taken to the hospital where a second attack yesterday was fatal.

Chancellor Makes Statement

Chancellor Gustavson issued the following statement on behalf of the university: "The death of Regent Hascall is a tremendous loss to all of the people of the state of Nebraska. His sterling quality of fairness and his enthusiasm for the university and the best interests of the state, together with his untiring energy, made him stand out as one of the great citizens of this state. UN Selected To Conduct Atomic Work

BY JACK HILL.

The university has been notified that it will participate in the research program of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission's Argonne National Laboratory, it was learned today.

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, commenting on the choice, pointed out that the university is one of 25 institutions so honored in this country and said that the event is of "tremendous consequence to the university's research program in behalf of the state's industry and agriculture. What it means is that the university's research scientists will have at their disposal tremendous atomic energy laboratories which would cost the state of Nebraska over $10,000,000 to install on campus."

Argonne Labs.

The Argonne National Laboratories, located near Chicago, took an essential part in the Manhattan project, which was instrumental in developing the atomic bomb.

Nebraska will benefit in manifold ways, the Chancellor commented, since the university will loan research scientists to the laboratory to help solve problems connected with industrial power and military usage.

Bringing this co-operative action closer to home, Gustavson said that problems in basic and applied sciences peculiar to this state, such as research in crop and livestock breeding, will be taken to the Chicago laboratories with the possibility that their solution may lie in the direction of the use of atomic energy.

Reciprocal Agreement.

In turn, under the reciprocal agreement, problems met by the Argonne unit in the field of atomic energy usage will be turned over to various institutions. The Chancellor pointed out that Nebraska will be particularly

Percy Chen Outlines Chinese Role Today

PERCY CHEN.

Student Convo Begins at 3 P.M.

BY ELOISE PAUSTIAN

Percy Chen, head of China's league of Democratic Parties, will lecture on "Behind the Chinese Screen" at an all-university convocation in the Union ballroom at 3:00 p. m. today.

Chen is leader of the upsurge of democratic parties in China, which is considered the most significant development since the fall of the empire in 1911. The League, taking a middle course between the leftist Communists and rightist incumbent Kuomintang, is designed to set up a constitutional government like that of the United States. It proposes Sun Fo, son of Sun Yat Sen, for the presidency as an ideal figure to unite China's warring factions.

Today Chen is Secretary General of the China Society of International law and holds other public posts of distinction. Son of China's famous editor and political leader, Eugene Chen, he is regarded as a "chip off the old block," particularly in writing and speaking skill. He has contributed widely to magazines and newspapers in England, China, and the United States.

Rev. Tishkins to Speak At All-Campus Vespers

The Rev. Frank Tishkins, associate pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, will lead the worship service at all-campus Vespers today at 5 p. m. in room 315 of the Union.

Student leader for this week's vesper program is Beverly Sievers.

'Attendance' At Senior's Convo Asked

"Attendance at the special convocation of the graduating class of 1947 today at 5 p. m. in the Union ballroom by all seniors is an absolute necessity," Mary Claire Phillips, chairman of Senior Week Committee, announced. According to Miss Phillips there is a strong chance of having Senior Week if seniors show enough interest in backing the program.

Plans for a week with senior examinations replaced by a week of social activities for fourth year students will be presented by the senior class and the student council at the meeting. If the idea is accepted by the seniors, it will be turned over the faculty for a decision. Students should also bring any suggestions they might have for activities during the week.

Under this plan, seniors would meet with alumni officers during that week in order to learn the activities of alum clubs and ways in which they may help the university after being graduated.

Student Wives Reactivate Club

The university chapter of the National Association of University Dames, which has been inactive on this campus for two years, has been reorganized.

The University Dames, a group of student wives, meets twice a month during the school year for the sole purpose of social contact with other girls of similar interests and circumstances.

Those eligible for membership in the University Dames are wives of students registered in any department of the university. The music appreciation interest group of the University Dames will meet at 7:30 p. m. Friday in room 315 of the Union.

All students wives are welcome.

Vets' Forum On Juveniles Aired Today

"How Can Juvenile Delinquency Be Abolished" is the question to be discussed at 4 p. m. this afternoon on the Veterans' Views' forum, according to Bud Levinson, director of radio for the Veterans Organization.

The forum will follow its regular format. The first fifteen minutes will be taken up by the four speakers and the final half of the program devoted to questions and opinions from members of the audience.

Speakers.

The list of speakers includes Rev. Gerald Kennedy, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church and a well-known civic leader, who has discussed the juvenile delinquency problem over the air on several occasions.

Judge John L. Polk, a district judge of Lancaster county, who formerly heard juvenile delinquency cases in the district courts.

Don Chartes, a veteran and a graduate student in Teachers College, is working on his masters degree in Educational Psychology.

Mary Dye, Junior in Teachers College majoring in English and a member of the university debate team.

Problem.

The Juvenile delinquency problem has grown to alarming proportions. It is a problem that should hold an interest for everyone who someday expect to marry and raise a family.

The subject for discussion on next week's program of "Veterans' Views" will be "Should College Athletics Be Subsidized?"

Mystery, Suspense Found In 'Angel Street' Production

With opening night at the University theater's production of Patrick Hamilton's "Angel Street" only one week away, the Temple stage is rapidly taking on the appearance of a gloomy interior of an aged London house.

Having the latter part of the 1800's as its time of action, the play is set in a room described by the author as "furnished in all the heavily draped and dingy profusion of the period." Theatergoers who like their drama filled with terror will relish the moments of suspense and near-horror that abound in "Angel Street."

Murderer

Mr. Manningham, who the appearance of a respectable gentleman when outside the old, grey stone residence on Angel Street, is actually a hardened murderer whose present evil-doing is torturing his wife into insanity so that he will be free to search the house for a fortune that he knows is hidden in it somewhere. A friendly detective appears on the scene, suspecting that all is not as it should be in the Manningham household, and secretly comes to the aid of Mrs. Manningham, bringing relief to her and the audience as well.

The Manninghams

Barbara Berggren will play the difficult role of the poor, failing Mrs. Manningham. Mr. Manningham, handsome and severely commanding, will be played by William Lucas. Rex Coslor is playing the part of the detective.

Pat Boyd will play the part of the flirtatious Nancy, the maid, who doesn't restrict her coquetry to off-time hours. Elizabeth, the cook and housekeeper, will be played by Dorothea Duxbury.

Max Whittaker is directing "Angel Street," and has as his assistant director Lorene Novotny. Charles Zoeklor is the technical director.

Walter Davis is acting as stage manager, and Dale Lemonds heads the construction crew. Included in the construction crew are Harold Marer, Richard Petrashek, Arthur Stimpfig, and Dorothy Lasher.

Dave Andrews, Lorina Bullock, and Richard Espergren comprise the light crew. Beverly Cummins and Gertude Page are handling the costumes and make-up.

On the property and sound effects crew are Dean Graunke, Marilyn Miller, D. Ann Richardson, and Orville Schmieding.

Arlis Swanson, business manager for the University Theater, will be in charge of all reservations and ticket sales, assisted by Dorothea Duxbury, assistant business manager. Norm Leger is handling the publicity.
