

HUSKERS FIGHT!

Corn Cobs Fete Pledge Prospects At Stag Smoker

The Corn Cobs, university men's pep and service organization, held a smoker in the Union Tuesday night for the purpose of pledging new members and planning activities for the first football rally tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. A list of 38 prospective pledges, who met at the smoker, has been presented to the administration for approval, according to Dean Skekan, Corn Cob secretary.

Don Kline, the organization's president, opened the meeting with an introduction of the 18 active Corn Cobs, Art Beindorff, vice-president, Dean Skokan, secretary and Willard Viscek, treasurer. Kline told the group the Corn Cobs' purpose in promoting pep and school spirit and in performing various services to the university during the year.

History Told.

An informal outline of the Corn Cobs' history in previous years and the idea behind the organization of the club was presented by Col. C. J. Frankfurter, Corn Cob advisor. Col. Frankfurter advised the group before the war, and returned to the campus this fall. After his address, other members spoke on phases of Corn Cob activities and Art Beindorff, university Yell King, explained plans for the coming football season.

The 18 active members present at the meeting were John Adams, Lee Bedke, Avrum Bondarin, Herman Christensen, John Dale, Darrell Devoe, Roland Finley, Bruce Kleinkauf, Charles Marcy, Harold Mozer, William Munson, Duane Munter, Matthew Russel, John Slothower, Bill Thornburg, Ralph Wahlstrom, Sam Warren and Lee White.

A complete list of the new Corn Cob pledges will appear in the Daily Nebraskan upon release by the administration.

Early Dinners

Organized houses on campus are requested to advance their evening meal time tonight in order to gain maximum attendance at the "Go for the Gophers" rally scheduled to begin at 6:30 in front of the union. Tassels, Cobs and the pep band will start down fraternity row at 6:15 and meet the student body at the union.

Huskerville Housing Open For Veterans

Max Swan, manager of "Huskerville," the university's vet housing area at the Lincoln Army Air Field, urges all single veterans who have not found satisfactory quarters to apply for dormitory space at Huskerville.

"We have accommodations for 250 single men, of which only 80 have been taken," Mr. Swan said. "The dorms are divided into individual rooms accommodating two men each and are furnished with bunks, tables, chairs, clothes lockers and study lamps. The rental is $10 per month.

Good Food

The Huskerville cafeteria has been put into operation, serving good food at low cost, Swan said, and the dormitories are furnished with radiator steam heat. A complete recreation program is being planned, the manager said.

Bus service has been greatly expanded and the present schedule includes these departures from the air base: 7:20 a.m., 8:25 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. 3 p.m., 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. The buses leave the city campus from Teachers college at the following times: 8 a.m., 9 a.m., 1 p.m., 3:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The last bus of the day leaves Sosh at 11 p.m. Additional trips will be scheduled if necessary, Swan concluded.

Students Rally At Union Tonite

EUGENE BERMAN.

Tonight is the night for all university students to join ranks and voices to give the Minnesota bound Husker football team the spirited send off they deserve. The cheerleaders, Tassels, Corn Cobs, and members of the pep band have combined forces in planning one of the largest rallies Nebraska has seen in many years. All they need is unanimous student support.

The schedule of events begins at 6:15, when Tassels, Corn Cobs, and the pep band will start down fraternity row, assembling the student body in front of the Union at 6:30. The entire student body group will parade to the Burlington depot where they will yell cheers, sing pep songs, and hear Bernie Masterson, football coach, make his opening season speech.

Prove your loyalty and your enthusiasm by attending the appropriately named "Go for the Gophers" Rally!

Business Staff Position Open On Nebraskan

Applications for assistant business manager on the Daily Nebraskan are now open, according to Jim Van Landingham, Daily Nebraskan Business Manager. Forms for application can be obtained in the journalism office in University hall.

No Experience.

Applicants need not have had previous business or advertising experience, the main qualifications being a schedule with afternoons free, and a desire to do the job well, Van Landingham said. A salary of $20 per month is paid to the assistant business manager with possibility of advancement.

All students applying for the position should get application blanks approved by the administration and submit them to Van Landingham in the Daily Nebraskan office in Union basement before Monday, Sept. 30.

Campusline Open

In an effort to remedy the noon hour confusion in the Campusline, Patricia A. Lahr, Union director, announced that if the demand required, the Campusline may be open until 1:30 instead of closing at 1. In tomorrow's Daily Nebraskan, a blank will be printed that may be filled out and left in the Union office by those who desire longer hours for the Campusline.

Social Dancing Class Series Begin Oct. 8

A series of six social dancing classes instructed by Donna McCandless, senior, will be held in the Student Union ballroom each Tuesday starting October 8 from 7:00 to 8:45.

More than 200 students are expected to enroll in these classes which will feature elementary ballroom dancing. This is the seventh year that the Student Union has sponsored this type of instruction. Courses will also be offered second semester for six weeks.

Students interested in square dancing will have classes open to them at the college of agriculture campus, but the dates for these will be announced later. On October 18 and for the next three Fridays, South American dances including the rumba, tango, conga and samba, will be taught from 8:00 to 9:00 preceding the orchestra dances. No preliminary registration is required.

