

Snooper Pays Off

Douglas Bronder is shown being congratulated by Dan Caulking, who has been disclosed as the Simon Snooper after a two-week contest. Bronder, the first student to guess the identity of the Snooper received a $25.00 prize this week when he took Caulking to the Simon store to collect his money. Caulking reveals facts and predictions about the social life on the campus on his 10:50 KFOR radio program every Sunday, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

UN Surgeon Tells of New Nerve Probe

Explaining a new method for detecting injury of pressure on nerves stemming from the spinal column, Dr. J. Jay Keegan, chairman of the Department of Surgery at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, spoke before a meeting of the Harvey Cushing Society in Boston Friday.

This new method is more accurate and less disturbing to patients than previous methods, particularly in the identification of spinal nerve involvement, claims Dr. Keegan. Physicians previously have determined nerve injury and pressure simply by pricking suspected areas with the point of a needle.

New Method

The new method consists simply of drawing a surgical needle, under uniform pressure, across the skin of a patient. The response of the patient can be appraised easily by neurologists of neurologic surgeons in determining the extent of nerve injury.

The interpretation is based on a chart developed by Dr. Keegan showing the skin distribution and relative sensitivity of spinal nerves in all parts of the body. This research outlined several new nerve areas, particularly of the arm and leg.

Health Service Adds Facilities For Students

Three additional services extended to university students by the Student Health Service were announced recently by Louis E. Means, Director of Student Physical Welfare.

At the ag college, the clinic in the Activities building will have two periods available for students to use for medical treatment and diagnosis. In addition to the regular 8 a. m. period which has been handled for years by Dr. Ruth, a new 1 p. m. period will be inaugurated with Dr. Samuel Fuenning and a registered nurse on duty. This will give the Ag College students two periods daily for service in addition to the privilege of coming to the city campus clinic at any time.

Registered Nurse

Another new feature will be the full time registered nurse on duty at the Residence Halls for Women. Miss Mary Fager, a graduate of the Omaha Nurse's School, has been appointed to this position. Miss Fager had 18 months experience before she served three years as an Army nurse. Her services will be available for all women living in the Residence Halls, and she will be there to handle emergencies during the hours that the Student Health Service is closed.

Still another extension of service is the availability of two nurses who will be on call at all hours of the night or on week-

Faculty Plans Honor Dinner For Chancellor

An official welcome to Chancellor and Mrs. R. G. Gustavson will be extended by faculty members and regents of the university during a dinner and reception in the Union Monday night.

More than 500 faculty members, regents and their wives are expected to attend the dinner in the main ballroom at 6:30 p. m. Invitations have been extended to all full-time members of the administrative and instructional staffs, according to Dean C. H. Oldfather, head of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Faculty

Faculty members and their wives who cannot attend because of limitations of space in the ballroom will have an opportunity to greet the new Chancellor at the informal reception in the main lounge following the dinner.

Dean W. W. Burr, presiding at the dinner, will introduce Prof. Earl Georgi who will welcome Chancellor and Mrs. Gustavson on behalf of the faculty. Robert W. Devoe will also speak for the Board of Regents. Dinner music will be furnished by a student string quintet from the School of Fine Arts. New faculty members present will also be introduced during the dinner.

Book Nook Will Open in New Ag Student Union

The book nook in the new Ag Union will be opened with an original investment of $200 in fiction and non-fiction books, announced Patricia H. Lhr, Union director.

This original book purchase will be supplemented with additional purchases each year, according to Miss Lahr, but book donations to increase this library will be welcomed now. Current fiction and non-fiction, as well as older books suitable for leisure reading, are required. Students willing to donate books for the Ag Union are asked to bring them to the Union office.

Theater Group Presents 'Laura' Thursday Eve

"Laura," coming production of the Experimental theatre, will be presented Thursday evening, at 7:30, in the Temple theatre.

For the production of this murder mystery, Connie Cathcart, a speech and art student who plays the part of Laura, has painted a self-portrait in oils. The picture is an outstanding likeness, and is the finishing touch to a complete and exceptional stage set.

There will be no reserved seats at this performance. However, those holding University theatre season tickets will be admitted free, while those who are not patrons of the University theatre will be charged an admission fee of 40 cents.

Engineers Will Attend Meeting In Kansas City

A group of Nebraska civil engineering students, members of the American Society of Civil Engineering Student Chapter, have been invited to attend a conference in Kansas City on Oct. 17, during the three-day fall meeting of the society, according to Prof. R. E. Edgecomb, faculty advisor of the Nebraska chapter.

Subjects to be discussed at the meetings, which 600 leading civil engineers, experts on highways, sanitary engineering, air transport, waterways, and in other civil engineering fields are concerned with pertinent postwar problems.

The American Society of Civil Engineers is the oldest national engineering organization in the country. There are 123 student chapters affiliated with the organization.

Some veterans, Sorensen explained, fail to receive their subsistence checks because they have moved without sending their new address to the VA. Government checks cannot be forwarded from one address to another without written orders from veteran over his own signature. Veterans who move should notify the VA Regional Office, Sharp building, Lincoln, giving their old address, their new address, their full name, "C" number, and signature.
