Spivak Plays.
Mortar Boards revealed yesterday that Charlie Spivak, the man who plays the sweetest trumpet in the world, has been signed as the Ball band.

The New Haven boy protege whose grade school experimentations with a toy trumpet led him to give up the medical career his parents had planned and study with a local symphony player, rose last year to top rank among the sweet bands of the land.

Spivak's meteoric rise to star billing after an initial engagement at New Rochelle's famous Casino Gardens, proving ground for many a fledgling aggregation, brought him the cover position on Billboard magazine recently.

Said Billard, in explaining Spivak as their choice. "Since he broke away in 1939 from a long spell in commercial radio and formed his own outfit, he's been setting box-office precedents wherever he's been. When his outfit was barely a year old he was booked into the Cafe Rouge of the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York and smashed the late Glenn Miller's record there. His all-time high hasn't been hit by any other band since."

What started as a routine four-week stand at the Paramount theater, showplace of name bands for the Knickerbocker metropolis, turned into a record-setting 10-week engagement. This third showing at the Paramount made the management decide on making it five in a row, and they've booked Spivak for 1947 and 1948.

Ben Kuroki To Analyze Race Issue

Ben Kuroki, Japanese-American World War II hero, will discuss the problem of existing racial intolerance when he speaks on "The Unfinished Fight for Democracy" at the all-university convocation in the Union ballroom Thursday at 2 p. m.

An address he gave at the Herald-Tribune Forum last November was reprinted in the January, 1946, issue of "Readers Digest," and was named by the University of Pittsburgh as one of five required declamations for all Pennsylvania high schools.

Three Distinguished Flying Crosses, six Oak Leaf Clusters, a Presidential Unit Citation and ten bronze battle stars were awarded Kuroki during his four years of service.

Tuberculosis Seal Campaign Opens

CHANCELLOR R. G. GUSTAVSON makes the first purchase of tuberculosis Christmas seals as the first University drive for funds to fight the disease is opened. Showing the seals to Dr. Gustavson is Pat Heynen, co-chairman of the campus drive.

To help raise funds to purchase a mobile X-ray unit for Lancaster county, the university this week began its initial drive to sell $4,000 worth of tuberculosis Christmas seals.

Pat Heynen and Bill Wiseman are serving as co-chairmen for the drive, which is scheduled to extend until Dec. 21. Wiseman has expressed a desire to make the campaign an annual event if this year's drive proves successful.

50c Contribution.

With the goal set at $4,000, a contribution of 50 cents per student would fill the university quota.

Representatives have been appointed by each organized house to collect contributions. To stimulate donations, a plaque will be presented to the house which buys the greatest amount of seals.

If Lancaster county succeeds in financing a $25,000 mobile X-ray unit, it will be available for student X-rays each year. Last fall the university borrowed the X-ray unit of the Nebraska state health department.