YW Tells Plans For Coming Year At Rendezvous

Plans for this year's YWCA activities were explained to upper-class women interested in Y activities at the YW fall rendezvous in Ellen Smith Hall yesterday afternoon.

At the rendezvous, the 22 YW commission groups were explained, officers and cabinet members were introduced and committees on personal relations, inter-racial research, advanced social work, and comparative religions were discussed.

Although the meeting was held especially for women living off the campus, all university women were invited. Shirley Hinds is president of the group.

AWS

No freshman women may participate in any of the activities listed on the back of the sign out sheet for six weeks, according to an announcement from the A.W.S. board.

Inter Frat Council

The Inter-Fraternity Council will meet this afternoon, at 5:15 in Room 315 of the Union, according to Dick Folda, president. All presidents of the member groups must attend.

Elliott Addresses Delta Sigma Pi At First Meeting

Delta Sigma Pi, professional fraternity, held its first dinner meeting for the current school year Monday evening at the Student Union.

Dr. Curtis M. Elliott, Professor of Economics and Insurance in the College of Business Administration, spoke briefly to the Bizad group. He pointed out that during their university training they should begin to formulate a code of business ethics which could be put into practice upon graduation.

Coeds Plan to Major In New Course, "The Return of Man"

ELLIE SWANSON

Ever since the opening publication of the Rag about a week ago, I have had an odd feeling of being suspended in mid air. Of all the girls who have written features, not one has ventured into the limitless subject of "men." Having been firmly convinced that the campus ratio of men to women is now 7 to 1, I have no doubt that in spite of everything I might say here, I still may have a date once every seven months.

As it happened one afternoon, I was having a coke with an eligible young man of the university. "The way I look at it," he mused, "if there are seven men to every girl, four out of the seven are probably married, two of the seven will flunk out, and that leaves a man for every girl." At this point there was an unbearable silence of approximately 15 seconds. Finally he could bear it no longer . . . "but I hate to see the thing I'll be stuck with."

Feeling relieved that he had not forced me to say it, but yet harboring a strange guilty conscience, I changed the subject. "How are your classes?" I said, remembering that I had heard someone ask that question before. "Well, there's a girl in my Sosh class," he answered bitterly. "Too bad she's over six feet tall."

"How are things over at your house?" I squirmed subtly. "We have a few boys that are tall, dark, smooth, good looking and have pleasing personalities. They are dating. The rest of us sit around practicing hanging our pins in case we ever get a date."

At this point I was considering leaving. "I seem to recall a date I had the other night," he murmured on in a dead monotone. "We went on a picnic." "I love picnics," I managed to squeeze in, but he didn't seem to notice. "She kept asking me when we were going to eat. When I finally convinced her that we forgot the cake and cookies, she suddenly remembered that she had to be in at 12:30 and we had to leave." "That's logical," I reasoned aloud. "Yes, but it was only 9:15 at the time."

Good Luck!

"Well, I have to go now," he said sluffing off in a daze. "Got a date?" I breathed hopefully and doubtfully. "No, I'm busy recruiting members for the new club I'm organizing." "Good luck to you . . . and, by the way what do you call yourselves?" "The Stag Knights!" Well, things are tough all over.

"Why am I feeling so low?" I asked myself on my way to my first English class of the year. "Things are looking bright for our side." At this thought I picked myself up from the sidewalk. Three bright faces were looking at me. "I must have tripped," I blushed. "That's all right," said one of the more eager of the three. "How about a date tonight?" "I'm afraid I don't remember you," I stammered. "Where do you live?" he asked. "In Omaha." "I have an aunt that lives on main street that you probably know." Fortunately for me, I remembered my class and left while they were wondering how I could have lived in Omaha for 19 years and hadn't met their aunt.

Well, boys, I'm just kidding, things aren't that tough yet, but we can still dream, can't we?

Religious Groups Plan Observance For Church Night

University students are urged to participate in All-University Church Night activities to be held on the campus tomorrow night, according to the Rev. Sam Maier, publicity chairman for the affair.

Each church group on the campus is planning special activities for its members. The purpose of All-University Church Night, explained Mr. Maier, is to give students an opportunity to get acquainted with their student pastors, their churches, and their campus church groups and the activities which their groups sponsor during the year. No other university activity is scheduled for that night.

Theatre Tryouts For Inaugural Production Tonite

Tryouts for "My Sister Eileen," first major production of the University theater this season, will be held in room 201 of the Temple Thursday at 7 p. m., and Friday at 3 and 7 p. m.

Seventeen male characters will be cast, and six girls will be named to take other parts.

Season tickets for the five plays to be presented this year are on sale at the business office of the University theater. Students desiring reservations for "My Sister Eileen" should call early, according to Mr. Dallas Williams, who reported that many of the seats have been reserved.

Student Season Ticket Sales Close Today

Athletic Director A. J. Lewandowski announced that the sale of student season activity tickets will end at noon today.

Drawing for block numbers will be held this afternoon, and the results as to assignment numbers and reserved seat locations will be published in the Daily Nebraskan tomorrow.

Cornhusker Positions

All students interested in staff positions on the 1947 Cornhusker may apply to Merrill Shutt, editor, in the Cornhusker office at the basement of the Student Union from 2 to 5 any day this week.
