

Soloists Perform With UN Orchestra Tonight In Union

BY SAM WARREN.

Tonight at 7:30 p. m. in the Union ballroom, four soloists will appear with the university orchestra, directed by Emanuel Wishnow. Each year the senior class of the school of music votes four soloists to perform with the orchestra.

This year four women were chosen. They are Elizabeth Nicolai and Shirley Walsh, sopranos, Marion Peck, flutist, and Lela Mae Jacobson, pianist.

"Mignon" Aria.

Mrs. Nicolai, a transfer student from Doane, will sing "Je Suis Titania," an aria from Thomas' opera "Mignon." Mrs. Nicolai is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon.

Miss Walsh's aria is Juliet's waltz song, "Je Veux Vivre" from Gounod's opera, "Romeo and Juliet." Miss Walsh, a native of Canada, is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota. She sang the part of Lola in last semester's production of "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Miss Peck, first flutist of the R.O.T.C. band, will be heard in the allegro maestoso movement from Mozart's "Concerto in G Major for Flute." Miss Peck is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon.

Jacobson.

Miss Jacobson, the fourth of the graduating soloists, will perform the first movement of Schumann's "Piano Concerto in A Minor," Allegro Affettuoso. She is a member of Delta Omicron musical sorority.

The two selections of the orchestra are "Russian Sailor's Dance" from the "Red Poppy Ballet" by Gliere, and "Zorahayd" by Svendsen. The orchestra which has accompanied opera and oratorio performances and played at honors convocation during the year, appears tonight in the first of its two concerts of the year. Next Sunday the orchestra will appear in the closing musicale of the season and will be assisted by the University Singers.

Museum Month Features Rare Deer Skeleton

Museum Month at the university's state museum now features the display of a rare type of deer which roamed the North American continent 25,000 years ago.

According to Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, museum director, the new animal is the only one of its kind found in the United States which has been displayed and mounted. A similar deer, found in Mexico, is on display at the California Institute of Technology.

New Mexican Find.

The skeletal remains of the prehistoric deer were found by a university field party in an unexplored Carlsbad cavern in New Mexico. In search of remains of early man which the museum was seeking to link with remains found in Nebraska, the party accidentally discovered the deer skeleton.

The cave, discovered by a Carlsbad museum staff member, R. M. P. Burnett, was hollowed out of limestone by underground rivers millions of years ago and was used as a retreat by the animals. Related to the elk family, the deer on display, however, is somewhat similar in size to the present White Tailed and Mule deer.

The new exhibit is shown on the museum guided tours held each Sunday at 2:30 and 4:30 p. m. During Museum Month sound films of natural history subject will be shown at 3 and 4 p. m. Today's film is the Pacific volcano "Kakatoa."

Married Students

Due to the shortage of housing facilities we are having great difficulty locating living quarters of any nature for married students desiring to attend the university. Hundreds of married students are desperately in need of housing, both for the summer terms and for the regular school term in September.

It would be greatly appreciated if senior or other married students who may be planning to vacate or sublet their living quarters at any time would notify this office.

Sledge Appears For Engineers' Dinner Thursday

BY MARTELLA HOLCOMB.

Let the chips and splinters fall where they may... Sledge is arriving Thursday night.

To the uninitiated (those who have matriculated during the war years) Sledge is the great-granddaddy of all senior class prophecies, and is dreamed up by a committee of sadistically minded engineers for the mutual discomfort of all brave students of the Big E college.

Excuse for the appearance of this blackmail sheet is the engineers' banquet, held traditionally as part of Engineers Week, and this year postponed till Thursday, May 16, at 6:30 p. m. in the Union ballroom.

Dean Roy M. Green has announced that three special awards, given during the year, will be presented that evening. The Sigma Tau award to the outstanding senior in the college has been awarded Charles D. Lantz, and the W. H. Sawyer scholarship to the outstanding electrical engineer went to Simon Delisi. Edwin J. Busch has received the O. J. Fee award for high academic achievement.

Keys to Blueprint staff members will also be presented.

Significant Traces of Indian Culture Found in Scottsbluff

A mass grave filled with human skeletons found two weeks ago on a Scotts Bluff county farm was described Monday as a "highly significant" contribution to knowledge of an Indian culture which existed in Nebraska 700 to 1,000 years ago.

