

Ragged Edges

By Gracie Smith and Barbara Turk.

With May Day festivals; spring parties and formals; and newly developed love affairs, one might say right off hand that spring is actually here. The arrival of those long awaited final exams will prove this suspicion—but definitely.

Pinnings may someday be a thing of the past, but to us, the more the better. The D. U. tribe has fared amazingly well as of late with the pinnings of Leonard Dunker and Bob Adams. This is probably the last pinning that Leonard will experience as it is rumored (rumored, mind you) that wedding bells will soon ring out. Might add that Bob Adams must have felt obligation for having waited so long to hang that pretty, metal piece. Result, his D. U. brothers received two boxes of cigars instead of the usual one.

Who Sez?

Dick Dawson was a mighty unhappy fella yesterday when he found a very dear possession missing from his beloved car, Rocket. Might mention here also that Jan Thorson and Susie Golden are now residents of that well known dog house.

George Wood has decided that there is nothing in comparison with convenience; so what does he do? . . . A talk with the family; a hustle and bustle in getting moved; and he now lives just one block from his cute lady of the day, Chris Deines. Some deal, no doubt.

Formals.

Formal dances once again are the things of the weekend, and the Kappas and the Tri Deltas will share the spotlight in showing all a wonderful time. Taking in the Tri Delt dance on Friday night will be Mary Cox with Bob Meyer and Merrell Shutt with Don Grant.

Saturday night dates to the Kappa affair will include Bobbie Busch with Johnnie Kruse; Pepi Votava with Jerry Johnson; Bev Engdahl with Bib Turner; and Sarah Murray with Jim Pettis. From the looks of the situation, things are well in hand, and fun in store for all. We now offer our dearest sympathies to Ken Kailey who will be unable to attend the dance with Joan Titus because he is dated up for the time being with a case of measles.

Engineers To Begin Day's Fun at 11 A.M.

Engineers' "week" is only one day long this year, and several of the old traditions are missing, but leave it to the engineers to have fun anyway.

Their "week" will begin today at 11 a. m., with an address by Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Missouri river division engineer, and veteran of the China-India-Burma theater. The convocation, to be held in the Union ballroom, is open to the student body.

Food is much in evidence when engineers get together and the group will adjourn to Antelope Park for a picnic after which the professors chosen by each department will vie for honors in the "Tall Story" contest.

The winner of the interdepartmental baseball game will play the faculty team at 3:30 p. m.

In pre-war days the feud between the engineers and the lawyers proved the most talked-about affair for many a week and the banquet and dance for engineers was nothing to scoff at. The banquet, this year will be a "delayed action affair" according to Bob Coonley, editor of the Nebraska Blueprint, engineers' magazine, and will be held Thursday, May 16.

Sing Judges

Judges of the Ivy Day Sing, as announced by the AWS Board and Kosmet Klub, sponsors of the Intersorority Sing and Interfraternity Sing, respectively, are: Miss Margarite Klinker, Mr. Paul Le Bar, and Mr. Francis Ellsworth.

Methodist Girls' Church Plans Group Installs New Officers

Mildred Pogee, newly elected president of Kappa Phi, national Methodist girls' club, will be installed, along with other officers, at the group's annual banquet in the Union Friday night.

Other officers include Alice Rife, vice-president; Eunice Williams, treasurer; Evelyn Ryan, recording secretary; Margaret Dressler, corresponding secretary; Eva Crangle, program chairman; and Ruth Iebo, membership chairman.

Special awards for the year will be presented and formal initiation of the spring pledge class will be held following the dinner.

Union . . .

Refreshments.

In the lounge, free punch and brownies will be served from 9:00 to 11:30 p. m. by Union staff members. Gene Ellsworth, KFOR entertainer, will play requests on the Solovox.

Jug Brown's band, which made such a hit at the Veterans' dance, is coming from Omaha to play from 8:30 to midnight. Brown is now playing a stand at Peony park.

During intermission Bud Levinson and his dummy, Johnny Dugan, both of whom have recently received honorable discharges from the army air corps, will tell about civilian life.

Market School Scholarships Open to Students

Twenty scholarships paying room and board are now available to university students who want to participate in a livestock marketing school being held in South Omaha on Sept. 9-12 under the sponsorship of the Omaha Livestock Exchange and the Union Stockyards Company.

Church Plans Include Rally, Movie, Picnic

Campus church groups are planning comparatively few activities this week end, since many of the students will be occupied with Ivy day celebration and initiation dinners.

Presbyterian students will hold a rally at Westminster church Sunday afternoon beginning at 3:45. Students who want a ride to the church are to meet at the Presbyterian student house at 3:30. The program includes a talk on "Christian Vocations," by Miss Virginia Long at 3:45; a movie at 4:30; a supper at 5:00 and worship at 7:00. Regular Sunday morning services at the four Lincoln Presbyterian churches are at 11:00. Bible study at the student house is at 9:30 Sunday morning.

Chapel Service.

The Lutheran Chapel service will be held at 10:45 Sunday morning in Room 315 of the Student Union. The Rev. H. Erck, university Lutheran pastor, will conduct the worship and speak on the topic: "Christ Our Good Shepherd." Lambert Bumester will accompany the hymns.

City campus and Ag LSA groups will meet at 3:30 at the student centers and will go to Pioneer Park for a picnic. The program will feature recreation, worship, and food. Transportation from the centers to the park will be furnished.

Sunday morning services at the University Episcopal church will include Holy Communion at 8:30, and Choral Eucharist and sermon at 11:00.

The Newman club mass will be said at 11:00 Sunday morning in Parlors X, Y and Z of the Student Union. The discussion group will meet in Room 315 of the Student Union Tuesday evening at 7:30.

Sermon Topic.

"Christian Family" will be the sermon topic at the Sunday morning service at the First Christian church at 10:45. The University CYF group will meet at the church Sunday at 5 p. m., and will continue the study of "Race Relations." Church school is at 9:30 a. m.

The Rev. G. S. Bartsch, of Denver, Colo., will be guest speaker at the 11:00 worship service Sunday morning at the First Evangelical church. The anthem for the service will be "King of Love My Shepherd Is." The Ag college Christian Youth Fellowship will meet at 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Roger Williams group will meet at 6 p. m. at the First Baptist church Sunday.
