For Coeds Only . . .

Coeds go to the polls today to vote for the members of the boards of three women's activities—AWS, BABW and Coed Counselor. You can say, "Oh, it's just another election and my vote won't make any difference one way or the other," but you could be wrong.

In voting for members of the AWS board, you are voting for the people who will make and enforce the rules you will live by next year. Every coed in the university is a member of AWS and each shares in the responsibility of maintaining the rules set up by that organization. The regulations deal with hours for organized houses, delinquencies and special permissions, which apply to most coeds on the campus at some time or other. The board which you elect should be representative of all groups.

The BABW board is the body which co-ordinates activities of unaffiliated coeds, recognizing those women who have been outstanding in campus activities at the end of each year. In voting for this board, also, unaffiliated women are selecting coeds who will be their leaders next year.

The third board to be chosen today is the Coed Counselor board, which directs the activities of the Coed Counselors in acquainting freshmen and new students with the university. All women are eligible to cast ballots for this group of 13.

Two other ballots will be distributed at today's election, one for May Queen and one for Mortar Board. Junior and senior women vote on the May Queen, who presides at the annual Ivy Day festivities, and junior coeds have the opportunity to nominate from five to 20 juniors for Mortar Boards.

Every coed elected to the boards or honorary positions will be a leader in women's activities and will, in some way or another, affect the life of most of the voters. It will make a difference to you, whether or not you mark an "X" on the slip of paper handed you today in Ellen Smith hall.

Dial Twistings . . .

Wednesday night offers a variety of well known shows to the students who, tonight, will choose the radio as their source of entertainment.

Initiating this star studded list of programs is the Doctor Christian show at 7:30 heard over KFAB. This popular small town doctor is the favorite of millions of dial twistings. His portrayal of the well known country doctor touches the heart of all those who appreciate such semi-deep drama. Following Dr. Christian is a short summary of the day's news by one of radio's top news broadcasters, Bill Henry. Then, at 8:00, that most talked of man, Frank Sinatra, takes to the air to sing soft swaying tunes. For this feature KFAB is again at your service at 1110 on your dial.

At 8:30 KFOR snatches the spotlight for one and one-half hours. Starting out with the Pot of Gold show, this is followed by Bing Crosby and Henry Morgan. The Pot of Gold with Tiny Ruffner as the M.C. is one of the highest paying programs of its kind and is guaranteed to be worth your while this evening. About now, everyone can stand a few minutes of variety, and so Bing Crosby presents his weekly 30 minute program with his guest for tonight, Al Jolson. This is a demand appearance for Al and the show tonight heard over KFOR at 9:00 is bound to hit the top in the way of radio enjoyment.

If, by now, your sides have not burst from laughing and you are sure you can stand more of the same, stay tuned to KFOR, for the 9:30 Henry Morgan broadcast over the ABC network. Henry Morgan with his dialects and varied form of comedy is predicted to be the outstanding comedian of the year by Esquire and Picture. At any rate, his show is near the top in radio listening and can be brought to you this evening.

Sports fans can catch up on the latest happenings in the world of sports by listening to Lyle Bremser's 15 minute resume of the day's happenings along the athletic line. Immediately following will be An Invitation to Music coming from CBS offering dance music for all those who request the same. Frankie Carle climaxes the day with a half hour interlude of the top tunes. After a short review of the news your local stations write off the day as a finished product.

Ticket sales have been limited to 425 couples to assure those attending ample dancing space. Students may purchase tickets for $5 per couple any time during the day in either the ag or city Union offices. In bringing Rey to the university, Miss Patricia Lahr, director of the union, has an-

YW To Hold Coke Dances

First Estes coke dance of the year is scheduled Friday, March 7, in Union parlors XYZ at 4 p. m., Nancy Gish, chairman of the joint YM-YW Estes Coop commission, announced yesterday.

To acquaint students with the purpose and program of the annual Estes summer conference, a series of coke dances is planned for the spring months. The dances are free, but there will be a charge for cokes and brownies, to help raise funds for the conference.

YM-YW Sponsors.

"The conference we are raising funds for now is held annually at Estes Park, Colorado," Miss Gish explained in announcing the coke dances. "Delegates from districts in the Rocky Mountain region meet to discuss problems that come up in the YM and YW groups on the individual campuses."

Sell Donuts.

Miss Gish reported that the YW has been selling peanuts and donuts in organized houses Monday nights to raise funds. "The whole object in raising funds is to send delegates from Nebraska to the Estes conference this summer," she said. "All houses who want to help by selling donuts are asked to send representatives to the YW group meetings, every Monday at 4 p. m."

Legislators . . .

men, there is no such building to house men students now. This, Round told the Senators, is a most urgent need.

Ellen Smith hall was shown the senators as a fine building when it was purchased by the University 25 years ago, but in ill repair and expensive to heat and light today.

Tour to Clarify Needs

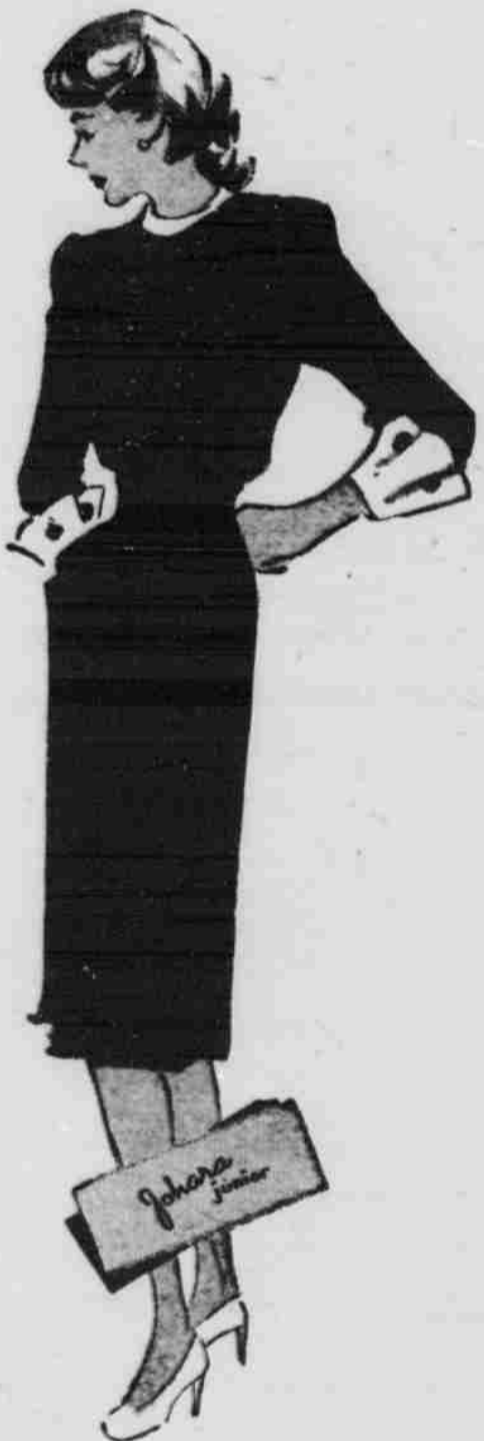

Since any major building program undertaken by the university must be financed by state tax money, which is customarily raised by property taxes, the senatorial committee made the buildings and grounds inspection to convince themselves of the need for a financial program. Also the special tax levy exists at the present time to provide for new buildings, a measure pending in the legislature (the Mueller bill) would create a property tax levy of one mill for ten years to finance the building program. The Mueller bill would give the university about $700,000 yearly, or $7,000,000 for the ten-year period. It is in connection with this bill that the budget committee is making the campus inspections.
