kan was fortunate enough to have a picture of the new Ag president, Bernice Young, to run with the election story. But when the city campus election was held no picture appeared of the new president, Shirley Schnittker. Somewhat late, we present you with one now.

A junior in business administration college, Shirley is majoring in accounting and economics. As evidence of her superior scholarship, she is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary for freshmen women with a 90% or above average, and Phi Chi Theta, bizad honorary. In addition to the YWCA, her activities include Tassels and coed counselors. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

VETS NEWS

The pre-convention platform on domestic affairs, drawn up for AVC by the noted national economist Robert Nathan, received a vote of approval during the Tuesday evening meeting of the American Veterans committee chapter, according to Morriss Brodwin, group chairman.

Plans for holding a foreign affairs forum with university faculty members participating were formulated by the AVC executive council.

Ralph Kunkle, jr. and John Dowd were initiated into the organization during Tuesday's meeting.

Gladwin Young Compares U.S. Life With Russ

BY BOB ASKEY.

Life on farms in Byelorussia, in the south central part of Russia, is primitive compared with American standards, Gladwin E. Young, field representative of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, told students and faculty members attending a university convocation Tuesday afternoon.

"It will be a decade before mechanization of farms can be brought back to the standards reached by Russia in 1940," Mr. Young said. "It will be a generation before farm home conveniences such as pumps, good cook stoves and heating units are available. It may be many generations before farms will have such luxury items as power washing and sewing machines and electric lights.

"Farm people in Russia were friendly and hospitable; they realized their debt to us," he continued.

During the six months he spent in Russia in 1946 as USDA representative, Mr. Young made many Kodachrome slides, which he showed following his brief talk.

Phi Alpha Delta To Hold Lecture

Professors E. Belsheim and L. B. Orfield will be guest speakers at the Phi Alpha Delta smoker, to be held in Room 315, Union, at 7:30 tonight for pre-law students.

Professor Belsheim will speak on the proposed legal aid clinic, while Professor Orfield's subject will be "The Legislative Function." All pre-law students are required to attend.

Officers of Phi Alpha Delta pointed out that the fraternity is for law students and not for pre-law students as erroneously reported in Wednesday's Daily Nebraskan.
