Elliot Lawrence Scheduled For Homecoming Weekend

Marine Band Will Appear

In Coliseum When the U. S. Marine Band, almost as old as the nation itself, plays in the coliseum Saturday evening, band fans will hear an organization acclaimed "the outstanding symphonic military band of our day." In its nearly 150 years of his-toric performance, the band has had some of the country's foremost musicians for its 18 leaders. Undoubtedly the most famous of them all was John Philip Sousa, the "March King." It was for this band that Sousa wrote some of his most famous marches, which still figure prominently in band per-

Capt. William F. Santelmann, the present leader, is the son of another Marine Band conductor, William H. Santelman who like Sousa was also a composer. Captain Santelmann was appointed to full leadership in 1940 after being second leader and violin soloist with the concert band.

The band is called upon to furnish practically every form of musical fare thruout a year. Its symphonic arrangements, its quartets and string ensembles are as well known in Washington's of-See BAND, Page 4

ELLIOT LAWRENCE

BY JACK HILL

Rated by Billboard, nationally circulated show magazine, as one of the three most promising bands in the nation, Elliot Lawrence has been scheduled to play at the Coliseum, Nov. 2, for the Homecoming dance, according to Dean Skokan, Homecoming publicity chairman.

Lawrence, a 21 year old former student of the University of Pennsylvania, conducts an aggregation which college students cross the nation rated tops, placing Stan Kenton and Tex Beneke ahead by a slight vote. The orchestra is said to play 'music of tomorrow, today' and features instruments such as the oboe, french horn and bassoon in a smooth blend of danceable tunes.

Playing a series of one-nighters at the present time, Lawrence's orchestra will play for the University of Virginia on Oct. 18 and for the University of Michigan the following week-end. The organization opened at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York less than two years ago and recently concluded an engagement at Frank Dailey's Meadowbrook County Club on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. His meteoric rise has surprised veterans in the music field and pleased his thousands of fans from coast to coast.

In the Billboard poll, one enthusiastic voter said, "The Lawrence band voices its slow tunes very beautifully, making perfect dance music." . While chosen as a newcomer, Lawrence was in competition with older organizations such as Beneke's and Kenton's. His appearance here will enable students to compare the three bands and decide for themselves as to the outcome of the poll.

Details will be forthcoming as to the actual dance, according to Skokan, but tickets have been priced at $3.00 per couple and tentative arrangements are being made by the Homecoming committee with the co-operation of the Corn Cobs and Tassels.

Students Will Offer Recital Today at 4

Marion Bradden, Margaret Modlin and Peggy Shelley will offer the fourth in the School of Fine Arts' weekly recital pro-Temple theater. Today's recital is one of the several senior recitals scheduled for the series.

1946 concessions sales girls are wanted for football games, according to Phyllis Freed, WAA representative. Coeds who work in the concessions are admitted to the game free and earn 10% of the sales, Miss Freed stated. Interested coeds may apply by calling Miss Freed at 2-3526.

Ratio Issued By Registrar

Swelled by the presence of a pus, preliminary figures from the registrar's office fix registrations at about 7,100 men to 2,400 women, or a ratio of nearly three to

In contrast to the pre-war two men to every woman, the ratio in the freshman class, where men students total 3,115 and women students 438, is even higher.

90% Nebraskans.

Nebraska residents form 90 percent of the enrollment, or 8,150 students. The remaining ten percent, most of whom are upperclassmen returning to finish their schooling, are from other states, and thirty are from foreign coun-

Other figures show Nebraska resident enrollment to be 2,419 from Lincoln, 678 from Omaha, and 4,953 from other towns within the state.

Veterans' Organization A general business meeting of the Veterans' organization, and the Veterans' forum, will be held tonight at 7:15 in the Union ballroom.

KUMigration BY NORM LEGER.

So you're tired of conventional types of fun--coking, dances, and movies. Then gather 'round, everybody, and listen. With the numerous movies out in the past year centering their plots around train trips, revealing the gay adventure to be found while riding choo choos, you, too, can now share the excitement and hilariety R.G. Gustavson by taking a trip on a train, the "Jay Hawk Special," this Saturday to Lawrence, Kansas, to attend the KU game. This, my dear people, is the migration trip, one of the most enjoyable school events of the year, just ask any alum who made the trip in prewar days, and he will tell you!

In the first place, vim-vigor-and -vitality Dodie Easterbrook is in charge of the migration, so you homecoming banquet and Chan-can have little doubt as to the cellor's reception at the Union amount of fun in store. Dodie has announced that any migrators who play instruments, horns, harmonicas, and squeeze-boxes, are to bring their instruments with them, and add to the high spirit that will be evidenced by the migrating Huskers.

The set-up on hours is as fol-lows: the train leaves Lincoln at 7 a. m. Saturday and arrives in Lawrence at 12:30. The homeward trip begins at 11:45 p. m. Saturday, with 5:30 a. m. Sunday as the hour of arrival in Lincoln.

Before the war, this migration trip was an annual occurence, and if this year's trip is successful (and you can make it that) another will be made next fall. So keep in mind that future migrations will be determined by the success of this migration to KU.

Plenty of food and drink (soft, that is) in the form of box lunches and orangeade will be available, thanks to WAA, to all "Jay Hawk Special" passengers. However, one point to be emphasized is that there will be absolutely no drink-

U.S.A. Dance

Unaffiliated Students' Association will hold a harvest dance in the Union ballroom Saturday, Oct. 19, from 9 to 12 p. m. Admission will be 25c each, and refreshments will be

Tickets may be obtained from U. S. A. representatives at the door.

Banquet Group Guest Speaker

With a personal plea and a message of thanks, Chancellor R. G. Gustavson addressed the University faculty at the annual cellor's reception at the Union Monday night.

Speaking to over 500 faculty members from all departments of the university, Gustavson said, "I'm working for a united Ne-braska behind a united university." The chancellor congratulated Chicago this summer, will be members of the 'old guard' for maintaining the fine reputation of Thursday. No seats will be re-the school during the war years served, but University theater and then turned his attention to the new members of the faculty. He asked them to go all out in gaining new laurels for Nebraska and expressed his belief that the entire faculty, new members as well as old, would act in ac-cordance with the confidence shown them by thousands of veterans who have returned to the Future Bright.

"We have fine days ahead. We cannot help but succeed with the group we have." The chancellor pointed out the problems of justice, freedom and rightcousness which must be met in the class-
