which moved the pigskin to the one yard line. From here Ken Biersdorf plunged across. An earlier pass from Faunce to Sandberg would have been a touchdown but the Gophers were clipping and the play was called back.

Willard Bunker blocked Gagne's attempt for the extra point and the half ended with Minnesota leading 15 to 0.

Throughout most of the first half the Huskers were pushed deep into their own territory and only Roy Long's booming punts from the end zone kept the golden clad Gophers from piling up more points.

Nebraska's only offensive flurry was the high spot of the third quarter, although Faunce came back into the limelight with a touchdown pas to Sandberg who was standing unnoticed in the Husker end zone to make the count at the close of the quarter read Minnesota 21, Nebraska 6.

Final Scoring.

The Minnesota weight advantage was beginning to tell on the tiring Husker forward wall and a steady stream of Gopher reserves marched into the fray. Two touchdowns in the final stanza wound up the efforts of Biermen's gridiron machine.

A sustained drive from the Nebraska 45 furnished the first of these two tallies. Halfback Harry Elliott climaxed the advance with a 10 yard foray into Nebraska pay dirt.

Only one minute and 15 seconds remained when Heffelfinger hustled around left end for the final counter after 17 year old Jim Malesky had put the ball in scoring position.

The big Minnesota line kept the Nebraska speed boys, Dick Hutton, Cletus Fischer and Moomey, bottled up, except for Moomey's third quarter running.

Nebraska's only other scoring effort was halted by the halftime gun. Hutton and Fischer had collaborated to move the ball from the Nebraska 26 to the Gopher 45, but a penalty called on Quarterback Dick Thompson for intentionally grounding a pass stymied the drive.

Defensive Honors.

Tom Novak and Joe Partington shared defensive honors for the Huskers, along with Sam Vacanti who refused to allow a broken nose to keep him out of action. The Husker quarterback was injured early in the second period but continued to play throughout the second half.

The statistics showed that Minnesota had 15 first downs to Nebraska's seven. The Gophers had a net gain of 192 yards from rushing, which when added to their passing attack gave them a total of 321 yards.

Nebraska concluded its efforts Saturday with a net gain of 100 yards.

Basketball Free Throw Tourney Begins Oct. 7

Any student on the campus may compete in the coming basketball free throw tournament at the coliseum. Students may compete either individually or in groups, according to word from Mr. Means' office. However, at least 5 men must compete in a group to receive Jack Best participation points.

First round competition begins Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 7 and 8, from 3 to 6 in the afternoon. Each first round contestant will shoot 40 free throws with not over ten practice throws permitted. The final round of competition will be held on Friday, Oct. 26.

With married folks becoming nearly the rule rather than the exception on college campuses these days, such stories as this run in the Indiana Daily Student excite no undue comment. Under the head, "Busy Stork Can Count on I.U. Aid," officials on the Bloomington campus announced that the university was ready to join hands with the stork. Arrangements were made with the medical center at Indianapolis so that wives of students may receive maternity care at the William H. Coleman hospital for approximately $71. College, 1946—a far cry from what it used to be! The appearance of Patrice Munsel, brilliant young Metropolitan opera star, at the Coliseum on Oct. 11, will be her first performance in Nebraska.