Existence of this Indian tribe, known as the "Woodland Culture," was previously known but the Scotts Bluff discovery was the first human skeletal remains of the culture found in western Nebraska, according to John L. Champe, director of the Anthropology laboratory.

"The discovery is particularly important since these human skeletons show us what the people who had the woodland culture actually looked like," Mr. Champe said. "The artifacts such as pottery and worked stone and bone also supply valuable information on how they lived."

The western discovery appears to have been linked with previous finds in eastern Nebraska by two artifacts found in the grave. One is a small canoe-shaped stone

Gray Asks Understanding Of Russian Government

In a statement to the Daily Nebraskan yesterday, Dr G. W. Gray, associate professor of history, called for an understanding of the Russian system on the part of "this university generation" and cited tomorrow's All-University Forum as an effective means to "start thinking about the problem."

Dr. Gray, who will take part in the panel of the Y.M.-Y.W. sponsored forum, said: "At the present time there is only one state in the world which is able, physically, to carry on war against the United States with any prospect of success—and that state is Russia. Today," he continued, "America fears Russia, and Russia fears America—fears and distrusts America."

"Regardless of whether our relation with Russia today is a temporary armistice devoted to preparing for a future war or an immediate war, or whether it is a sincere effort to produce world peace, we Americans must try to find the reasons for the fears and feelings between Russia and America. We must learn the exact nature of the Russian system, and grasp every possible opportunity for peace, but yet realize the price of that peace. These are among the most important things that Americans can do."

"The All-University Forum," Dr. Gray concluded, "should form a means by which this university generation can start thinking about this problem. And it's the university people of this generation who will have to answer this problem."

The student participants of the panel are Gerry McKinsey, moderator; Gladys Jackson, speaking on the economics of Russia; Phyllis Warren, minority groups, religion, education; Don Meaders, the Russian people; Elmer Sprague, present government; and Bob Gillan, Russian foreign policy. Dr. Gray will sketch the historical background of the present situation.

The panel will be presented at 7 p. m. Wednesday in the Faculty lounge followed by a social hour and refreshments, according to Pat Lahr.

Nation Observes Citizenship Day Sunday, May 19

In accordance with a congressional resolution acted upon May 3, 1940, President Harry S. Truman has proclaimed May 19 for national observance of "I Am An American Day." Richard Sinsel, Vets organization publicity head announced today.

"I Am An American Day" was the outgrowth of an idea created by the citizens of Manitowoc, Wisconsin, who felt a day should be set aside to observe national citizenship, Sinsel continued.

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the services this year to be held in the St. Paul's Methodist church.

Fall Section Lists Show Many Full

With almost 150 class sections closed for fall terms, less than half the students have finished their registrations, George W. Rosenlof, registrar, announced yesterday.

Monday noon, completed registrations totaled 2,323, less than 50 percent of the 5,992 students included in this year's student body. Even discounting the 500 students on the Omaha campus and the 400 graduating seniors, the figure still reflects a laxity on the part of students, according to Rosenlof. Early registration for the remaining 2,000 students must be finished this week.

"Registration now is the surest guarantee of getting into classes next fall at Nebraska, or anywhere else," Rosenlof said. "If the student registers now, he is guaranteed a place at school next fall. His chances for a balanced program, classes at the best hours and for avoiding additional fees next fall are best if he completes his registration early."

Final registration totals for next fall are expected to top 7,500, with the registrar's office already turning down many applicants.

Monday noon 1,250 registrations for summer school had been processed, which means, according to Rosenlof, a total of 3,000 at least for the summer term, and possibly 3,600 enrolled.

Five re-opened class sections for the fall term were announced Monday by Harold E. Wise of the assignment committee, as Economics 103, Section II, Economics 107; Education 61, Section I; and English 21, Sections IX and X.

Fall sections now closed include:

Each veteran will call for his envelope and take it personally to the comptroller's cage after the fees have been computed. No registration is completed until this is done.

REQUISITIONS.
No requisitions for the current second semester now ending will be issued or honored after May 15. All yellow copies of requisitions which are now outstanding and still in the hands of individual veterans must be turned in to the Regens bookstore in the Temple by May 21.
