More Worries . . .

Another worry has been added to students' minds in addition to finals—the question of how to get home.

The threatened walkout by the 250,000 engineers and trainmen will tie up the nation's railway transportation system as effectively as anything ever has.

Only hope in the picture is President Truman's statement that he would not hesitate to seize the railroads if it became necessary to keep them running.

In case of a government seizure, transportation would undoubtedly be rationed and priorities issued. The big question: Is a college student important enough to rate a priority?

Vacation plans may be ruined by the coal strikes and the rail strikes. Coal strikes have already drastically affected freight and passenger service on most railroads.

Maybe we'd better get the old thumb limbered up for service this summer, or plan a nice quiet vacation enjoying the surroundings of the old home town.

The soft coal strike, now in its 45th day, affects not only transportation but utilities and industry. The United States may at any time face another situation of shortages even more drastic than those during the war. That is just a indication that all is not yet peace in the world and won't be for a long time. S. J.

Off the Record

By Jerry Cohn and Aaron Schmidt

Had an informal talk with Victor Borge during his recent appearance in Lincoln. His off stage humor is just as quick as it is when on stage before an audience. When asked about his family, he replied: "I am married and have two twins . . . Socony and Vacuum." This brought out the story that, on September 9, Victor Borge begins his own radio show sponsored by Socony Vacuum Oil Co.

The program will take the place of "Information Please" on NBC, and will feature Benny Goodman and his orchestra. During the intermission at Borge's performance Monday night, his form of relaxation came from hanging upside down on the trapeze backstage of the coliseum, the tails of his tuxedo almost reaching the floor as a result.

Frankie Masters and his orchestra will be in Lincoln between engagements at the Stevens hotel in Chicago to present four stage shows at the Nebraska theater on May 22. Masters attended the University of Indiana and was a member of Delta Upsilon. His special styled music, designed to please both sweet and swing fans, gives him nine air shots per week over the major networks!

No publicity stunt is involved here! "The Voice," Frank Sinatra, had a guarantee from the Chicago theater which would have fattened his billfold with $25,000 for a one week appearance. The engagement would have started today, but his doctor advised against it. Health, that is.

Paul Weston has come up with one of the best recordings of "Full Moon and Empty Arms" yet released. Full Moon is a dance arrangement taken from Rachmaninoff's "Piano Concerto in C Minor." The record combines both a classical and popular chorus, using the piano and entire orchestra respectively. On the reverse, Lou Dinning of Dinning Sisters fame, sings the vocal on "Nobody Else But Me" from the hit, "Showboat."

Have you noticed the number of novelty tunes which reach the top? "Coax Me a Little Bit," "Pickle in the Middle and the Mustard On Top," "Do You Love Me?" and, of course, "One-zy, Two-zy." Now watch the latest climb to the top, "The Cricket Song."

Margaret Whiting, daughter of the late songwriter, Richard Whiting, has kept herself in public prominence ever since her Capitol hit of "Moonlight in Vermont" and "It Might As Well Be Spring." She now has the honor of being the only name vocalist with two commercial radio shows: Celebrity Club on CBS and Philip Morris Follies on NBC. The P. M. Follies has two former Glenn Miller stars in Jerry Gray and Johnny Desmond. Miss Whiting's latest discs are "All Through the Day" and "In Love in Vain," Jerome Kern's melodies from "Centennial Summer." Also out is "Come Rain or Come Shine" from the musical "St. Louis Woman" and the popover confessing "Can't Help Lovin' That Man."

Ragged Edges

BY MARY STUHT and SHIRLEY LIERK.

She's lovely, She's engaged, She goes to Nebraska U. Pins are a thing of the past, for the shift has gone to the third finger, left hand this week. Wearing sparklers are Lila Latham, Tort Gallup, Marge Reynolds, M. J. Whipple, and Barb Bishop received respectively from Doc Atkinson, Alex Mills, Bill Horefek, Walter Olson and Bill Fein.

The last big fling of the season will be Friday night when the Delta Gamma's hold their formal dance at the Cornhusker. A few of the dates will be Jody Harrison and Sam Houston; Hattie Wilbourne and Don Grube; Helen Schroeder with Bill Latta; Nancy Gish with Bill Brown; and Dorothy Manion and Carroll Myers.

Migration Ahead.
Migrating to Omaha Friday night will be the Alpha Phi's to hold a picnic at the homes of Bev Murray. Seeing all the better spots of Omaha Saturday night will be Buck Barger and Joanne Ackerman; and Ruth Korb with Ralph King. (This is quite a triangle . . . Kob, "Stringy" and Jeanne.)

Could it be to avoid the penalty of eating eggs that three seniors at the Gamma Phi house passed the candy Monday night? Anyway, Marg Neuman and Bill Bryan; Pat Schaffer and Bill Fuhr; and Ava Bromwich and Bob Hastard, all furnished sweets. Johnny Cook decided to do it his way this time . . . he passed the cigars at the Phi Psi house and went over to the Kappa house to pass the candy due to the absence of Sally Busch, who graduated last year. Wedding bells will ring soon, we hear.

Harry Pagles is lonesome these days without Kathy Schaecker. Kathy is recovering from an automobile accident in a hospital in Dequeen, Arkansas. Quite a contrast is the beaming face of Barbara Hockenberger who now is wearing the DU pin of Bill Ferguson.

Coming home to see the girls they left behind are Joe Franck to see Pat Ward; and Mile King to see Lou Raleigh. Not forgetting Chick Peterson who came all the way from Japan to give the girls a thrill. Seems as though he's going to bide away his time in Grand Island.

The Ash Can

by Marthella Holcomb

There we were, trapped. Not that we aren't trapped everytime we open our mouth, but this time we hadn't opened our mouth, we were all alone.

All alone in the middle of Teachers college, all the doors locked and the janitor gone home for the night. Served us right, of course, if we hadn't wormed our way into the office after hours, all for the sake of the dear Daily, we wouldn't have found ourselves in such a predicament.

Never having been in the place before, except passing through to keep out of the rain, a brief perusal of the place seemed the best way to ascertain the stringencies of the situation. One glance told us that there were no windows leading from the hall to freedom. We'd already checked all three outside doors. All doors were locked, naturally. We discovered that the marble walls were very pretty, but the window was blocked at a twelve inch clearance. No not even if we starved.

Surely, surely we could find surcease from sorrow by the basement route. We might here state that they have there a very beautiful set of home economics rooms. They are completely furnished like a house. All except for a telephone. We did climb through one basement window, despite our lack of proper second-story attire. Crawled back in again when we discovered the grating was fifteen feet long and bolted into place.

Not that we wanted to complain. There wasn't anyone to listen if we could. But after all, it was way past supper-time, Jack was waiting, and that floor looked awfully hard.
