SAI Alums Sponsor Organ Benefit Recital

Luella de Windt, mezzo-contralto from Chicago, will be presented by the alumnae chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national musical sorority, in a benefit recital Thursday evening in the Union ballroom. She will be accompanied by Mary Louise Boehm, of the school of music faculty. Both are alumnae of Sigma Alpha Iota.

Proceeds from the recital will go into the sorority's International Music Fund to buy a clinic organ for a veteran's hospital for therapy use in rehabilitating partially-paralyzed veterans. Six of these light-weight organs have been placed by the national fund in hospitals throughout the country.

Useful.

The organ, which a patient can place on his lap, has 81 real organ pipes arranged in two ranks. The diminutive console has a range of 42 keys and is attached to the organ by a 30-foot cable. A. F. Fultz, under whose direction the organ research was completed at Boston, says that "It is especially useful in the rehabilitation of tendons and muscles of hands and forearms, and affords a patient who has undergone certain kinds of hand surgery a much-to-be-desired activity."

Mrs. de Windt will sing Italian and modern groups as well as a group of four numbers by Richard Strauss. Miss Boehm will play selections by Chopin, Ravel and Albeniz. "Music News" magazine in reviewing one of her recitals has said of the mezzo-contralto, "Louise de Windt has undoubtedly one of the finest contralto voices in Chicago, as well as an abundant intelligence and artistry. She presented as fine a reading of Tchaikovsky's 'Farewell, Ye Hills,' as one will hear in a whole season of concerts."

Price.

Price of the tickets for the benefit recital is 80 cents, and the See RECITAL, Page 4

Lack of Rooms Hits Campus at Mid-term

Preston Hayes, director of the University Student Housing Bureau, announced yesterday that Lincoln residents will be asked to provide rooms for an estimated 600 to 700 men and women who will enter the university for the second semester.

Pointing out that housing needs are as critical now as last fall, since much of the surplus housing space has been absorbed, Mr. Hayes stated that the Housing Bureau is averaging at present 30 to 35 students per day seeking rooms for next semester and that only five or six requests have been filled.

Serious Situation.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the housing situation, Mr. Hayes said, "Nearly 85 percent of our requests are from single men, most

Use Ingenuity! Find Disguise For Arts Ball

If you have an inhibited imagination, you will have full opportunity to release it in the Beaux Arts Ball Feb. 7.

The costume theme is radio-television (Am-FM, same as on those signs that clutter the Union walls). If your imagination can meet this challenge successfully, you may win one of the prizes that will reward the cleverest costume, announces Maryjean Corcoran, chairman of the ball.

Special Offer.

As a very special offer, Miss Corcoran informs us that there will be an auction of valuable paintings. These paintings were done by students of Nebraska's school of fine arts. This will be only one of the high points of the ball.

At this ball, the fellows who "stag it" will have fun, too, for the ball committee has made arrangements to make sure that everyone has fun.

Tickets for the ball are now being sold by members of all the Fine Arts honorary sororities. Single admission is 76 cents, and $1.20 for a couple.

Cyclones Tip Scarlet 61-44

The Iowa State Cyclones controlled the ball off both backboards Monday night as they forged a decisive 61-44 victory. The Huskers were only in the game for the first 10 minutes, after that the Iowa Staters ran up a commanding lead which they never lost.

American Youth Hostels Open Widespread Travel Campaign

BY EUGENE BERMAN

A desire to travel and to see the world is characteristic of most college students. It is in recognition of this fact that the American Youth Hostels, Inc., a non-profit educational organization, during the past twelve years have allowed American hostellers to log up half a million overnights in their own country and believe some 10,000 of them to travel abroad enjoying the welcome of affiliated hostellers in 24 countries.

This year the A. Y. H. has scheduled trips to Europe and throughout the North American continent in addition to two week, inter-regional trips in this country. A comprehensive outline of the plans for this summer will be given in a series of four articles dealing with these subjects: The American Youth Hostels, North and Central American Trips, Work Projects, and finally, European Hostels.

The Simple Life

Living simply, traveling almost entirely "under their own steam,"

by means of bicycles, hostellers have an opportunity to mingle with people from all walks of life and to gain a feeling of oneness with the world. The activities of this group are supported by the newly-formed National Student Organization.

Any passholder may join in a summer of education and travel on a Youth Hostel sponsored trip, for hostelling is open to all. "Hostelling is for those with a stout heart and a pioneer spirit who seek the adventure of the open road," according to the A. Y. H. Bulletin. Passholder fee, including the A. Y. H. quarterly, Knapsack, and handbook is $1.50 a year for those under 21; $2.50 a year for adults. A $15 non-refundable registration fee is charged for each project. Upon receipt of these free complete information concerning the various trips is sent.

Minimum of Gear

UN Alumni In Tennessee Ask for Club

The university alumni association has received a petition from Oak Ridge, Tennessee, home of the nation's chief atomic energy research project, to establish an alumni chapter there.

Association president Arthur A. Dobson of Lincoln said the petition would be considered by the Executive committee at its meeting in February. If the appeal is approved, the Oak Ridge club would become the thirty-sixth Nebraska alumni chapter to be organized in the nation.

Officers.

The new club will be called the East Tennessee Alumni club, and will be headed by Chris P. Keim, president. Keim authored most of the organizational activities. Mrs. Curtis Nelson will be the first vice president, J. W. Mumford will be secretary, and Mrs. C. R. Stoltz and Dr. J. L. Diamond will be members of the executive committee.

Many of the members of the club are identified with industrial work at Oak Ridge, according to Fritz Daly, secretary of the alumni association. The Tennessee club will observe the university's 78th birthday with a Charter Day dinner at Oak Ridge Feb. 15.

Art Students Open Publicity Drive With Pagliacci Posters

BY RUTH ANN FINKLE.

Morrill Hall has seen more than usual activity during the last month on the part of the art department as student classes prepare colorful posters to advertise the School of Fine Arts' forthcoming production of the opera "Pagliacci." This year's opera produced by the combined efforts of music, speech and art departments, will be presented February 6, 7 and 8 in Temple Theater.

Poster-making has been divided among various art classes, Miss Kady Faulkner's sophomore composition, Mrs. Clara Allen's and Mr. Murray Turnbull's section of beginning drawing logic, and Mrs. Allen's lettering classes.

Illustrate Plot.

Scenes illustrating incidents suggesting the opera plot are made on heavy cardboard and combined with lettering executed by students in lettering classes. Working in pastel chalks or crayons, the freshmen drawing logic classes are not allowed to use human figures in their portrayals, but may use creative objects such as toy clowns, daggers, masks or drums. A near-surrealistic effect is obtained, the objects being symbols of what is meant to be portrayed. Sophomore classes are unrestricted in their choice of subject matter in designing their illustrations. Tempera paints have proved a popular medium.

Work on the posters has progressed since before Christmas when Miss Faulkner played recordings of the opera score and read the synopsis of the story to the classes, discussing it with them before they began. The assignment was considered particularly good for practice in expressing one central thought in an illustration.

Encountering Difficulties.

Difficulties were encountered when it was discovered that finished posters this year were not to be the same size as those last year, as had been assumed, but smaller, making it necessary to cut down many of the completed illustrations. Added to this was the fact that the posters are being done on cardboard heavier than the poster board to which they will be attached. Some of the shorter girls have found the cardboard unwieldy and have resorted to laying them on the floor, working on hands and knees!

Tickets for the opera are on sale until February 1 from members of University Singers, who form the chorus for the production; at a booth in the Union; at the school of music office; and at Walt's Music Store. Price is 75 cents including tax.
