

Stuart Theatre Features Ted Weems in Two Day Appearance

BY JERRY COHN.

After twenty years in the music business, Ted Weems still holds an enviable position among the successful bandleaders of today. His current show at the Stuart theatre proves that his arrangements are enjoyable and start your toes tappin'.

The show is fast moving and features several specialties, the best ones being Tiny Martin's bass solo of "Flight of the Bumble Bee", and Shirley Richard's interpretation of Betty Hutton singing "Doing It The Hard Way." For those who like something with a beat, the rhythm section does a nice job on "Hum Drum."

Mr. Weems was born in Philadelphia, and attended the University of Pennsylvania where he received a degree in Mechanical Engineering. However, he soon discovered he had more offers to play in orchestras, which was his way of getting through school, than he had time to apply his knowledge of engineering.

Ted Weems had been leading an orchestra for 18 years when he decided to enlist in the Maritime Service. Upon his discharge two years later, he re-organized his present band and is back playing such famous locations as the Palmer House and Hotel Stevens in Chicago, the Hollywood Palladium in California, and the Astor hotel in New York.

Recalling his band at the time of his enlistment, Mr. Weems spoke of a popular vocalist of today, Perry Como. "Perry went out on his own at that time, after singing with the band for seven years," he said.

Now doing a series of one-nighters, Ted Weems and his orchestra are heading for the Stevens hotel, after which he will start on an extensive theatre tour across the country.

He will do four more shows today before ending his Lincoln engagement.

Awgwan

Take heed, you poets, jokesters, and humor writers! Walt Simon, le petit editor of THE publication, has issued an ultimatum: all copy for the November issue of The Awgwan must be turned in prior to Nov. 1st or else! Or else, you'll be forced to read contributions other than your own during the month.

at that time became an all-campus project of the Religious Welfare Council.

Plans for the year include outstanding Lincoln speakers and student speakers, hymn-fests and special worship programs. The Vesper Choir, which sings at all services, is composed of any interested students. Dr. Gerald Kennedy, pastor of St. Paul Methodist church, is scheduled for an early fall service. This week, Myrlee Holler will lead the worship program and Elmer Sprague will provide the meditation, speaking on "Citizenship for the Future."

Contract Bridge Competitors End First Tournament

Bob Johnson, Charles Dickey, Alan W. Mavis and Harry G. Marsh were members of the two winning teams in the first contract bridge tournament held Saturday in the Union.

Sixty-four players competed in the first tournament, according to Pat Lahr, Union director. Each bridge team played four hands and the winner were awarded prizes. The series of tournaments will continue with a second competition scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 9th.

most part, idealists, with facts to support our ideals.

There are three types of students on this campus: Democrats, republicans and those who don't give a darn. The latter comprise the largest group. It was primarily for their benefit that we decided to use an "eye-catching" ad.

Here are the cold facts:

The ad stated that all six of our congressmen voted against ballots for servicemen. It was generally believed in the year preceding the 1944 election that Roosevelt would receive the majority of the soldiers' votes if they were given the right to vote. Our two senators and four representatives, along with most other republicans, lined up to vote against the Worley Federal Ballot bill, on Feb. 3, 1944. This bill would have enabled servicemen to vote.

The ad states that these same six voted against effective price control. Any economist will tell you that OPA, as it was on June 30 of this year, was necessary to prevent inflation. The UniVets Organization, the A.V.C., the League of Women Voters, consumer groups passed resolutions favoring retention of OPA as it existed then. Yet our congressmen voted against it.

The ad states that these men voted against housing for veterans. In the House, on March 7, 1946, three of our representatives voted against the Patman Emergency Housing bill. (Representative Miller was absent.) In the senate, both Butler and Wherry voted for the Revercomb amendment which helped defeat the administration's veterans' housing program. This was on April 10, 1946. All five of these men voted at the insistence of the powerful, well-heeled, real estate lobby.

Any students desiring more information along these same lines are cordially invited to attend our next meeting, Wed., Oct. 16, 8 p. m., room 316 in the Student Union.

Ten Curtis Ag Students Win Scholarships

Ten students at the University school of agriculture, Curtis, have been awarded $100 C. A. Cooper scholarship, H. K. Douthit, superintendent of the school, announced Monday.

The scholarships are made available by the income from a turkey project which was established at the school several years ago, through the University Foundation, by a gift of $5,000 from the C. A. Cooper Co., Humboldt, Neb.

Bulletin

All Tassels and Corncobs must turn in Cornhusker receipt books and money by 4 p. m. today, according to Dean Skokan, business manager.

All former residents of Chadron or former students of Chadron State Teachers' college are invited to attend the second meeting of the "C" Club in the Union parlor 2, Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. Plans are being made for members to attend the Chadron-Doane and Chadron-Westeyan football games in November, according to George Ball, general chairman.
