

Personally Speaking

By Norm Leger

This week in "Personally Speaking" you will find pictures and write-ups of students who have won elections this semester whose pictures have never appeared in the Daily Nebraskan. The pictures should have appeared at the time of elections, but didn't. Trying to obtain said pictures has given us a clue, so let the difficulty of getting the pictures (which sometimes borders on impossibility) serve as an explanation to you and to the election winners why the Daily Nebraskan has not always run photos of the people who make the headlines.

Yell King.

the cheerleading squad and was appointed by the Student Council as the new Yell King. As a Corn Cob active, Mart has had charge of flower sales (how well the pledges remember), served on the rally committee and helped to design the active members' keys. As if this weren't enough to fill his time, Mart, we hear, maintains an enviable average and spends time filling patients' teeth—we suspect that he finds time to eat and sleep, too!

Prom Girl.

If male eyes are popping at this next photograph, it's because Joan Fankhauser's picture is as capable of attracting the male eye as Jo is herself in real life. (The line forms in the Daily Nebraskan office—just outside the Cornhusker door.) A managing editor of the yearbook, Jo was presented at the Junior-Senior prom as the 1947 Prom Girl. A member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Jo in her three years at Nebraska has been able to keep the wolves away from the door long enough to become prominent activities woman. In addition to her Cornhusker duties, Jo serves on the Coed Counselor board, student council, and in YWCA. She has also served on the campus vespers committee and

Yell King. Mart, a dental college junior, could be called a BMOG for his height alone, which exceeds six feet by a good margin, but his campus activities give him the title too. Mart has served on the inter-fraternity council, the AUF advisory board, the erstwhile Aw-gwan and War Council, and is a past president of Sigma Chi. A member of Sinfonia, music fraternity, Mart has worked for the Student Foundation and is a member of Corn Cobs. (Take a breath here.) This year Mart was on is a member of the band, excellent flutist that she is. (And to think we took flute lessons one summer but never continued them...) If you want to know anything else, you'll have to ask Jo. We were foolish enough to think that we might find her at the house on the balmy Saturday afternoon that we had yesterday.

Masquer's Prexy.

Pushing our way through throngs of high school students who were milling around the Temple during the Fine Arts Festival, we found Dean Graunke hard at work on a set for one of the one-act plays.

At a meeting held last week, Dean, teachers college junior, was elected president of Nebraska Masquers for the coming year. Dean, known to everyone who has participated even in the slightest in university or experimental theater activities, has won the admiration of "behind-scenes" workers as well as of theater attendants who have seen him at numerous times on the Temple stage. Even while in the army, Dean had the opportunity to prove his histrionic talents, and in England he appeared in "Winterset," and "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." The University Theater plays in which he has appeared include

"Twelfth Night," "Ah, Wilderness," "Girl of the Golden West," and "Macbeth." Experimental productions: "Laura," and "The Cherry Orchard." At present, Dean is carrying the lead in the forthcoming "Pygmalion," and is a co-director of an experimental show soon to hit the boards, "Children of the Moon."
