

Ragged Edges

BY JEANNE HICKEY AND ELLIE SWANSON.

And so another week-end is here, and we all wonder whether it is going to rain forever, snow next or if there will ever be such a thing as another picnic.

The Sigma Chis didn't let the weather problem bother them Saturday night, however, as their house party was quite a success. A new and interesting addition to the many couples attending, were Marv Bowhay and Shirley Eskilsen who also plan to make the trip to K. U. together. Gus Douvas and Bob Van Sant have proudly announced that they had dates. Also making the most of the weather situation Saturday night were the Sig Eps whose "outing" provided fun for Sue Golden and Jan Thorson who were accompanied by Johnny Adams and Ariley Elward, while Bev Sutton and Al Mavis, Ellie Assmussen and Bud March made an excursion to Omaha.

Iowa.

Gone to Iowa U. are Bea Smith, Anne Jennings, and Sue Ann Cochran, who will undoubtedly spend the week-end with Joe Partington. A little early, but partaking in the migration to K. U. will be Lee Lovan and Susie Storz and Dick Nash and Coll Quigley.

Quickest come-back from a fast brush-title for the week goes to John Dale, larger member of the BMOG tribe. John was seen being the liveliest member of the life of the party's group at the Sig Chi turnout on Saturday night. Kosmet's prexy recovered from Marilyn Duffack's bounce in fine fashion.

The A. G. R. house party Friday was indeed an event, and first prize for unusual couples goes to Phil Ross who was escorted by her ex-pinmate, Gene Simm. Marge Reynolds, Harold Kopf, Barb Mohler and Paul Gillespie report that it was a fine deal. And the same night found East Hills packed to the doors with such notable dancing partners as Hank Anderson with Marge Benson, Royce Valentine and Bill Morehouse (a pretty good deal), and Zoe Desch with Don Berquist.

Air Lanes.

Airplane rides are fun—that is if you don't suffer from an acute case of air sickness—according to Jo. Bridenbaugh who served as co-pilot to Gorden Luhr.

Music lovers made a good turnout at the concert of Patrice Munsel. Jean Swengle and Cap Thiesen, a couple seen about together of late attended while Joan Kelly and Rus Tutor sat not too far behind them.

The star was presented with a dozen and a half roses by S. A. I., according to M. A. Peterson, prexy.

Others seen Saturday night were Ken Fletcher and Jan Staley who have become quite a steady couple since a few weeks before school began. Stan Perry and Joe Loisel were with Pat Felger and Betty Wilson respectively, while brother Bill Layman escorted Marge Layman.

Bob Nickerson was eagerly awaiting his date with Joe Guenzel this week-end... hope everything went well, Nick.

Vets Council Entertains Heads Of Fraternities

The executive council of the Veterans' Organization entertained the presidents and representatives of the social fraternities of the university in the Lancaster room of the Hotel Cornhusker Thursday night.

Between courses of a five-course turkey dinner, Don Baker, master of ceremonies and vice-president of the Veterans' Organization, introduced as speakers Don Kimmel, president; Dr. R. C. Bedell, advisor, and Carl Booton, educational chairman, who outlined the purpose and ideals of the vets' organization for the information of those present.

The evening closed with definite progress made toward setting up a basis for amicable organizational relationships in the future to promote good fellowship among all veterans, according to President Kimmel.
