

Coed Counselors Sponsor Dinner Wednesday Night

Extending an invitation to new women students and to all freshmen girls, the Coed Counselors are completing plans for their annual friendship dinner Wednesday at 6 p. m., in the Union ballroom.

Tickets for the dinner may have been purchased from a Coed Counselor in the past week. However, if any girl wishing to attend the dinner has not been contacted, she may obtain her ticket from Miss Piper in Ellen Smith hall today. Tickets are 60 cents per person.

A sincere welcome is extended to all new girls on the campus, and the party will live up to its successful traditions, according to Marthella Holcomb, president.

Novaes . . .

Enter Chopin.

But it was Madame Novaes' Chopin that stopped the show! After showing the salon Chopin thru an ethereal Impromptu, she presented the fiery concert-hall Chopin thru his "Sonata in B Flat, Opus 35," as finished as a perfect jewel! In a performance that surely must have been definitive, she revealed all the brilliant facets of her technique. The famous funeral march was particularly effective in all its sombre and dark-colored forcefulness, when contrasted with the dynamic portions which preceded and followed it. The audience could have left at this point, satisfied that it had heard a great recital.

But it stayed to hear Novaes conclude with the charming modern moods of latin rhythms. There were the short but appealing "Tom Thumb's March" and "Little Horse of the Broken Leg," and an intricate "Tocata," all by South Americans. Add to this Granados' "Maid and the Nightingale" and Villa-Lobos' "Three Mary Stars" (one of several closing encores) and the scope of the Novaes recital is complete!
