HUSKER HIGHLIGHTS

By George Miller

Although Nebraska has played only three games thus far this season, the Cornhuskers have captured the lead in one division of team statistics according to figures released by the Big Six bureau in Kansas City.

Bernie Masterson's club has been assessed the grand total of 220 yards in penalties during 180 minutes of gridiron activity—tops for any of the conference teams. Thus the Huskers have been penalized a bit over one yard for every minute they have been in the field, quite an obstacle to overcome.

Officials have paced off 135 yards against Nebraska opponents to give the Huskers a healthy handicap in every game thus far.

In other departments Nebraska did not fare as well, for the opponents, Minnesota, Kansas State and Iowa, have the edge in every other field in which statistics were tabulated.

Total rushing shows the opponents with 638 yards compared to 559 for Nebraska. However, the Huskers have amassed more yards by rushing, 446 to 378, but trail in passing 93 to 260. The Huskers percentage of completed passes is .280, and talk of the pass weakness is verified by the fact that the opponents have completed over half of the passes attempted, 26 of 51 for a percentage of .509.

Nebraska punters trail in kick averages 32.8 to 38.5 in the last bracket of team achievement.

Kansas and Oklahoma backfield men monopolize the individual honors. Little Joe Golding paces all ball carriers with 230 yards gained in 42 trips with the leather, trailed by Bud French of Kansas who has 177 yards in 33 carries.

The Husker speed Merchant, Dick Hutton, ranks seventh in this department with 146 yards gained in 25 attempts.

Nebraska boosters might take heed of the fourth fifth and sixth men, for each is a Kansas backfield regular—Ray Evans, Frank Pattee and Dick Bertuzzi, respectively.

Red Hogan, KU quarterback who is now out of action because of a broken leg, still leads the passers with 11 completions in 24 attempts for 229 yards. Bus Entsminger of Missouri is second with four completions in 17 efforts, good for 136 yards.

The mighty Ray Evans ranks fourth with 105 yards gained, but he has tossed only eight passes and four of them have hit the mark, said mark usually being End Otto Schnellbacher who has fielded eight tosses for a gain of 139 yards.

Dean Laun, Iowa State performer, has caught the most passes, 10, but the yards gained amount to only 172. The Cyclones, incidentally, are the passingest team in the conference, for they have attempted 90 aeriels and have completed 34 for a percentage of .452.

Only two other Huskers figure in the individual statistics. Quarterback Fred Metheny is ninth among the passers with seven completions in 14 attempts, and Halfback Roy Long is seventh in the list of punters with a kicking average of 33.8 for 19 kicks.

Dennis of Iowa State leads booters with six punts good for an average of 47.3.

equally chosen from all parts of the United States now act as electors.

The bronze was cast and first won by Jay Beawanger of the University of Chicago in 1935.

In 1936, John W. Heisman, then director of athletics at the Downtown Athletic club of New York City passed away and the trophy was renamed the Heisman Memorial trophy.

This seemed particularly fitting and met with instant approval because John Heisman had coached football for thirty-seven years from 1892 through 1927 at eight different colleges. He was the inventor of the spin play and direct snap from center to back and was considered by many as the originator of the forward pass.

The conference is particularly pertinent at this time, since consideration is now being given to the possibilities of graduate work being offered at the University of Nebraska in conjunction with graduate work in the School of Education.
