

Organized Groups to Submit Plans for WAA Dance Fete

Organized houses and groups must submit plans for a Christmas or winter scene dance to Miss Alleen Lockhart or Mrs. Ruthann Geissinger by Wednesday if they wish to participate in the December dance intramural program, a new activity which will be sponsored by the WAA.

All ideas, which will be kept secret, should be original. If two or more groups present similar plans, the one turned in first will be given preference. Plans submitted should contain a description of the theme, suggested music, costumes to be worn, names of girls taking part and chairman of the group. The maximum time limit for each group will be five minutes.

Judging.

Dances will be judged on theme, suitability of music, suitability and originality of costume, dancing technique and dance composition. Groups will be judged Nov. 26 at 7:30 p. m. in the dance studio of Grant Memorial hall, and the three winning dances will be presented at the Orchesis annual festival Dec. 11. Costumes are not to be worn for the try-outs.

Any number of girls may participate in the dance, including members of pre-Orchesis. However, Orchesis members may not participate or direct a group.

Directors' Meeting.

Directors of each organization will meet this afternoon at 5 in the dance studio to clarify any questions concerning the program.

Ideas which have been suggested for competition are dances to a carol, predominately religious in character, exemplification of traditional customs or portrayal of some portion of the Christmas story.

Sponsors of the dance intramurals have requested that participants do not use the following music: "O Come All Ye Faithful," "We Three Kings," "Deck the Halls," "Jingle Bells," and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."

Dr. Lindstrom Speaks at Ag Convo Today

"Opportunities for Christian Service in Rural Areas" will be Dr. David Lindstrom's topic when he speaks at the ag campus 'Religion in Life' convocation, today at 4 p. m. in the Activities Building.

At 6:00 the YW will serve a spaghetti supper. Tickets for the supper were to have been purchased yesterday, according to Irene Wellensiek, publicity chairman.

Dr. Lindstrom will speak on "The Rural Church in a Christian Nation," at the regular YM-YW weekly meeting tonight at 7:30.

Gamma Sigma Delta, honorary agricultural fraternity, of which Dr. Lindstrom is a member, will sponsor a luncheon in his honor this noon.

Students may confer with Dr. Lindstrom today between the hours of 11 and 12, and 1:30 and 3:30 in Room 110 of the Plant Industry Building.

Professor of rural sociology at the University of Illinois, Dr. Lindstrom is a graduate of the university college of agriculture. He is president of the American Country Life Association, and was chairman of the conference between theological seminaries and college of agriculture.

Charm School Meets Tonight At Ellen Smith

The year's first meeting of Charm School will be tonight at 7 p. m. in Ellen Smith hall, with Mrs. Harold Stebbins, guest speaker, discussing the definition of charm and the attributes of charm. Mrs. Stebbins, a former university student, is currently president of the Lincoln Junior League.

The purpose of Charm School is to aid coeds in improving their appearance, etiquette, and studying the newest styles and fashions. In recent years, the program has been directed toward topics such as care and types of furs, perfumes and other interesting subjects. The presentation of the annual spring style show is another outstanding event of Charm School.

Charm School meetings will be held every other Tuesday evening until early spring. On alternate Tuesdays book reviews will be given with Joan Fankhouser as director.

A special invitation is extended to all freshman girls

Vespers Choir

Vespers Choir will rehearse today at 4 p. m. in the Union. The room number will be posted on the Union bulletin board. All who have previously sung in the choir and those interested in doing so are urged to attend, according to Beverly Sievers, choir chairman.

Tuskegee Pastor Will Speak Today

Orchestra, Pianist Will Play Sunday

A capacity audience will hear the Union-sponsored concert of pianist Mario Braggiotti and the university orchestra in the ballroom next Sunday, Union director Patricia Lahr has announced.

The last of 1,000 admission cards for the event were issued at the Union office yesterday, Miss Lahr revealed. Attendance will be limited to this number by the seating capacity of the ballroom.

Interest in the concert has been high since it was first announced that the internationally-known pianist Braggiotti would appear as guest artist with the orchestra, under the direction of Emanuel Wishnow.

Education.

Braggiotti, who has studied at the Boston Conservatory of Music and the Conservatoire in Paris, has become celebrated as a pianist, composer and musical humorist. All these talents will be given

Vets Sponsor Radio Program Tomorrow Nite

"Veteran's Views," weekly radio broadcast sponsored by the Veteran's Organization, will be held from 6:30 to 7 p. m. next Wednesday evening in Room 201 of the Temple building, instead of the usual meeting time of 7:30.

The question discussed on this week's broadcast, "Is organized Religion Accepting its Challenge?" ties into the spirit of Religious Emphasis week. Speakers on the broadcast are Father Obrist, pastor of the Holy Family church; Dr. John O. Nelson, director of the Tifereth Israel Synagogue; and Dr. Rhinehardt, chairman of the Sociology department at the university.

