Tense moment from "Pagliacci" . . .

Shelley, Koupal Pictured In Tense Opera Scene

Pictured in a tense moment from the final scene of "Pagliacci," the opera which the University Singers and the school of fine arts will present tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, are tenor Richard Koupal and soprano Margaret Shelley.

Climaxing an intrigue story of secret love affairs, jealousy and passion, the clown Canio stabs his wife Nedda whom he has discovered in a plot to run away from the traveling group of players with a local youth she has met in the town where the actors are giving a play called "Pagliacci."

Going on stage after learning that his wife is unfaithful to him, Canio plays the clown through his heart is breaking until he realizes that the situation in the play parallels his own real life plight. Then he loses control, stabs Nedda and when Silvio rushes forward to cave her, he kills him, too.

"Pagliacci" is one of the few operas included by Henry W. Simon in his recent best seller published by Simon and Schuster, "A Treasury of Grand Opera." Since its first performance at the Metropolitan in 1893, it has been a favorite with American audiences.

Tickets may be purchased at the Temple box office where reservations have been available since Monday. Reserved seats can be obtained from 12:30 to p. m. until Thursday evening, opening night. Price is 75 cents including tax.

Union Posts Advance List Of Activities

A new schedule of activities for the Ag union and also the change in hours of operation for the grill has been posted.

The grill will be closed from 6 to 7:30 p. m. Monday thru Saturday. The run has been so light at this time that the management feels its operation is not practical.

Bridge lessons for beginners will begin Tuesday, Feb. 11, and continue weekly for six weeks. They will be held at 5 p. m. in the recreation room with Dale Ball instructing. As the players become more advanced, tournaments will be scheduled.

REPORTERS!!!

All students interested in working for the Daily Nebraskan should report to the Daily Nebraskan office in the basement of the Union at any time between 1 and 5 p. m. this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon, according to Shirley Jenkins, editor.

Coeds Sponsor Annual Penny Carnival Fest

Coed Counselors will sponsor their annual Penny Carnival on Feb. 15, in Grant Memorial gymnasium from 2 to 4 p. m.

Every organized house and sorority on the campus has been invited to participate in the carnival by submitting plans for and arranging an entertainment booth. The booths will be voted on by students attending the carnival and will be judged by a committee of faculty members. The best booth will be awarded a trophy which is presented every year. Second and third place winners will receive honorable mention.

Theme.

In the past, these booths have featured a variety of topics from a valentine theme, to a sincerely recommended piece of leg art. Who knows—Richard may even go so far as to open the door.

Tickets, which are now on sale and may also be purchased at the door on February, will be punched as they are used at each booth and will serve as ballots in the voting. The results of the booth contest will be announced at 4:00 climaxing the carnival.

The general committee in charge of the affair is composed of Beverly Jackson and Mary Dye who have chosen other committees to prepare for this event.

Enrollment Figure Hits Record Peak

BY DON AMSDEN

Though final registration figures are not complete, a record-breaking university enrollment is assured for the second semester, and a peak of 10,000 students may be reached, Dr. George W. Rosenlof, director of admissions, has announced.

While late registrations were delaying final compilation of the figures, Dr. Rosenlof indicated that it was "very clear that total enrollment for the second semester would exceed first semester enrollment." The final figure will be "in excess of 9,700 and may reach 10,000 students," he said.

Maximum Enrollment.

Either figure would top by a considerable margin the highest previous enrollment of 9,500 students recorded last fall. Largest enrollment in the records previous to last semester was that of 1938 when 6,789 students were registered.

"Instructional facilities will be taxed to the limit, particularly in engineering, the sciences and in mathematics," Dr. Rosenlof pointed out. "However, we were still able to take care of better than 95 percent of the needs of the students enrolled," he continued cheerfully.

Few Schedule Difficulties.

The registrar indicated that very few students would find this semester's schedules poorly balanced, and even those few will have time to iron out the difficulties during their four years at the university.

"The registrar's office appreciates very much the patience of the student body in accepting the conditions under which they were forced to register," Dr. Rosenlof told The Daily Nebraskan. "We had the finest kind of co-operation from both the student body and the faculty," he concluded.

AWS Presents Vocation Guide Lecture Series

The first of a series of vocational lectures presented by the AWS board under the heading of "Fem Future" will be held in Ellen Smith hall at 5 p. m., Feb. 11. Nursing will be the topic for discussion, and Miss Irma M. Kyle, director of the school of nursing, will be the principal speaker.

Other professions which will be the topic of discussion at future lectures include marriage, fashion designing, teaching, and personnel work. In the lectures, two points of view will be considered: That of the employer who has the knowledge of what is expected in the profession and that of the instructor who provides training in the field of work. Major emphasis will be given to the transition period from the time the student leaves college to the time he is employed in his particular profession. All students attending the lectures will have the opportunity to ask questions of the speakers.

AWS is sponsoring the series at the request of many women students. The board is putting forth effort to make the lectures as helpful as possible, particularly to those who have not yet decided upon their careers. All women students are invited to attend. Any students having additional topic suggestions should refer them to Virginia Buckingham, chairman of the series.

Notice to Veterans

There has been some misunderstanding on the part of a few veterans as to the obtaining of books or of non-expendable supplies more than once. May we call attention to them No. 7 on the reverse side of the purchase authorization which states, "You may not purchase on your veterans' account the same item twice." For example, a book obtained by a veteran the first semester, and used during a subsequent semester in another course, may not be obtained again. Books and non-expendable supplies that are lost, stolen, mutilated or disposed of will not be replaced at government expense.

During the rush of supplying books to several thousand students the first of the semester, it is inevitable that some veterans may have had a book or certain supplies re-issued to them. In such cases you would be doing yourself and the university a favor by returning such items to the store at once. Your veteran's account will be credited the proper amount and it will not be necessary later to ask you to return the unauthorized items. Veterans Consultation Board J. P. Colbert, Director.

Arndt Will Talk on Vet Panel Today

Prof. Karl M. Arndt, popular lecturer in the economics department, will give his opinions on the question, "Should the income tax law be changed" on "Veterans' Views" radio broadcast in Union lounge at 4:00 o'clock this afternoon.

Ross Martin, Lincoln business man and member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Committee on income tax revision, will discuss the same question. Both men will answer questions from the audience as is the custom at this Univet and KFAB sponsored broadcast.

Veteran student members of the panel are Don Morrow, arts and science sophomore, and Roland Luedtke, arts and science junior. The former is chairman of the Lancaster Young Democrats club and the latter holds the same position in the Lancaster Young Republicans club.

This is the fifth broadcast in the second series of thirteen sponsored by ARNDT Page 2, Col. 2.

MB Scholarships Will Be Awarded To Five Women

Scholarships of $75 each will be awarded five women students by Mortar Board, women's national honorary society, President Eleanor Knoll has announced.

Recipients will be asked to turn in two recommendations: one, from a person not connected with the university, giving the applicant's ability and need, and another from a professor who knows of her scholarship and aptitude.

Women students carrying 12 or more hours a semester are eligible. Applications, available at Ellen Smith hall, must be returned in by March 1 to Miss Marion Priest at Ellen Smith.

Announcement of winners will be made at the Mortar Board Scholarship tea March 9.

School of Fine Arts Presents Recital Today

The university school of fine arts will present a departmental recital today at 4 p. m. Twenty eight students will participate.
