

Indiana Passes Win, 27-7

Ed Nyden Scores On Flip by Vacanti

BY GEORGE MILLER

The Nebraska weaknesses cropped up as expected and the Indiana weaknesses never materialized.

That was the story as the Hoosiers hung a 27 to 7 defeat on Bernie Masterson's Cornhuskers Saturday afternoon before a crowd of 36,200 in the eleventh renewal of the Husker-Indiana rivalry.

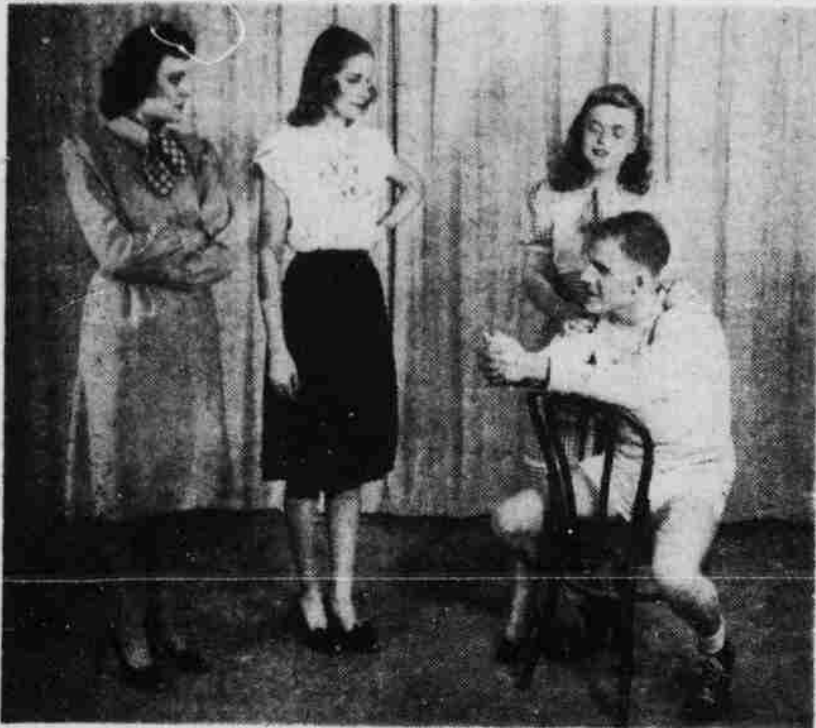

Each time the black-garbed Hoosiers scored it was Benny Rainondi who engineered the action. Four times the swarthy Brooklyn ace fired passes that ended in touchdowns, and all afternoon riddled the U. N. defense.

Sam Vacanti produced the Huskers' lone score when he spotted Ed Nyden in the end zone during the third quarter and rifled a pass which the co-captain speared just inside the end zone limit. Vacanti added the extra point and the Huskers appeared to be in the ball game.

At the time of the score the Indiana squad was sporting a 14 to 0 lead, a margin they possessed when the half ended. However after that Husker counter, the Hoosiers roared up and down the field with renewed determination.

Theatre Produces First Play 'My Sister Eileen'

BY DEDE MEYER.

The curtain will rise at 8 p. m. sharp, in the Temple Theater next Wednesday night, Oct. 30th, on the University Theatre's first production of the 46-47 season, "My Sisteen Eileen."

This delightful adaptation by Fields and Chodorov, from Ruth McKenny's laugh-filled best-seller, concerns the story of two sisters, Ruth and Eileen, and the amazing adventures that befall them during their 12 month's stay in a tiny Greenwich village basement apartment. Eileen is the pretty one, whose homey personality attracts passes from every sane man from 18 to 65. Ruth is plainer, with an ambition bent towards writing.

Greenwich.

Thru the distracting apartment, which they rent from boisterous but sly Mr. Appopolous, whirls the off-color life of the artists' metropolis, Greenwich village. Drunks and gamins, hucksters and cops, all weave in and out, along with the leering males who have been given the address by a forgetful trollop who previously inhabited the place. Strange fungus grows on the walls, and blasting in a new subway brings frequent and startling interruptions from below.

The drama is climaxed when

Daily Papers Now Available To All Students

Patricia Lahr, Union director, announced Saturday that daily newspapers will be sold at the cashier's desk in the Corn Crib.

"This is an experiment designed to help students obtain papers more easily," Miss Lahr stated, "and will be only a temporary measure if they fail to sell. On the other hand if the ones we have contracted for prove to be insufficient to meet the demand we will increase the number. It all depends on student reaction," she continued.

"Due to the increased number of courses that require a day by day account of current events and in order to make papers more accessible to the students we have adopted this plan," Miss Lahr said.

The Lincoln Star, the Lincoln Journal, and the Omaha World-Herald will be sold daily with the exception of Sunday when the Crib opening hours make it impossible to sell the papers.
