

Huskers Place Second, Third In Loop Meet

Although Iowa State teams won both the Big Six wrestling and swim crowns, the Nebraska entries in both championships were in the thick of the competition. Coach Hollie Lepley's swimming team placed second behind the Cyclones, while Coach Jerry Adam's wrestlers were third back of Oklahoma and the champion Iowa Staters.

Marvin Grimm won two individual events in the swim meet, placing first in the 60 yard free style and the 100 yard free style, as well as anchoring the Huskers' winning 400 yard free style relay combination.

Other members of the relay team were Dick Draper, Perry Branch and Jack Campbell.

Roger Moore wound up second in diving behind Winslow of Iowa State, while Les Oldfield placed third in the backstroke which was captured by Captain Doug Robison of the Iowa State squad. Bill Case was fourth in diving. Perry Branch rounded out the NU scoring by finishing third in the 60 yard free style and fifth in the 100 yard free style.

Nebraska's free style relay team set a new Big Six record by churning the distance in 3:43.5 to edge the Iowa State team by a yard.

DiBiase Wins.

Heavyweight Mike DiBiase was the only Scarlet bone bender to win an individual title. The Husker strongman decided Ray Klootwyck of Iowa State in the first round and then threw Henry Schreiner of Oklahoma in the finals in 7:45 1/2.

Ed Copple wound up in second place in the 155 pound class, losing in the finals to Pat Bush of Iowa State by an 8-2 margin.

Husker squadmen were well satisfied with their showing, since they beat out Kansas State for third place. Oklahoma's grapplers provided the big surprise by losing to the Cyclones a one point margin for the team championship.

Junior-Senior Prom Called Real 'Husker Tradition

As traditions go, the Nebraska cupboard appears to the casual observer as bare as Mother Hubbard's deep freeze unit. Nearly anything which has been making its appearance yearly for three years or four sessions is "traditional" according to copy writers' standards.

Even in 1911, the first Cornhusker on file in the present office reveals, the social life of the juniors and seniors was not neglected. The Junior Prom and Senior Prom were both held in the Lincoln hotel ballroom, a month apart. The picture suggests only sweeping has been done since. A musical aggregation known as "Walt's Orchestra" played selections from "The Girl of My Dreams" for the juniors, while the seniors had to be content with excerpts from "The Dollar Princess." Prices evidently have gone up since then.

In 1927, the first Senior-Junior prom to be held since World War I called a halt to campus social functions found 300 couples dancing in the elaborately decorated Coliseum. The president of the senior class, Robert Stephens, presented Miss Elice Holovtchiner as the representative social girl of the class as first Prom Girl.

Ten years later, more than three times the crowd, 2,000 couples, danced to Anson Weeks and his orchestra in the Coliseum. Closing the three-month formal season, the Prom presented Adrienne Griffiths as Prom Girl. Robert Wadhams and Floyd Baker, class presidents, escorted Miss Griffith thru the crowd to renew the dancing.

Last year's Prom Girl, Mary Cox, first to reign since 1943 joined the crowds who danced to the music of Sunny Dunham. Once again the war had broken into the succession, but normality was approaching.

decided Marshall Boker, Nebraska 2-0 in first round. Boker won consolation on bye.

155 pound class: Won by Pat Bush, Iowa State. Bush decided Ed Copple, Nebraska 8-2 in finals. Copple decided Leonard Marcotte, Oklahoma 4-1 in first round.

145 pound class: Won by Jim Eagleton, Oklahoma. Jim Clagett, Iowa State decided Andy Marinovich, Nebraska 4-1 in first round. Charles Lyons, Kansas State decided Marinovich 4-0 in consolation.

175 pound class: Won by Glen Brand, Iowa State. Brand pinned Fred Turner, Nebraska in 1:04 1/2 in first round. Charles Halbower, Kansas State decided Turner 3-2 in consolation.

Heavyweight: Won by Mike DiBiase, Nebraska. DiBiase pinned Henry Schreiner, Oklahoma in 7:45 1/2 in finals. DiBiase decided Ray Klootwyck, Iowa State 4-1 in first round.

Swindler to Talk On Journalism At AWS Lecture

Women interested in the journalistic profession will have an opportunity to discuss it with two practicing journalists at the AWS vocational talk today at 5 p. m. in Ellen Smith hall.

Dr. William Swindler, director of the school of journalism, and Miss Marcella Slajchert, columnist on the Lincoln Star, are slated to discuss aspects of journalism as a profession this afternoon in the current AWS series of talks on careers for women.

All women students are invited to attend, according to Dina Buckingham.

YM-YW Meet On Ag Tonight

The Ag YM-YW meeting tonight will include a brief report concerning the district YM-YW conference at Kearney, and movies.

Movies, shown by Don Meaders, will be of scenes on and around Ag campus this year and last spring. Some pictures taken in Urbana, Illinois during the National Student Assembly will also be shown.

The chili supper planned previously has been postponed according to Meaders.
