Southern Methodist 56, Missouri 53.
Kansas 55, Iowa State 36.

After being bumped out of the championship flight by Arkansas on Thursday, the Nebraska Cornhuskers came back in Friday's game to trip the Iowa State quintet 54-51 to move into Saturday's firing pitted against the Oklahoma Sooners for the consolation championship in the Kansas City pre-season tournament.

A late rally by the Huskers brought the victory to Coach Harry Good's crew. Seven points was the greatest margin between the two teams throughout the game Friday. The Cyclones held that edge in the first half, but were unable to match Nebraska's closing flurry.

Lanky Don McArthur paced the Husker squad, netting 13 points from his center post. The Nebraska starting five was the same that had opened in previous contests, but the positions were altered. McArthur took over the center spot, Rodney Cox moved to forward with Claude Retherford and Joe Brown droppled to a back court guard spot with Joe Loisel.

NU Scorers.

Loisel and Brown gave Big Don valuable assistance in the scoring column, each man contributing 10 points to the Husker total.

The Cyclone's Jim Myers, All-Big Six forward last year, paced all scorers with 19 points. He potted seven field goals and added five charity tosses to lead the Cyclones' fruitless drive.

As a result of Friday's win, Nebraska is paired with Oklahoma for final action on Saturday. The box score:

Kansas had a narrow squeak but managed to stage a rousing finish to drop Arkansas from the running by a 53-52 count.

Phog Allen's top notch forward combination of Charlie Black and Otto Schnellbacher carried the scoring burden for the Jayhawks, scoring 15 and 16 points respectively.

Despite a height advantage the Razorbacks were unable to cope with the Kansans' blazing finish and wilted in the last minutes.

Alvin Williams paced the Porkers with 14 points while 6-foot 11-inch George Kok got 11 markers. The box score:

Too much height under the bankboards on the part of the Arkansas team cost Nebraska its chance to remain in the chase for the championship. The Razorbacks parlayed the altitude of George Kok, Alvin Williams and Alan Carter into a 57-46 win over the Scarlet.

Altho the Nebraskans controlled the ball thruout the contest and were in complete command in the floor play, the Porkers were just too tall and cashed in on numerous rebound shots.

Don McArthur led the Nebraska team with 13 points while Rodney Cox was second high with eight tallies.

Carter collected 15 points to pace the Arkansas five. The box score:

Kansas State pulled the biggest upset of the tournament when the Wildcats came thru with a 59-53 win over Oklahoma in a first round game.

The Sooners' famed two team system failed to work against the inspired K-Staters who overcame Gerald Tucker's individual 24-point contribution with a diversified scoring punch.

Every one of the nine Wildcat players who got into the game added at least two points to the winning total.

Howard Howe, Kansas State forward who formerly performed for Olathe Navy Base, was the big gun for the victors. He was good for 15 points and played an outstanding floor game. The box score:

IM Swimming Meet Gets Started Monday

The annual UN swimming meet will take place in the university coliseum pool December 16, 17, and 18. All campus organizations are urged to have as many competitors as possible. Two men in each event and one relay team in each of two relays is the maximum number from each organization. No man may enter more than three swimming events. Diving could be a fourth event. Entries are due by Friday, December 13.

All individual events will score 6-4-3-2-1 while all relays will score 10-8-6-3-2. A trophy will be awarded to the winning organization and a medal to the high point man of the meet. Merit certificates also will be given to outstanding performers and those setting new records.

Anyone wishing to view the meet, may enter the west end of the Coliseum stage for seats in the balcony of the swimming pool.

Organizations must have a minimum of six men actually competing to qualify for participation points. In addition to participation points, final team places will be determined by the points scored in the meet.

ATO Defending Champ.

Team champion for 1945 was Alpha Tau Omega while second place was held by Phi Delta Theta. Bob Harse of Alpha Tau Omega was high individual point maker in 1945.

Competition promises to be keen in all departments, as evidenced by the showing of competitors who have participated in pre-tourney work outs. By the same token all existing records are endangered.
