

The Golden Days of the Lonely Woman Are Gone; For A While

How right you are, Miss Swanson, how right you are! As far as most men are concerned, the ratio of seven to one is an under-estimation rather than an exaggeration.

Leave us to glance at the good old days, say, for example, last year. Short, fat, Case O'Stite, member of Iamma Wheela Fraternity, who wears glasses with two-inch lenses, decides, at eight in the evening, to get a date for eight-fifteen. Nonchalantly he strolls by the lofty portico of Cuma Getta Sorority, and is instantly surrounded by multi-feminine forms.

Money!

"Which one of youse has got a car and ten bucks?" asks Case. There are at least eleven positive answers, from beautifully painted and expectant lips.

Carefully Case scrutinizes the throng, then points to a beautiful blonde. "Youse own a Cadillac convert, right?" And eager acknowledgment. "Fine, let's go." A pause. "By the way, weren't you voted campus sweetheart last year?" Another nod, and—

But this too painful. For alas, the glory of yesteryear is gone. And unattached females, on the campus now, are practically nil. Freshmen are bewildered. All they can mutter is "I think I'll go back home to Bloomfield. At least I've got a cousin there." Upperclassmen bravely march off to a move with gangs of men, later to down their losses in a bit of the Diamond Grill's sweet beverage.

Then there are those fortunate males, the really big wheels, who get dates. From all deductions it appears that they must have a Chrysler Town and Country, or at least the loss of a diamond-encrusted pin, to hold their women.

But though we men face a drastic crises, we must square our shoulders. We also serve who stand and wait.

But girls, while it lasts, don't you love it?

to learn the hard way. Fellow students will never forget the look of utter horror that came across a chem 8 lab student's face as he watched a neatly-copied-in-ink English theme dissolve in some spilled hydrochloric. Humble title of the theme: "The Benefits of Chemistry."

An honest coed at the University of Kansas came right back at the "Laws" recently. Instead of scurrying by the horde of wolfish lawyers on the steps of Green Hall, she paused at their whistles and whipped out a sign. Printed on it in big red letters were the simple words: "Thank you!"

Church Night Draws Record Student Crowd

Campus church groups entertained record numbers of students at parties and dances held in observation of All-University Church Night Friday night.

Student pastors report that number of students attending the church-sponsored entertainments reached, and in most cases, exceeded expectations. Church Night is held on the campus every year to give students an opportunity to get acquainted with their religious group and its activities for the school year, and with other students in their group.

3 Dances Held.

Baptist students attended a party at the First Baptist church, where plans were discussed for the Roger Williams Fellowship group for the coming year. Newman Club members were entertained with a dance and program in the Student Union ballroom. At both Lincoln Congregational churches parties were held for student members.

A dance was held in the club room of the University Episcopal church for Episcopalian students on the campus. The National Lutheran Council entertained Lutheran students at a party and reception at the First Lutheran church. Student members of the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran church were guests at a party in the Temple Building.

Tours, Parties.

Parties were given in each of the five Lincoln Methodist churches for Methodist students. Presbyterian students were entertained with a tour of the four Lincoln Presbyterian churches, and a dinner at Westminster church. The First Convent Church gave a reception for its members in the church parlors.

Yearbook Editor Reveals Picture Appointment Plans

Only unaffiliated students and students not living in cooperative houses, or connected with any other organized group must make individual appointments to have their pictures taken for the Cornhusker, Merrell Shutt, editor, announced yesterday.

Appointments will be made for members of sorority and fraternity groups, cooperative houses, and other organized groups, she said. According to Miss Schutt, individual appointments may be made any morning, Monday thru Saturday, but they should be made at the earliest possible date.

Something new in the way of school support for the football team will be inaugurated at Washington State this fall. A seven-part glee club consisting of several thousand voices will harmonize to cheer the Huskies in the homecoming grid scrap with California, Oct. 26. It is expected to produce one of the most unique cheering sections yet devised, and if the venture proves successful, may be established as a tradition.

Lapp Announces X-ray Deadline As October 19

Reports of excellent progress have been made on the chest X-ray program for students, according to Dr. V. W. Lapp, member of the student health service staff. Almost 2,000 students went through the X-ray process the first week. The deadline for X-ray appointments is set at Oct. 19, when Dr. Lapp hopes to have the program completed.

Dr. Lapp, who joined the university staff this year, will visit all organized houses and dormitories, making X-ray appointments for university food handlers. He will also check on student appointments and issue appointment slips to students who do not have one.

Dr. Lapp emphasized that this is a free service extended by the state and students who neglect to keep their X-ray schedule will later have to pay a two dollar fee for the service.

Any student who missed his appointment may call at the student health service and receive a card immediately.

There's a tale going round the Iowa State campus about a certain English prof who went to a local apartment house and requested to see the list of its residents, and the list of those waiting for apartments. He didn't have to go through very many names before he found the one he was looking for. "Put my name down for this man's apartment, please," he said. "I just flunked him, and he'll be dropping out of school any day now."

the coat with the double-dense* fabric

Sling it over your campus clothes—and it's a standout. Or evening-ize it, with "heels and hose", and you're set for big doings. It goes everywhere . . . over everything, and its wonderful fleece fabric keeps pace. Because its double-dense . . . every square inch of its surface has twice as many wool fabrics as ordinary coats. (Wool face, cotton backing). Black, brown, blue, grey. Sizes 10 to 20.