An unusually large audience is expected at this broadcast, for letters were sent to 88 pastors in Lincoln and read in churches last Sunday. These letters invited interested people to attend the broadcast to take part in veterans' discussion of important issues.

High Schools Experiment With Movies

Twenty-nine Nebraska high schools were selected Monday to participate with the university, Omaha University, and four state teachers colleges in an experiment designed to develop standards for educational movies used in public school classrooms.

Dr. Wesley C. Meierhenry, project director of the university extension division, said two types of films would be shown in these high schools beginning early next year. One, to aid classroom instructors, will cover such subjects as general science, biology, physics, world geography, world history, and American history. Films for student assemblies, on such subjects as international relations, music and art will also be presented.

Carnegie Grant

The project is being financed by a $15,400 grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York City. Films worth $10,000 came from Teaching Film Custodians, Inc., with $5,000 from the same corporation to purchase or rent other films. Encyclopedia Britannica Films, Inc., furnishes 600 films on a "cost-of-production" basis for the duration of the projects.

The Nebraska experiment is designed to determine the extent to which teaching in small high schools can be improved and expanded through the use of high-standard educational films, Dr. Meierhenry said. The project, the only one of its kind, has aroused national attention and interest among educators and film producers.

The high schools were selected by the project's executive committee, composed of Dean Frank E. Henzlik of the university's Teacher's College; Dr. K. O. Broady, director of the University's Extension Division; Wayne O. Reed, state superintendent of public instruction; and Dr. Frank Sorenson, project executive secretary for the University.

Nu-Meds

The Nu-Med picture for the Cornhusker will be taken today at 4:45 p. m. in the west stadium, not at Rinehart-Marsden Studio as previously announced. Men are to wear coats and ties, according to Stanley Johnston, president.

The Rev. Harry V. Richardson, chaplain and director of religious activities at Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, will speak at the "Religion in Life" convocation this morning at 10 o'clock in the Union ballroom.

Mr. Richardson attended Western Reserve university, Cleveland, O.; the divinity school of Harvard university, and received a Ph.D. degree in sociology and religion at Drew University.

In Alabama, he founded, and is now executive secretary of a state-wide interracial ministers' alliance. He serves on committees and organizations which are seeking to achieve better race relations in the south. He was vice-president of Tuskegee Institute for three years, and is active in the effort to improve conditions among Negroes in rural areas.

For 12 years he was religious advisor and intimate friend of the late George Washington Carver, and was with the famous scientist at the time of his death. Mary Esther Dunkin will preside at the convocation.

Religion in Life Week began Sunday when students heard visiting religious leaders in Lincoln church services, at seminars on the campus, and at the first Religion in Life convocation in the coliseum.

According to estimates made by church leaders on the campus, approximately 2,500 students, faculty members, and their friends

D. A. DeVoto To Speak At Convocation

"The Maturity of American Literature" will be Bernard A. DeVoto's topic when he will address students at an all-university convocation to be held in the Union ballroom Wednesday at 3 p. m.

DeVoto, a noted writer and lecturer, received his A.B. degree from Harvard university in 1920. He is now the editor of the Harvard graduates' magazine and has contributed literary articles, historical essays and reviews to national magazines.

A former instructor and assistant professor of English at Northwestern university, DeVoto is the author of "The Year of Decision," "The Taming of the Frontier," and "The Crooked Mile."

'Shaw's Gang,' High School Dance Group, Gives Recital

"Shaw's Gang," a group of Cheyenne Mountain High school students from Colorado Springs under the direction of Dr. Lloyd Shaw, will present a program of mountain square dancing in the Coliseum Saturday, Nov. 16, at 8 p. m.

Dr. Shaw, who has conducted his group of 16 boys and girls on tours throughout the United States, has been given credit for popularizing the cowboy square. A school superintendent and college trustee, he has written a book on the subject and lectured extensively.

He served as dance director and "caller" of the old-time dances in the Selznick production, "Duel in the Sun," which will soon be released. The Decca Recording Company will also have a Shaw square dance album available toward the end of the year. Each summer Dr. Shaw conducts a short intensive master class in western dancing in Colorado Springs for "caller" and dance teachers, but the enrollment is limited to 90 persons and applications from all over the country have to be refused.

Foremost of his interests, however, are his 'teen-age mountain dancers. The team tours the West Coast each autumn, the central West or the Atlantic seaboard each spring. The fee that is charged just about covers expenses.

Although Dr. Shaw could easily keep his first team filling engagements during the year, he rejects many invitations so that the students may continue their schooling. He arranges the itinerary with disregard for the convenience of those who wish to see his dancers. Considering only the opportunity to provide new experiences for his team.
