

Closed List Of Sections Lengthens

The revised list of closed class sections for summer and fall sessions has been announced by G. W. Rosenlof, registrar.

Final fall registration is expected to total 7,500 with approximately 3,500 enrollees for the summer session. "If the student registers now," Rosenlof stated, "a place at school next fall is guaranteed."

Harold E. Wise, assignment committee head, announced Monday five re-opened class sections for the fall term. They are Economics 103, Section II, Economics 107, Education 61, Section I; and English 21, Sections IX and X.

An additional fall section, Education 141, has been announced.

University Forum Today

Russian Government Policies Discussed

Today's All-University Forum on the Russian system, presented at 7 p. m. in the faculty lounge, provides an effective means for students of this university to "start thinking about the problem," Dr. G. W. Gray, associate professor of history, declared.

Dr. Gray, who will participate in the panel discussion being sponsored jointly by the YM and YW said; "At the present time there is only one state in the world which is able, physically, to carry on war against the United States with any prospect of success—and that state is Russia. Today America fears Russia, and Russia fears America—fears and distrusts America.

"Regardless of whether our relations with Russia today is a temporary armistice devoted to preparing for a future war or an immediate war, or whether it is a sincere effort to produce world peace, we Americans must try to find the reasons for the fears and feelings between Russia and America. We must learn the exact nature of the Russian system, and grasp every possible opportunity for peace, but yet realize the price of that peace. These are among the most important things that Americans can do."

Purpose of Forum.

Dr. Gray continued "The All-University Forum should form a means by which this university generation can start thinking about this problem. It is the university people of this generation who will have to answer this problem.

Students taking part in the panel are Gerry McKinsey, moderator; Gladys Jackson, speaking on the economics of Russia; Phyllis Warren, minority groups, religion, education; Don Meaders, the Russian people; Elmer Sprague, present government; and Bob Gillian, Russian foreign policy. Dr. Gray will sketch the historical background of the present situation. The panel will be followed by a social hour and refreshments.

Married Students

Due to the shortage of housing facilities we are having great difficulty locating living quarters of any nature for married students desiring to attend the university. Hundreds of married students are desperately in need of housing, both for the summer terms and for the regular school term in September.

It would be greatly appreciated if senior or other married students who may be planning to vacate or sublet their living quarters at any time would notify this office.

Housing Needs Stump College Representative

Little hope that educational institutions would be able to solve the pressing housing needs to accommodate swollen enrollments next fall was expressed by representatives of 80 colleges and universities over the country here Tuesday.

A. F. Gallistel of the University of Wisconsin, secretary of the Association of Superintendents of Buildings and Grounds of Universities and Colleges, summed up discussions at a two day convention here in this manner:

No Space.

"With enrollments swelled overnight by returning veterans and more civilian students, institutions are finding it impossible to make room for everyone—even with government priority on veterans housing. Materials and labor costs have risen, and operational costs are making it difficult to rent at low cost figures. Then too, there is the problem of investing considerable money in temporary housing at a sacrifice to permanent housing plans."

Detailed phases of operational problems of universities and colleges occupied most of Tuesday's program.

State High School Music Pupils Chosen

From nearly 500 applicants, 240 boys and girls have been selected for the university's all-state high school summer music course, according to Prof. David B. Foltz, music professor and all-state supervisor.

Registrants include 88 boys and 52 girls all of whom nine are enrolled in the music course and 49 in the speech and dramatic course. Selected upon recommendation of their high school music teachers and superintendents nearly all students rank in the upper one-third of their high school junior or senior class.

The course offers three weeks intensive study from June 6 to June 27 in band, orchestra, voice and choral work, dramatics, debate, radio, and reading and speaking. In addition giving private lessons in music and speech correction will be given. The students are housed, and fed on the university campus. Instruction by the school of fine arts and guest conductors.

All Teachers college seniors are invited to attend the May Morning Breakfast, May 26 at 9 a. m. in the Union, parlors XYZ, according to Mary Claire Clark, committee chairman. Tickets, sold on first floor of Teachers college Thursday and Friday or at the Union office, are 60 cents.

Name Seaton Association President

L. F. Seaton, university operating superintendent was elected president of the National Association of Superintendents of Buildings and Grounds of Universities and Colleges at the final session of the group's annual convention Tuesday.

The new president succeeds Henry E. Pearson of the University of Indiana. Ohio State's Paul Eleman was chosen as vice president and A. F. Gallistel of the University of Wisconsin was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Ohio State university will be the scene of the organization's next convention in 1947.

Teachers Summer Workshop Plans Improvement Projects

Designed to improve instruction in Nebraska's public schools, six major projects will be developed by the university's teachers college summer "workshop" this year.

The workshop is composed of university faculty members and Nebraska public school officials and teachers working in groups of six to ten persons each.

Projects and directors are: "Development of a Program for Handicapped Children"—Dr. Leroy T. Lasse, chairman of the department of speech and R. L. Fredstrom, state department of public instruction; "Further Development of a Guidance Program for Public Schools"—Dr. Ralph C. Bedell, Teachers college, and W. L. Nicholas, state department of vocational education; and "Developing a Guide for Public Schools' Contribution to Community Needs"—Dr. Walter Beggs of Teachers college.

For Schools

Additional projects and their respective directors are: "Development of a Visual Education Program for Small Schools in Nebraska"—Dr. Frank E. Sorenson, Teachers college, Dr. W. C. Meirreny university, extension division, and James Taylor, visual education department; "Expanding Secondary School Aviation Program with Emphasis on Motion Pictures"—Dr. Sorenson, G. E. Rotter, state department of public instruction; "Development of Guidance Programs for Local Teachers Association for the coming year"—Dr. Wiltse, superintendent of schools at Grand Island, and Dr. A. L. Burnham, secretary of the Nebraska state educational association.

Since its inception, in 1941, the workshop has developed textbooks, motion picture guides, handbooks and teaching program outlines in universal use throughout the state. According to Dr. Sorenson, the workshop combines Teachers college research and state-wide teacher experience into development of projects designed to raise the level of Nebraska's public schools.

Cosmopolitans Present Members Elect Officers

Intermission at the Cosmopolitan club dance Saturday evening in the Union featured a speech by the club's president, Estelita Saldanha.

Included in the program at intermission was an introduction of foreign members; Jean Paul Trudel, Quebec, Canada; Huseyin Gokcora, Ankara, Turkey; Abou Sabe and Mohamed Oloufa, Cairo, Egypt; Miss Margarita Davis, Rio de Janeiro; William Osborne, B. W.; Edward Axregadoo, British Guiana; and Martin Vegas, Caracas, Venezuela.

Jean Paul Trudel presented national songs in French, and Mr. Saldanha illustrated the Spanish and Portuguese languages with Beseme Mucho. Miss Dorothy Taylor accompanied the pair. Miss Verng Ritchie gave a ballet number, accompanied by Miss Ruth Hoffman.

Elections of Cosmopolitan club officers will be held next Thursday at 5 p. m. in the Union, room 316. Memberships in the club is open to all university students.
