remember to keep your opinions to yourself next year when the time comes to gripe.
