

Coeds Scheming And Planning As Motor Boat Ball Approaches

BY JEANNE KERRIGAN.

Little huddles of scheming coeds, making fiendish plans for corsages to present their Mortar Board ball dates and devising new and different modes of transportation to the dance, may be seen whispering in every corner of the campus this week.

In the meantime, the male population is gleefully awaiting the opportunity to keep the gals waiting an hour or two, and then burden them with shaving kits, shotguns, combs, brushes and golf clubs. A few are even getting up a poker game to be played while they "comb their hair" for an hour or so after arriving at the dance. But they are the more sadistic characters on the campus.

Turnabout.

However, the girls will have their chance when they present their corsage which their dates MUST wear all evening. And Gene Jensen was heard to promise threateningly that if her date brings her anything bulky to carry she will absolutely not ask him to dance since she will naturally have to watch his property all evening.

One girl has been inquiring of all art majors for a small skeleton which anatomy students construct each year. I don't know exactly what she will do with it, but I do know an ATO that had best beware! We have also heard rumors about fellows who will be wearing coonskin tails, and artificial wreaths of holly.

Fun!

Then there is the little girl who has the delightful idea of decorating "him" just like a Christmas tree, with tinsel, lights and everything that goes with it.

About the most enterprising young femme, in my opinion, is the one planning to adorn her date with a pair of extra large blinders, so that he won't be able to see any of the off-shoulder or strapless formals floating around the dance floor. To complete the ensemble she will wear misletoe over her left ear in place of the usual buttonhole carnation.

Registration Rigors Rival Vacationing

BY JEANNE HICKEY.

A sad realization is upon us! The time has come to register again. What a rut—just about get our books, take a test and then the scramble for new and easier courses. A perfect schedule is hard to obtain with careful contemplation and crafty conniving, it can be done.

Now there are certain things you must take into consideration when fixing up the schedule. The older members of ye alma mater are fully aware of the serious tragedy of the Saturday class... but these classes are only offered to freshmen who don't know any better, they say.

Picnics Coming.

In preparing the schedule bear in mind that April, May and June are coming and bring merry picnic weather. Therefore it is necessary to exclude all afternoon classes from your schedule. Five months hence that certain man may wangle the car from his roommate only to learn that you have a no cut class. It just doesn't go... afternoon courses, that is.

There is a time when one must catch up on the sleep lost from the night before. The most opportune time, according to all reports is at 8 o'clock, so need I say more?

Time For Cokes.

A little crafty query will disclose the hour that certain man is free in the morning. Be sure to take this census before you see your advisor so that you too can say as only a Nebraska coed does, "Well, isn't that nice, we can have a coke together each morning." If you are interested in more than one particular individual, best you don't take any morning classes and arrange the coke schedule accordingly. If you plan to participate in any activity, be sure to consult your organization in order that they might be able to aid you in working out a night class or two.

Now the happy little weeks are planned, you may sit back and wonder why you're going to school. The Crib makes a cozy little home for all.
