

Ragged Edges

BY PAT TOOF.

A brief review of said boisterous vacation runs along the matrimonial rut . . . A great percentage of the campus coeds returned displaying the conventional two rings on third finger, left hand. A profitable vacation without a doubt. Even Sue Newman disclosed the second ring from George Penny on New Year's eve which she has had in her possession since their marriage in October. Alice Christiansen and Johnny Call have decided that their ceremony will take place in June.

Diamond Boom.

The diamond business obviously boomed too . . . Libby Wenger flashing hers from Kansas man, Samburn Cook, Dorothy Duncan wearing the ring of Keith Delashmutt, while Beth Polehmus found her bit of ice from Tom Pierson hidden in the box of candy . . . cracker-jack fashion. Enid Kelso gave her promise to Warren Connell, leaving Ray Spear looking around . . . home ties proved binding. Jackie Carothers brought back a diamond from the Secretary of Chamber of Commerce of Broken Bow . . . strictly politics now.

Old friends will take interested note of the whirlwind affair of Janice Blakeslee . . . no longer engaged to Johnny Jones, she will marry home-town boy this summer.

Not sharing in the gaiety, Dale Ball spent a lonesome two weeks in Fremont while fiancée, Phyl Sorenson, vacationed beneath the California sun. Hank Heidtbrink proved to be attentive company for Ginny Pester . . . spending most of the vacation at her home. Will bear watching.

Old Ties Broken.

In another light . . . some of the latest break-ups which have occurred . . . starting the new year off right, Jean Metzger broke all ties with old steady, Tom Noble, while strong rumor has it that Bob Tegt is footloose and fancy free with all bonds to Kathy Legge severed. Line up, girls . . .

The Sigma Nu buffet supper resulted in one more fraternity trinket leaving its original owner . . . speaking of George Shaw's white star which is now in the possession of happy Phil Hoke Dick Knudsen also gave up his Phi Psi pin to hang beside the Kappa key of Sally Stebbins. Just to see how it works out, Steve Cole left his ATO identification with the girl in Grand Island . . .

Will be looking toward the future tomorrow . . .

The Ag Student Union Advisory Council will meet today, Jan. 7, at 5:00 p. m. in the Ag Union. All members must attend this first meeting of the council.

Everyone Ready for Big Rest After Grueling Vacation Whee

BY BILL PALMER.

Everyone is back to the campus and ready to settle down to the grind of studying. After a two-week Christmas vacation all need the rest it will bring.

Seriously, almost everybody in class Monday morning looked bright-eyed. The reason their eyes looked bright is because they were bulging at the sight of all the Christmas present neckties that adorn the male students. Women bought as gifts those cravats the stores advertise as "hand-painted." Any man can tell that the paint was only spilled on the neckwear. The poor recipient feels he has to wear his Yuletide noose, and he then looks like a rainbow on a spree.

How Was Yours?

And that reminds me, how was your New Year's eve? "That is one night I shall never forget I had a wonderful time that night—people told me the next day. As the clock chimed the old year out, people started wishing each other a happy New Year with a kiss. By the time I had finished kissing all the girls I couldn't remember who my date was. A swift uppercut to my chin, however, persuaded me that my assailant's wife wasn't she.

I suppose the Casey boys will be making up with their co-eds now. They broke up just before vacation thus saving the expense of a Christmas present.

The average student took two or three textbooks home with him. When he got ready to return to Lincoln he found them, dusted them off and brought them back. Oh well, if they had been left at school someone might have stolen them.

This is really the homestretch for the semester with finals starting on the 23rd. Don't give up. I believe it's possible to do 18 weeks' work in two, if you don't sleep.

Sixteen Earn Coed Counselor Silver Scrolls

Sixteen coeds were honored for their outstanding work in Coed Counselors at the annual Christmas tea held in Ellen Smith Hall December 18. Marthella Holcomb, president of the organization, presented each counselor with a silver scroll.

The awards were made on a basis of points earned and recommendations from little sisters of the counselors.

Award

Those receiving the awards were: Jeanne Branch, Dorothy Brown, Betty Chipman, Katherine Copple, Cora Ann Didrickson, Patricia Fisk, Nancy Gish, Lois Gillette, Betty Jeanne Holcomb, Dorothy Lasher, Genevieve Mitchell, Marcia Mockett, Ruth Norman, Marguerite Nootz, Helen Schall, and Ula Mae Schall.

Serving tea for the first hour were Dean Majorie Johnston and Mrs. E. Christiansen, and for the second hour, Mrs. R. C. Gustavson and Miss Mgrj Mielenz. Christmas music was furnished by members of the three music societies, Delta Omicron, Mu Phi Epsilon, and Sigma Alpha Iota.

A welcoming party for all new freshmen women entering the university second semester has been planned for Tuesday, Feb. 4.

Final payment of $2.75 for those who bought Cornhuskers on the installment plan is due at once, business manager Dean Skokan said today. Beginning Feb. 1, the final payment will automatically be raised to $3, he warned.
