Honoraries To Sponsor Ball Friday

Sponsored by honoraries in the fine arts department, the annual Beaux Arts Ball will be held Friday night from 9 to 12 p. m. in the Union ballroom.

As indicated by the puzzling publicity posters, "AM-FM," the theme of the ball centers on television and radio. Prizes will be awarded for the five costumes judged best by Fritz Craig, local architect, and Tom Sheffrey, engineer at KFAB.

Johnny Cox's orchestra will play for the ball, and during an intermission a program will be presented by members of the music and speech departments.

At 11 p. m., a fifteen minute "on the spot" radio show will be broadcast from the ballroom over station KFAB.

During the evening an auction of paintings by undergraduate art students will be held.

Tickets which are priced at $1.20 per couple and 76c each, are being sold by members of the fine arts honorary organizations. A ticket booth is open in the union, and purchases may be made at the door Friday night.

Second Semester Activity Tickets Ready for Sale

So that new second semester students may have a chance to see athletic events this spring, the department of athletics has printed a second semester student activity card, athletic director A. J. Lewandowski announced today.

New athletic cards are priced at $3, federal tax included, and are on sale now at the student activity office in the Coliseum between 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

Identification cards must be shown at time of purchase, Lewandowski declared, and there will be no special student prices on sale the afternoon or evening of an athletic contest.

"PAGLIACCI" STAGE CHORUS

Reservations For Opera Now On Sale At Temple

Reservations for the school of fine arts' production of "Pagliacci" this weekend are now available at Temple theater box office. Tickets purchased during the last two weeks may be exchanged there for reserved seats, between the hours of 12:30 and 6 p. m. Thursday, the opening night of the three-performance run.

Ticket sales move today from various booths over the campus to the Temple box office, for the convenience of students so that they can make reservations at the same time that they buy the tickets, according to Business Manager Keith Sturdevant. Price of tickets is 75 cents including federal tax.

The five character cast includes Richard Koupal as Canio, Cleve Genslinger as Tonio, Margaret Shelley as Nedda, Robert Pouch as Peppe and Dale Ganz as Silvio. The stage chorus, pictured above, includes Robert Diers, Phyllis Gardner, Helen Rodin and Laura Wilterdink. Those standing are James Richard, Bernie Breck, Ray Schaumburg, Max Johns and Aubrey Pettit. Both cast and stage chorus were chosen from University Singers, who will augment the stage group from boxes flanking the stage.

Dr. Arthur Westbrook, director of the school of fine arts, will conduct the performances. The entire production is a result of combined efforts of music, art and speech departments. Constructing and painting the stage sets, the art department has furnished the colorful posters placed over the campus and city. The speech department has coached the principals and will direct the staging of the production.

For the first time this year, the annual opera presentation will be sung by a single cast and will run three nights instead of the usual two. Curtain time is 8 p. m.

Means Lists Clarifications Of Phys Ed

In view of the many requests received by the administration regarding physical education requirements and possible enrollment for men, Louis E. Means, director of physical education, has made the following clarifications for the benefit of all men students.

1. All students taking Military Science are NOT compelled to register for physical education activity classes.

2. Students who are registered for Military Science MAY elect any one credit hour activity course in physical education which meets their interest and recreational desires. Several courses are available at all hours in the day for recreational physical education, each carrying regular credit.

3. Students who have seen military service, and who are not taking military science are not compelled to elect classes in physical education. However, hundreds of veterans are electing courses and all are open to veterans at their pleasure.

4. Students who have already registered but who did not have full information about activity courses available to them, and who still desire to enroll in such a course for credit, are invited to call at 207 Coliseum AT ONCE and secure an add slip completing enrollment in a class of their choice. This must be done before Monday, February 10.

5. Best courses available in meeting recreational and exercise needs are those in swimming, gymnastics, general recreation, recreational sports, boxing, wrestling, tennis, golf and corrective and remedial gymnastics.

Notice to Veterans

There has been some misunderstanding on the part of a few veterans as to the obtaining of books or of non-expendable supplies more than once. May we call attention to Item No. 7 on the reverse side of the purchase authorization which states, "You may not purchase on your veteran's account the same item twice." For example, a book obtained by a veteran the first semester, and used during a subsequent semester in another course, may not be obtained again. Books and non-expendable supplies that are lost, stolen, mutilated or disposed of will not be replaced at government expense.

During the rush of supplying books to several thousand students the first of the semester, it is inevitable that some veterans may have had a book or certain supplies re-issued to them. In such cases you would be doing yourself and the university a favor by returning such items to the store at once. Your veteran's account will be credited the proper amount, and it will not be necessary later to ask you to return the unauthorized items. Veterans Consultation Board J. P. Colbert, Director.

Chancellor Gives Midyear Degrees

Degrees for 220 students were granted Saturday by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson in the first midyear commencement since 1918. The degrees included: 163 bachelors, 34 masters, 24 doctor of dental surgery, six associate, and four doctor of philosophy.

Federal District Judge John W. Delehant, delivering the commencement address, told the graduates that freedom permitted educational institutions to seek the truth is inseparably linked with the continuing strength and effectiveness of American democracy.

Encourage Education. "We must persevere in our encouragement and patronage of education under all legitimate auspices, in the persuasion that its benefits will redound alike to the nation and to all of us individually. At the same time we must avert the blighting hand of official control from the instructional material of education, leaving it free to fulfill its mission in the discovery and inculcation of truth. We must take care that education, with us, shall be in bondage only to objective verity," the judge declared.

"Even in our national society," he continued, "There are countless members who, out of one consideration or another, would gladly purchase a specious material security at the sacrifice of the very independence that principally distinguishes the United States from its sister nations. And along with other liberties they would surrender to the state the prerogative of educating its citizens according to some standardized intellectual formula.

Tongue-in-Cheek Freedom.

"That suggestion we must resist. If it be allowed to prevail, we may no longer speak, except with tongue in cheek, of American freedom. In a half century, at the most, it will have undergone a distortion so comprehensive that it will have lost its essence. See CHANCELLOR, page 2.

All students interested in working for The Daily Nebraskan should report to the Daily Nebraskan office in the basement of the Union at any time between 1 and 5 p. m. this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon, according to Shirley Jenkins, editor.
