to boost the Husker point total, but their efforts were not enough. Cooper cleared 13 feet, 4 3/4 inches to win, while Miller dropped out after clearing 13 feet.

The Husker relay team was the other Scarlet entry to take a first. Don Vollerston, Loyal Hurlbert, Jim Martin and Bill Conner sped the mile in 3:28 to take first ahead of Missouri.

Martin took over Harvey Stroud's leg in the race.

Oklahoma high jumper Bill Lambeth lived up to early season notices by leaping 6 feet 5 inches to replace Dwayne Fee-ken's record of 6 feet 4 inches which was established last year. The Sooner ace went three inches higher than Monte Kinder of Nebraska and Delevin Norris of Kansas could accomplish.

Other Husker point winners were Dick Piderit who got third in the shot with a toss of 48 feet 7 1/4 inches; Loyal Hurlbert, who finished in the 440; Dick Hutton and Al Thompson who pulled up second and fourth in the 60 yard dash and Ralph King and Bob Berkshire who placed third and fifth respectively in the 60 yard high hurdles.

It was lack of strength in the 60 yard low hurdles, plus Stroud's injury which blasted Nebraska's hopes of replacing Iowa State on the Big Six track throne. The Cyclones, first for the past three years, wound up a dismal last with 6 1/2 points. Summary:

60-yard high hurdles: Won by Robert Blakeley (Missouri); second, Floyd Gaultney (Missouri); third, Frank Stannard (Kansas); fourth, Ralph King (Nebraska); fifth, tie between Bob Berkshire (Nebraska) and Jon Sharp (Oklahoma). Art Exhibit Opens Today; Prizes For Student Critics

When the Nebraska Art association's 57th annual art exhibition opens tomorrow, students will not only be admitted free to the show of contemporary American art, will be given an opportunity to express their reactions in a form that will pay off!

Awarded to students who write the best articles, 500 to 1,000 words in length, will be original etchings, lithographs and silk screen prints by art professors Dwight Kirsch, Kady B. Faulkner, Murray Turnbull and Clara Marie Allen.

Originated last year, the contest has been divided into two classes, one for general students, and one for art majors, prizes being awarded to winners in both divisions. According to Miss Faulkner, the faculty decided on this change to make competition fairer and to encourage more students to enter.

Essays may be either serious or humorous in nature, the main objective being to bring out the individual's reaction. Entries must reach the art department office, 207 Morrill hall, by 5 p. m. March 17.

Manuscripts must be clearly hand-written or typed, double-spaced, on one side of the paper only, and endorsed on the back of the last page with contestant's name, address, major or college.

Annual College Photography Show To Open

Kappa Alpha Mu, national pictorial journalism honor fraternity, will sponsor the second annual 50-print Collegiate Photography exhibition at the University of Missouri during "Journalism Week," according to W. J. Bell, secretary.

Any college or university student is eligible to enter from one to eight prints, using news, features or pictorial subject matter. Prints will be judged by three outstanding judges, who will also select those for representation in the fourth annual "Fifty Print" professional show.

There is no entry fee, but pictures must be sent prepaid. Prints may be in any size but must be mounted on standard 16"x20" boards. Deadline for entries is April 30.

Screen comedienne Cass Daley, currently in Paramount's "Ladies Man," has two dachshunds, Tip and Top, and each has a separate dog-house. Over the two canine apartments is a sign reading "To Each His Own!" and an arrow indicates which house belongs to which hound.

Debate . . .

Iowa University, Carleton college, Southeastern college, and the University of Denver. Ted Sorensen was one of 15 students ranking in the first division in individual debate ratings. More than 260 persons participated in this contest. Leroy T. Laase, chairman of the speech department and Donald Olson, director of debate, were in charge of arrangements for the annual conference.

Kosmet Revue Plans Tryouts

Tryouts for "Aksarben Nights," Kosmet Klub spring revue, are slated for Tuesday, March 4, and Wednesday, according to publicity chairman John Slothower.

"This is an all-male show," Slothower said, "and we have parts for speaking, singing and dancing. The speaking roles are good comedy, and offer a fine opportunity for campus Morgans or Hopes."

Candidates for the Revue should be ready at the Temple Theater stage at 7 p. m., Tuesday. Men trying out for singing roles should bring one song to use for auditioning.

"Aksarben Nights" will hit the boards April 18 and 19, under the direction of Max Whittaker.
