Class President Elections Open

Slated to run for the offices of junior and senior class presidents next Tuesday are three juniors and two seniors.

Appearing on the ballot as junior class candidates are Darrel Devoe, Dake Novotny and Jackie Tobin. Donald Chapin and Peggy Shelley are running for the senior office.

Polls on the city campus will be open from 9 a. m. until 7 p. m. in the Union basement. Voters may enter on the east side and must have their identification card to be admitted. Ag polls will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. in Miss Wheeler's office, secretary of Dean Burr.

Eligible Students.

A list of junior and senior students eligible to vote will be sent from the registrar's office and will be retained at the polls. Juniors must have 53 to 88 credit hours, and students with 88 or more credit hours will be considered a graduating senior.

Rules of procedure are to be closely observed. The Student Council constitution reiterates in

Yehudi Menuhin Presents Concert in Lincoln October 9

YEHUDI MENUHIN.

BY SAM WARREN.

Adding more "firsts" to an already eventful career, Yehudi Menuhin, who appears here October 9, was the first artist from any allied country to appear in Moscow, Paris and Prague.

This honor was accorded him not only because he is one of the living masters of the violin, but also because his name is a favorite among Europeans as well as Americans.

After appearances in England a little less than a year ago, Menuhin flew to Prague where he was the first American artist to give a professional concert after the war. A similar concert in Paris took place in the liberated French capital, just as General deGaulle had promised Menuhin one year before, at a banquet in London. Menuhin included on his program there the Mendelssohn violin concerto, which had long been banned by the Nazis.

But it was Moscow who received the violinist with the biggest shower of affection. Greeted at the airport by a delegation of

Paul Engle, Speaks Here At Convo

Paul Engle, who will lecture on "Poetry and Modern Life" in the Union ballroom Tuesday, October 8, at 11:00 a. m., has had the distinction of having parts of his "American Child" published in Life Magazine.

Quotes Life: "Iowa poet Paul Engle has always written in terms about the greatness of the country . . . Now in his latest book, Engle's poetry has become intimate and personal." Along with the three-page write-up in the magazine were pictures used in the book. "These pictures," say the editors, "catch the reflecting tenderness of a father's poems and the gentle charm of a child's growing up."

MB's Forbid Block Voting For Coeds

Any junior woman who is a member of any organized house which "votes as a block" will be ineligible for Mortar Board, was the decision of the Mortar Boards at their meeting last Thursday evening.

"Such voting is opposed to the standards and ideals of Mortar Boards," said Eleanor Knoll, president, "and therefore any coed so participating would not be showing the standards in leadership and service which are prerequisites for Mortar Board."

Block-voting, as these senior women have interpreted it, may mean one of two things: (1) either the official or unofficial guarantee of votes to one party or for a certain candidate; (2) the insistence by an organization that

Omaha Girl Wins Hitchcock Award For Journalism

Patricia Berigan, Omaha, has been awarded the 1946 Gilbert M. Hitchcock $1,000 scholarship to the graduate school of journalism at Columbia university.

Miss Berigan, the sixth woman to win the award which was established in 1934 by Mrs. G. M. Hitchcock in memory of her husband, Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the founder of the Omaha World-Herald, is a 1946 graduate of Creighton university. Patricia A. Chamberlain of Blue Springs, a graduate of the university, received the scholarship in 1945.

Scarlet Trips K-State 31-0

BY GEORGE MILLER.

The Cornhuskers did not disappoint a crowd of 35,500 fans who jammed into Memorial Stadium to witness the Huskers' first home tilt Saturday, for Bernie Master-son's boys ran up a 31-0 win over the offensively impotent Kansas State Wildcats.

In achieving their initial win of the season, and at the same time getting off to a flying start in Big Six competition, the Huskers scored at least one touchdown in every quarter.

Halfback Dick Hutton and Fullback Gerald Moore, led the scoring parade with a pair of touchdowns, but it was the Nebraska speed boys, Hutton, Bill Moomey and Jim Meyers, who carried the brunt of the Scarlet running attack.

Successful Passing.

When the Huskers took to the air, and they were far more successful this week, completing six of nine attempts, Quarterback Sam Vacanti displayed an abundance of aerial skill. The day's best play occurred when Vacanti lofted a 55 yard pass to Dick Hutton, who had gotten behind the Wildcat defenders. The fleet-footed Auburn ace rambled on to a score, the third of the day for Nebraska, which came with eight and a half minutes gone in the third quarter.

Coch Masterson swept the bench, sending every griddy who was suited up into the fray. On the other side of the field K-State mentor Hobbs Adams did almost as well, having only one player who did not see action.

But on the playing field the 'Cats were nowhere near the

Union Bridge Tourney Starts Saturday Noon

The opening session of the Union contract bridge tournaments will begin at 2 p. m. Saturday in room 313, announced Pat Lahr, Union director.

According to Dale Ball, supervisor of all bridge activities, each tournament will consist of four games of six hands each, and prize will be awarded to the two teams with the highest scores. Because of time limitations, complete rubbers will not be played; scoring will be based on the variation in points of the winning and losing couples, with the difference in score counted as a positive score for the winning team of each round and negative for the losing couple.

After several tournaments the teams will be seeded according to their ability and will be more interesting for both advanced and beginning bridge players.

All couples who wish to enter the tournament may register at the Union office before noon Saturday.

Lugn Plots Flight Course Of Navy 'Truculent Turtle'

BY ROGER MOORE

Dr. A. L. Lugn, geology professor, held the rank of lieutenant commander with the Navy Hydrographic division, where he plotted the course for the flight of the navy PV-2, "Truculent Turtle," which covered 11,237 miles and established a new non-stop flight record.

While with the Navy Hydrographic Division, Dr. Lugn was responsible for charting courses and distances of aircraft over ocean territory. In June, the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics requested that he plot three courses, one from Melbourne, Australia, to Washington, D. C., one from Perth, Australia, to Washington, D. C., and one from Sydney, Australia, to Washington, D. C. The course used for the recent flight of the "Truculent Turtle" from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio, was the course that failed to reach Washington. Dr.

Lugn was also responsible for plotting the courses from Bikini Atoll to all observation points during the Operations Crossroads experiment.

Air Travel Information

The information on all aspects of air travel, landing fields, facilities for flight, and air traffic, was analyzed by Dr. Lugn, while he was in charge of Air Navigation Research. Information on enemy aviation activities was easily obtained as well as information of American aviation activities. "Significantly enough," states Dr. Lugn, "we could get a wealth of material on all types of aerial activity for all countries excepting Russia."

Although Dr. Lugn will be on terminal leave from the navy until October 26, he has resumed his former position with the University and is conducting classes in the Geology Department.
